Called 'Deserter' of Allied Cause.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—Accused by the United States of active and continuing aid to axis powers, Argentina tonight was branded a deserter to the allied cause and faced diplomatic isolation among her sister American republics.

A long step toward forcing such isolation was taken by Secretary of State Hull in a statement in which he charged Argentina was aiding the axis and recommended that American republics and other allied nations continue their policy of nonrecognition of Argentina until that nation has mended its ways.

Hull charged Argentina with breaking the solid front of American nations against aggression from other parts of the world.

Hull's statement has been circulated among the other 19 American republics and none has indicated disapproval of its charges and recommendations, it was learned at the state department.

Sanctions Possible.

The next step, should one be taken to force Argentina to coöperate in this government's program for hemispheric solidarity, would be to impose economic sanctions, which admittedly would topple the regime of President Edelmiro J. Farrell and possibly bring into being a government more in sympathy with the allied cause.

However, no official of the state department would discuss the possibility of economic sanctions tonight. It was believed to be Hull's hope that diplomatic isolation will force the South American republic into coöperation with the allies.

Great Britain is understood to be in favor of the American position on Argentina expressed in Hull's statement, and ready to participate in economic sanctions, despite the crimp which a stoppage of Argentine food exports would put in the program for feeding nationals of allied countries and the people of liberated war areas.

Climaxes Long Consultations.

The state department has no intention of meddling in the internal affairs of Argentina, officials said. The charges and recommendations in Hull's pronouncement are intended as measures to speed the war against the axis, it was said.

Weeks of diplomatic consultation preceded the drafting of Hull's statement. Relations between the United States and Argentina have been strained for more than two years. Norman Armour, American ambassador to Argentina, was recalled a month ago, and Adrian Escobar, Argentine ambassador to the United States, was called home by his government this week.

Nonrecognition of the Farrell regime does not constitute an open break between Argentina and the United States, a state department official declared. Economic and cultural relations continue, an American military mission is still in Buenos Aires, and the American embassy staff remains on duty in the Argentine capital.

Violates Peru Pact.

In his statement, Hull recalled that for eight years prior to Pearl Harbor the American republics have strived to perfect a system of inter-American coöperation as a defense against attacks by nations in other parts of the world. Countries of the western hemisphere affirmed their solidarity at their conference in Lima, Peru, in 1933, he said.

"The American republics," Hull said, "jointly with all the united nations are engaged in a war of unprecedented magnitude for the protection and preservation of the liberties of each and all of them against the most powerful aggressors in history. In this war, the United States has over 11 million of its own men under arms.

"Our men are fighting the enemy on every battle front in the world, and tens of thousands of them never will return to partake of the privileges of that liberty for which they are fighting. For gen-

Dewey Ruling Seen as Tip on Fall Strategy

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Refusal yesterday of Mayor Kelly's men to hang a picture of Gov. Dewey, Republican candidate for President, next that of the Democratic nominee in the service men's center at 430 S. Michigan av. makes it plain that every wartime agency is to be used in promoting a fourth term for Mr. Roosevelt, it was charged last night.

Daniel L. Flaherty.

Roosevelt's portrait, blown up to 56 square feet, dominates the mess hall where 6,000 soldiers and sailors daily consume the food, drink, smokes, and entertainment provided by thousands of Chicagoans. The only other clew as to their benefactors which they see is the name of Mayor Kelly as sponsor of the center.

John F. Tyrrell, Republican state chairman, suggested a motive for the action of Kelly's men in hiding the Dewey portrait presented to the center Tuesday in behalf of the G. O. P. central committee of Cook county.

Grist For 4th Term Mill.

"This establishes beyond doubt that this and every other war-time activity is to be used to help the New Deal candidate get a fourth term," Tyrrell said.

"Here we find the soldier's good time, with its nonpartisan financial basis, turned into grist for the fourth term mill. Why shouldn't the soldiers see Mr. Roosevelt's opponent whose backers also keep the service men's centers running?

"The Dewey picture censorship is made of the same stuff as the fraudulent federal blank ballot.

"Where the New Dealers formerly pleaded that Mr. Roosevelt was the indispensable man, now they apparently want the soldiers to believe he is the only candidate for President."

Daniel L. Flaherty, director of all the service men's centers, echoed the words of Mayor Kelly at Eagle River, Wis., in saying that Roosevelt's picture was hung in the service center because he is President and commander in chief.

Politics on Trip Recalled.

"The irony of this lies in the fact that almost within the shadow of this service men's center, the President, on a supposedly secret military excursion, called two of his political bosses into his train to dictate the choice of the Democratic Vice Presidential candidate," Tyrrell said.

"That visit to the special train by Robert Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, and Mayor Kelly, destroyed in fact the last vestiges of the carefully fostered superstition that Mr. Roosevelt has risen above politics.

"Did the Democratic party pay for the train on which this political conference was held? I would say that the expense, shared by all taxpayers, was the least political feature of the trip climaxed by Mr. Roosevelt's vocal appearance at his party convention."

Flaherty refused to give a reporter a list of the 50 or 100 largest donors to the service men's centers. His grounds: Some might not want their benefactions made public.

"Some of the contributors also might express surprise at the political use made of the centers," Tyrrell commented.

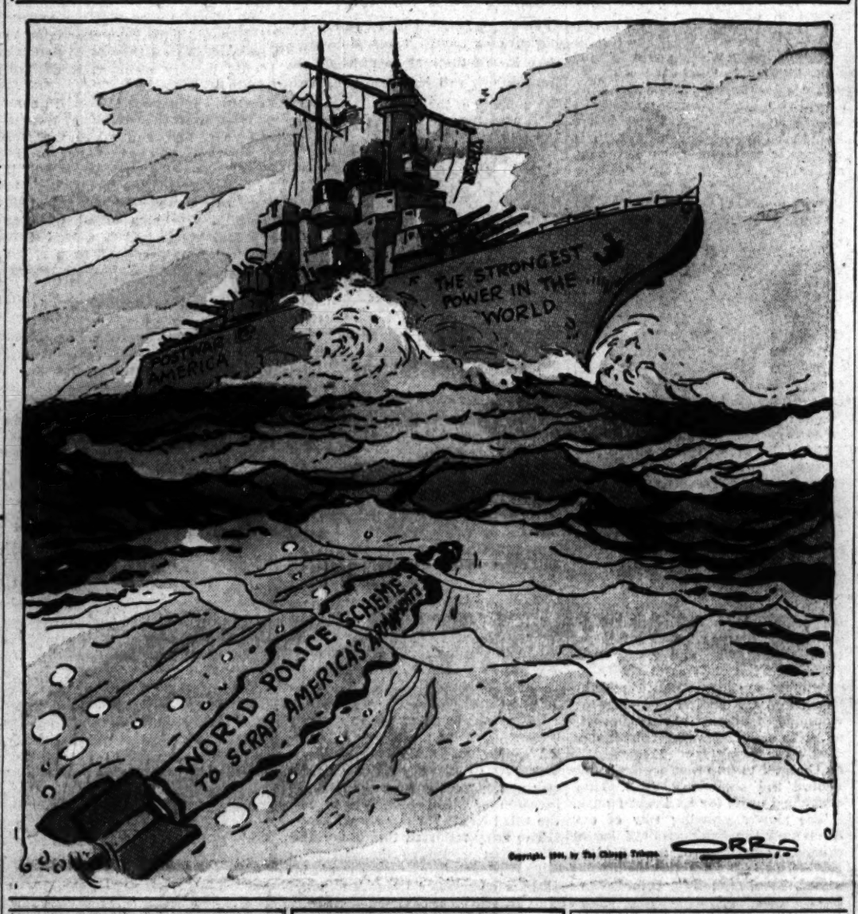
SOLE AIM



Dewey's Wife Makes Friends with Bricker's

Albany, N. Y., July 26.—Mrs. Dewey and Mrs. Bricker became acquainted here today. They had met once before, at a reception at the close of the Republican national convention, but they never really knew each other before.

That they like each other became apparent at a brief press conference for women reporters [and a few male interlopers] held on the porch of the governor's mansion. Most of the conversation was about clothes, hobbies, ancestors, amusements, and children. They also discussed post-war compulsory military training.

Both Have Sons.

Both of the women, good looking and sociable, are mothers of sons. Mrs. Dewey has Thomas E. Jr., 11, and John, 8. Mrs. Bricker has one child, Jack, 14, who will enter high school this fall.

A woman writer interrupted chitchat about child behavior to ask them whether they favored compulsory military training.

"I'd dislike it awfully," Mrs. Bricker responded impulsively. "I don't want my boy taught to follow a leader without thinking for himself. Of course, his father was a soldier in a troop train at Columbus, O., in the last war when I met him, but it's awful to contemplate."

"How about you, Mrs. Dewey?" asked the reporter.

Mrs. Dewey, her hands clasped in front of her, stared thoughtfully across the lawn before replying.

Mrs. Dewey Undecided.

"I really haven't formulated an opinion," she said. "Of course, if the training were adopted, I'd want my boys to participate. They like to march and play with toy guns—that's the terrible things about this generation growing up in war time."

Both said they wanted to be with their husbands as much as possible during the campaign but neither wanted to engage in solo activity.

From there the conversation drifted, disclosing that both women play the piano, both are descendants of early settlers in America and both are interested most in their husbands and sons.

The male reporters, at least, noted further that both have soft wavy hair touched with gray, both have gentle, motherly voices, and both have a graceful dignity that puts company at ease.

SHOWGIRL REFUSES TO TAKE CITIZENSHIP OATH WITH JAPANESE

St. Paul, Minn., July 26 (AP).—Audrey Miller, known as Mimi in a Chicago ice follies show, refused to be sworn in as a citizen of the United States in Federal court here today because the oath was to be jointly administered to her and a former member of the Japanese army.

"I can't," Miss Miller sobbed. "How can I be sworn in as an American citizen alongside a man who belonged to an army that is now killing American boys?"

The former Japanese army man, Corp. Terry T. Toi, was born in California and taken to Japan when he was 17. He came back to America but was forced by his parents to return to Japan and was drafted into the Japanese army.

Toi, now deciphering Japanese documents for the war department, joined the United States army six months before Pearl Harbor.

When Judge Robert C. Bell ordered the oath administered he asked Miss Miller to be sworn in at the same time.

"I can't, judge," she said. "I just can't do it."

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

VATICAN CITY, July 26.—More than 150,000 allied soldiers have been received in audience by Pope Pius XII. since the occupation of Rome, it was estimated today. The Germans are disgruntled about it. German soldiers were rarely allowed to go to St. Peter's or to papal audiences, and high officers never asked to be received.

The pontiff received 5,000 soldiers this morning, and every day there have been between 2,000 and 5,000 in his audience.

The supply of rosaries long since gave out and so did medals with the pope's profile. Now the papal chamberlain distributes small leaflets with Pius' picture. Many soldiers take their own rosaries to be blessed. Sunday at St. Peter's 100,000 lire [$1,000] was collected.

WMC Slashes Hotel Service —Even Towels

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—In a move to divert labor to other fields, the war man power commission today ordered hotels to slash their services and slapped restrictions on their employment of men under 45.

The rules contemplate for the hotel guest:

One bath a day or use a towel still damp from the first cleanup.

Use of the same sheets at least half a week if you stay that long.

And maybe even deal with your own baggage or wait for it to be handled by women, elderly men, or physically handicapped bellboys.

More Women Employees.

Hotels designated as "locally needed" were instructed to substitute women, the elderly, or the handicapped for able bodied males under 45 serving as elevator operators, bellhops, doormen, and front office workers unless they can show that such adjustments are not possible.

Hotels must have the "locally needed" classification to get WMC help on labor.

The WMC also notified its regional directors that room service, including serving of meals and beverages to guests too busy or too tired to walk to the dining room, must be cut in half thru a 50 per cent reduction in the average number of room service employes on the pay roll in 1941, or in any subsequent year selected by the area director.

Sheets Twice a Week.

Bed linen, the WMC directed, shall be changed "no oftener than twice a week for guests other than those on a daily basis."

Maid service, it decreed, shall be limited "to the maximum of once every 24 hours" for any one guest.

The bath issue is covered by a provision limiting towel service to "no more than two face towels and one bath towel . . . daily for any one guest." Washable shower curtains may not be changed more than once a week.

The WMC defined a hotel as a "service establishment commonly known in the community as a hotel, providing a building with sleeping accommodations and possessing at least six guest rooms without cooking facilities for transient use on a daily basis."

WIN FOURTH OF JAP ISLE; KILL 1,958; GOEBBELS PLEDGES NEW MEASURES

Beat Jap Attack on Guam and Gain Two Miles.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, T. H., July 26 (AP).—Raising the toll of slain Japanese to 4,758, American invasion forces in the Marianas Islands have battled half way out on Guam's Orote peninsula against trapped Nipponese and have won the northern fourth of Tinian Island, containing a 4,500-foot air field, one of the finest in the Marianas.

The successes were announced tonight by Adm. Nimitz in two bulletins.

On Guam, where action is centered around Port Apra on the west coast, the Yanks killed 400 Japs and destroyed 12 tanks when the enemy tried to break out of Orote peninsula Monday night. That raised announced totals of enemy dead on Guam to 2,800. The Jap dead on Tinian number 1,958.

Strengthen Island Trap.

At dawn Tuesday, the Americans moved out on the peninsula which has been pounded hard by battleship guns, carrier planes, and artillery. They gained 3,000 yards to the outskirts of the town of Sumay. Japanese on the peninsula must die or surrender.

Behind Port Apra, Yank forces have strengthened the sealing off of that fine harbor, previously accomplished by patrols effecting a juncture from north and south beachheads.

Supported by a battleship, which blew up camouflaged blockhouses, and by strafing planes from near-by Saipan, the Yanks forged a solid line across the northern sector of Tinian from Faibus San Hilo point on the west coast to Asiga point on the east.

Count 1,958 Jap Dead.

Nimitz said 1,958 Japanese dead had been counted thru July 25, third day of the invasion. Many of them hurled themselves in suicidal charges in defense of 4,500 foot Ushi point air field. Together with its barracks and repair facilities, Ushi is regarded as comparable to Hawaii's Hickam field.

For the first time, the bulletin told of Saipan based Thunderbolts attacking the enemy with "fire bombs." Others raided Pagan in the northern Marianas.

Capture Highest Peak.

ABOARD EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF TINIAN, Marianas Islands, July 26 (AP).—American marines, counting almost 100 slain Japanese for each of their own dead, captured the highest peak on Tinian Island today, 60 hours after coming ashore.

Seizure of the 564 foot Mount Lasso gave the invaders a vantage point a third of the way southward from Tinian's northern tip, near which they first landed.

Since the first waves swept in the marines have captured 3½ miles of Tinian's 34 mile coastline and knifed inland thru 2 miles of canebrakes.

Heaviest casualties were inflicted on the enemy when the marines broke up a strong counter-attack before dawn on the second day. Five Japanese tanks were destroyed, and when it was over the enemy dead lay in piles in front of the American lines. The leathernecks counted more than 1,000 in two small areas.

Wounded Back in Fight.

While patrols probed into remaining Japanese positions on the northern end of the island, landing craft poured thousands of tons of tanks, ammunition, fuel and other supplies on the broadening beachhead.

The main Japanese defenses apparently were concentrated originally around Tinian town, called Sunharon by the enemy, which is on the southwestern shore, five miles from Lasso.

Adm. Wilkes Named to Command French Ports

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—Supreme headquarters announced today that Rear Adm. John Wilkes has been appointed to command United States ports and bases in France, marking a new stage in consolidation of the Normandy beachhead.

U.S. TANK DRIVE SMASHES 2 NAZI LINES IN FRANCE

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ. IN NORMANDY, July 26.—A two pronged American offensive spearheaded by heavy armor tonight fought to exploit a five mile wedge driven thru the German front west of St. Lo. The Americans' first armored assault of the Normandy campaign flamed all along a 20 mile front and swept up 14 French towns, including two important road junctions.

Ripping thru a breach of some four miles torn in the first two Nazi defense lines the American forces outflanked the stubborn enemy positions running northwest from the St. Lo area to Lessay, near the coast. The breadth and force of the tank-paced infantry smash indicated the Americans were employing at least an army corps of two or more divisions.

Cut Road to Nazi Base.

One column was pressing thru St. Gilles, capture of which cut the St. Lo-Coutances highway. Three miles west of St. Gilles, another Norman village, Marigny, was flaming as American tanks and infantry surrounded it. [Other dispatches said Marigny had been captured.] The spearhead of this second column was bearing down on the important road to Coutances, a big German rearline base.

While this drive has punched a deep salient into the German positions, also hard hit by our bombing, the Germans apparently succeeded in withdrawing some guns to the next ridge of hills.

Massed artillery batteries tonight were hammering steadily to help the armor and doughboys expand their break-thru.

Infantry Moves In.

Between but behind the two advance columns came strong forces of infantry and on the flanks were other doughboy assault sections, backed up by more and more power. These pushed steadily thru hedgerows toward the next main German positions.

On the western flank the Americans also swung into action, but our advances there were held in some cases to a few hundred yards and in one case to a mile by four counter attacks.

The greatest advance on this sector was at the confluence of the Ay and Seves rivers. On the eastern flank of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 1st army, other units drove small dents into German paratroop forces.

Ride Tanks Into Battle.

Today's hammer-like blows struck by armor-doughboy teams found the Germans offering stiff resistance all along the line and the enemy had rushed up the 353d division, which had been in reserve but which ran head-on into the high powered American drive.

The armored force which sealed up St. Gilles worked in close support of the infantry. Doughboys started out for battle riding on the backs of Gen. Shermans and light tanks until forced by enemy fire to dismount and attack his hedgerows.

The tanks smashed somewhat more swiftly thru these breastworks with the aid of new equipment. These devices supplemented the ploughshare tactics of armored bulldozers, previously used to cut holes in the hedges.

As the tanks started down the road for St. Gilles, enemy tanks and anti-tank guns opened up.

Bulldozers Rip Hedges.

Then our tanks and infantry deployed on both sides of the road.

THREE CASUALTY LISTS.

Three casualty lists containing names of 366 Chicagoland service men reported dead, wounded, or missing appear on page 8. The lists contained a total of 3,408 names for the entire United States, as follows: Army dead, 1,634; army wounded, 1,243, and navy dead, wounded, and missing, 476.

Charges Allies Had Hand in Plot to Kill Hitler.

New York, July 26 (AP).—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels appeared before the German people tonight in his role as reich plenipotentiary for total mobilization for war, asserted that Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler had been ordered to move all home front reserves to the front, and proclaimed Germany's confidence that "It will not be too difficult to master the war situation."

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels.

Detailing the alleged bomb attempt on Adolf Hitler's life on July 20, he railed at allied capitals, claimed Washington, D. C., London, and Moscow had a hand in the plot, and asserted that "there can be no miracle if the Fuehrer's salvation was not a miracle."

His broadcast sought to reassure the bomb-battered Germans, hemmed in on all sides by powerfully advancing armies, that "the situation, especially in the east, will soon change in favor of Germany as a result of new measures."

To Reorganize Reserve Army.

Goebbels asserted:

"The Fuehrer has announced already in his midnight speech that he has assigned to Party Comrade Himmler the leadership of the homeland. It will be his task to reorganize the entire apparatus of the reserve army primarily to send the numerous army formations which are available at home and well trained to the front, and in their place to form numerous new divisions.

"Our man power effectives at the front will be rapidly filled up and the front will thus again gain the stability and effectiveness which it needs urgently during the coming weeks and months. The problems which arise in this connection are now being tackled with National Socialist [Nazi] energy. Success cannot and will not fail.

"Total war now will become a reality."

Soon "a New Secret Weapon."

Goebbels said that War Production Chief Prof. Albert Speer had "devised methods which intensify production for which more workers are needed, especially German," and he said that "next month" would show the results at the front.

Goebbels said the Germans soon would use against the allies a new secret weapon for which the V-1 rocket bomb now being used against London is "nothing but a mere preamble."

Asserting that the V-1 was "already sufficient to upset the enemy's entire defensive system," Goebbels said that "the same thing will happen again when we shall presently use other novel weapons."

His Heart "Stopped Beating."

"When I recently saw the modern German weapons," the Nazi minister went on, "my heart not only beat higher, but for a moment it stopped beating." He said the "greatest part of this new weapon already is in production."

He cautioned, however, that "the German people must not believe that these new weapons in themselves can win the war. Weapons, hands, and hearts must act together."

Berlin's official broadcasts on the talk were recorded here by the Associated Press, NBC, and CBS.

Describing the alleged attempt to seize the government after last Thursday's explosion, Goebbels said the plotters "for a very short time were in possession of technical apparatus in Bendlerstrasse," described by the official DNB agency as the seat of the German high command.

"Unimaginable Misfortune."

Goebbels said:

"If the plot against Hitler had succeeded efforts of millions and millions of Germans would have been thrown to nothing. Unimaginable misfortune would have overcome the Germans at the hands of the worst kind of criminal—of a small thief who raised his hand to shut off the dearest life in the world.

"The Lord's hands are saving him [Hitler] until he has finished his work—which will be finished."

Goebbels said that when he received word by telephone that an attempt had been made on Hitler's life "it was a shock to me as it was to every German—I had for a moment a feeling as if my head would fall off."

Not All Plotters Killed.

He acknowledged that all those accused of participating in the alleged plot had not been arrested or killed.

Recounting the events of July 20, he said that "in the afternoon the conspirators started pulling the threads. The perpetrator of the crime, Count Claus von Stauffenberg, came to Berlin in a courier plane to announce that the fuehrer was dead. The commander of the Berlin garrison, Remer, was faithful, however, and he got in touch with me and later phoned direct to the fuehrer, and thus the forged orders were circumvented."

"Again and again Moscow, London and Washington have stated there was opposition among German generals," he said. "They said so again on July 20. This shows they had their hand in it. The explosive used was British and the man who made the attempt is connected with the British aristocracy."

Right Under Fuehrer's Feet."

He said Stauffenberg brought the bomb into Hitler's headquarters in a brief case. He did not identify the exact place at which the explosion took place, but indicated it was outside Berlin.

This is Goebbel's story of the actual assassination attempt:

"The perpetrator had been sent by one of the arrested generals to the daily discussion of the situation for a pseudo-consultation.

"He brought the explosive in a brief case to the room where the daily situation was being discussed and under the pretext of wanting to set it down had pushed it directly in front of the feet of the feuhrer at an unguarded moment.

"Participants in the discussion were thrown thru the window by the force of the blast, and their uniforms were torn to shreds.

"Only One Area Unaffected."

"In the entire room there was within the area affected by the enormous wave of detonation caused by the explosive only one single spot which remained completely untouched by it. That was the spot on which the fuehrer was sitting at the map table.

"The map table itself was thrown thru the room by the explosion, but the fuehrer himself remained entirely unhurt, with the exception of slight bruises, burns, and scratches on his forehead."

Goebbels asserted that three generals were included in the alleged plot, including one "who so far had excelled in the conduct of the war only thru the characteristic that he was wont to sabotage every big decision." The others, he said, were a pensioned general and another "who had been expelled some time ago" out of the army after "a cowardly retreat from the eastern front."

"Intended to Seize Government."

He did not name the generals, but Gen. Ludwig Beck, former chief of the general staff, was announced by Berlin last week as having died as an aftermath of the explosion.

"They intended to get the whole German government in their hands," Goebbels said. "They intended to destroy everything in the meantime to create chaos and then take over. But they forgot that the Berlin Watch battalion, like all others, was on the watch. This whole joke was over in one hour."

He asserted the leaders were summarily killed, but added:

"If we catch any more of them they, too, will be brought to justice.

"If ever they try to catch the Fuehrer again they will be annihilated. The Germans who fight at home and on the front have a right to be protected from such political bankrupts."

Allied Forces Advance on Florence

VETS OF CASSINO SMASH WITHIN 8 MI. OF FLORENCE

Pound Outer Defenses of "Open City."

ROME, July 26 (AP).—Spearheaded by New Zealand veterans of Cassino, 8th army forces smashed today within eight miles of the open city of Florence, which was expected to fall without a struggle once its outer defenses were breached.

[The Berlin radio said on July 1 that Adolf Hitler had declared Florence an open city to protect its "irreplaceable cultural values," and there has since been no report of allied planes having attacked the city's rail yards.]

Yanks Under Heavy Fire.

New Zealand tanks and infantry, stabbing forward five miles in two days of bitter fighting against Nazi parachute troops, were reported closing on the highway town of San Casciano, less than eight miles south of Florence. Other 8th army columns advanced steadily along a 30 mile front below the city.

American troops holding the portion of the city of Pisa south of the Arno river were subjected to increasingly heavy fire from big German guns emplanted on Mount Pisano to the north, and dispatches today said the medieval city was rapidly becoming battle torn.

Yanks Haul Up Materials.

American forces, strung out along the south bank of the Arno from the Tyrrhenian sea to a point some 18 miles west of Florence, continued to consolidate their positions and to haul up men and material for a major assault on the enemy's "Gothic line" defenses north of the stream.

[A German military commentator broadcast that a "full scale" allied attack was launched south of Florence on Tuesday and that after hard fighting Nazi troops "systematically detached themselves from the enemy in a northern direction." Another enemy broadcast said the allies also had opened a strong new offensive along the Adriatic coast above Ancona.]

REPORT GERMANS USE PISA TOWER IN OBSERVATION

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 5TH ARMY NEAR PISA, Italy, July 26.—Pisa's six centuries old leaning tower is being used as an observation post by the Germans to direct artillery fire, it was reported today by American front line troops. The 181 foot tower with its six colonnades stands out in the flat countryside. Capt. George Bunnell, of Blairstown, Pa., was one of several artillery officers who reported that German officers were atop the tower.

With the machine gun, mortar and rocket fire being poured across the Arno river upon American positions in the southern section of the city, Maj. Arthur Peterson of Indianapolis, Ind., a divisional artillery officer, declared:

"If it becomes enough of a military objective to outweigh public opinion, we will have to fire upon it."

It was recalled that in the past during the Italian campaign the Germans have not hesitated to use religious and cultural edifices for military gain.

TAVERN KEEPER ROBBED OF $57.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Allied naval task forces operating 3,000 miles apart have assaulted Palau in the western Pacific and Sabang in the Dutch East Indies, the Japanese radio said yesterday.

A United States task force made up chiefly of carriers struck Palau on an unspecified date, Tokyo said, and two out of 30 attacking planes were shot down. The announcement added, in the usual Japanese vein, that damage was small.

Cruisers, destroyers, submarines and carrier planes hit Sabang yesterday, the Japanese said in another broadcast, raiding the harbor and city there. Two allied destroyers and a submarine were sunk, Tokyo said.

MARINE HEROES OF PACIFIC WAR HOME FOR REST

On their first visit home after 26 months in the Southwest Pacific, eight marines from the 1st marine division were agreed yesterday that for the time being all they want to enjoy is comforts—home cooking, soft beds, and plenty of hot water.

All Chicagoans, six of them enlisted nearly three years ago by Col. Chester L. Fordney, officer in charge of recruiting for the central district, they will pass a month here before reporting for new assignments to duty.

In the party which visited Col. Fordney's office yesterday were Gunnery Sgt. John P. Schlitter, 34, of 342 N. Bell av., who has been in the corps for 17 years, and wears campaign ribbons for foreign service prior to World War II.; Platoon Sgt. Vernon C. Stimpel, 24, of 3539 N. Hamilton av.; Sgt. Gordon C. Savage, 22, of 3161 Monroe st.

Corp. John M. Sullivan Jr., 21, of 1015 East End av.; Privates John J. Paulov, 23, of 8325 Mackinaw av.; William T. Brewer, 20, of 4752 Union av.; Vincent J. Vivardo, 19, of 838 Garibaldi pl., and Mitchell J. Kaczmarek, 24, of 3405 Belmont av.

Most of the marines were in the Guadalcanal invasion of Aug. 7, 1942, and remained with their division until it was relieved months later by the army.

Sgt. Stimpel, only wearer of the Purple Heart among the eight, was wounded when the ship on which he was being evacuated because of malaria was torpedoed.

'War Is Hell,' Marine Finds on Arrival Home

Atlanta, Ga., July 26 (AP).—Warrant Officer Luther A. McLendon arrived home today from the Southwest Pacific, where he had served 26 months with the 1st marine division—faced with a problem. "War is hell," he mumbled as he thumbed a telephone director. "I don't remember the name of the man my sister married, so how can I find the telephone number to call my wife? She's living with my sister."

TRIBUNE WRITER SEES YANKS GO ASHORE ON GUAM

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUAM ISLAND, July 21 [Delayed]—[Via navy radio].—American troops stormed Asan point today to take the first populated American territory to be recaptured from the Japs, aside from Attu and Kiska in the Aleutians. I landed with the marines.

The beach resistance was fierce but not as rugged as the Saipan landing, where our dead and wounded lay in windrows to the water line. The navy as usual did a magnificent job of knocking out heavy enemy guns.

The operations are commanded by a Chicagolander, Rear Adm. Richard L. Conolly of Waukegan, Ill., who told me just as we embarked on an assault boat that everything was happening on split second timing. Marine veterans landed at a point midway between Agana village and the ruins of the historic Fort Santa Cruz, first attacked in the lightning conquest of Guam in the Spanish-American war.

Written in Foxhole.

This is being written in a foxhole dug hurriedly after the enemy's white phosphorous shells creeping down the beach drove us inshore shortly after landing, three and a half hours behind the initial assault waves. It was dug none too soon, as enemy fire just cut down a wireman 30 feet away and wounded the occupant of a foxhole 50 feet distant. Welcome words just came that we are moving forward.

The landing, my sixth combat debarkation, was relatively uneventful. After a whirlwind transfer from three transports we found one to send us in a Higgins boat to the transfer area, where an "alligator" picked us up and jounced us unmercifully across a 200 foot coral shelf amid sporadic mortar fire, nosing ashore between two bogged down medium tanks, part of the large force that had just landed.

Many fires lined the entire visible beach, set by naval gunfire from battleships, cruisers, and destroyers, whose shells were still swooshing overhead and plowing into the ground behind high ridges several hundred yards inland.

Orderly Chaos on Beach.

The beach to the uninitiated might seem utter chaos, but beneath the confusion was a distinct sense of gathering order. Tanks, jeeps, trucks, bulldozers, and water trailers dotted the wide coral shelf.

Alligators shuttled between the beach and the shelf edge, carrying wounded to Higgins boats for evacuation to ships. Several columns of men were being landed constantly on the reef to join the throngs prone behind the sheltering bank. They organized units for an inward push.

The slowly growing row of our dead atop the bank awaited burial squads. Long lines of men filed to and fro from the front line, lugging ammunition, food, and water to the boys doing the dirty work. There were rifle cracks and machine gun chatter.

There was no sign yet of Guam civilians, American nationals, who were warned in air borne leaflets to seek safety. All hoped fervently, however, that they were able to get out from under the weight of the steel fire we have been hurtling on Hirohito's little fellows.

We have come back to Guam to stay.

3D BATTLE FOR SHIP'S STERN; 1ST FOR HER BOW!

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The bow of the destroyer Murphy saw action for the first time in the invasion of Normandy, but it was the third battle for her stern.

The navy reported this today and explained:

The Murphy, a veteran of invasions of North Africa and Sicily, split in two in a collision last October. The bow sank, the stern was saved. She was fitted with a new bow in time to screen troops moving into Europe.

CHINESE KEEP HOLD ON HENGYANG; YANK FLYERS BOMB JAPS

CHUNGKING, China, July 26 (AP).—Chinese troops still clung tenaciously to encircled Hengyang tonight, one month after the Japanese began their siege of the Canton-Hankow rail junction, and, with the support of the United States 14th air force, they had hopes of saving the city.

Hengyang still is considered valuable to the Japanese if only for purposes of face-saving. But attacks upon enemy supply lines by Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's flyers have afforded the necessary breathing spell, during which reinforcements in Hunan and Kwangtun provinces have strengthened Chinese positions along the rail line.

The Japanese may have taken a portion of Hengyang last night, when the Chinese reported fighting within the city, but tonight the bulletin pictured the junction still firmly in Chinese hands. Thirty-four miles to the south, Chinese forces broke into the rail city of Leiyang. Fighting was reported raging in the city's streets.

BRITISH ENFORCE ILLEGAL RULES, COMMONS TOLD

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 26.—The British government has been enforcing more than 20 emergency regulations without the sanction of parliament, Home Minister Herbert Morrison admitted in the house of commons today. It was brought out in discussion that at least two men had been prosecuted under these regulations and one member of parliament suggested these defendants had the right to take action against the home minister.

Morrison, expressing the government's regret that the regulations had not been presented to parliament "owing to an oversight," said they provided for the establishment of a national fire service, preservation of pensions of members of the fire service, and the authorized employment of NFS members overseas in support of allied operations in Europe.

No Sanctions Involved.

"Steps have been taken to insure that a mistake of this kind doesn't occur again," he assured the members. Normally regulations of this kind should have been submitted to commons so that they could be challenged by any member, if desired, within 28 days.

Pethick Lawrence [Laborite] complained that the oversight was a serious matter and asked whether there were any sanctions in the emergency act and, if so, would it be necessary for the government to come to commons for any act of indemnity. He also asked whether any individuals had "suffered damage to their libereties" as a result of the operation of the new regulations.

Morrison said that as far as he knew there were no sanctions involved for failing to bring the regulations to the notice of commons. He also assured the house there had been no injustice to individuals, altho it was admitted it was possible disciplinary action had been taken in a number of cases.

May Suspend Penalties.

John McGovern [Laborite] mentioned the cases of two men prosecuted under the regulations and suggested this was illegal. He urged Morrison to suspend the penalties in such cases, and the minister promised to consider the matter.

Laborite A. Woodbury suggested that any person who had suffered loss of employment or other disability as a result of the regulations would have the right to take action against the minister of home security. "That's possible," Morrison admitted, but urged the house to "distinguish between the lapse which might have had serious legal consequences and one where results were not serious."

JAP PATROLS MAKE NEW ASSAULT ON U. S. FLANK IN NEW GUINEA

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, July 27 [Thursday]—(AP).—Small Japanese patrols are trying to break thru the southern flank of American lines across the Driniumor river on the Aitape front in New Guinea, headquarters announced today. Of the Wewak-Aitape fighting in general, a headquarters spokesman said, "our lines are holding firm."

In northwestern Dutch New Guinea, fighter and patrol torpedo boats raised havoc with the Japanese base of Manokwari, damaging barges, fuel dumps, trucks, and bivouac areas. The raiders sank a barge containing 50 Japanese, evidently attempting to escape to Manokwari from the Schouten Islands east of Noemfoor. Manokwari is on the mainland 50 miles west of American occupied Noemfoor Island.

One German General 'Meets with Accident'

FACES MURDER CHARGE.

Herbert Smith, 27, Negro, of 4409 Vincennes av., will be arraigned in Felony court this morning on a charge of murder for the shooting last Monday of Nural Smith, 31, Negro, of 4424 Wabash av., on a 43d st. street car.

JURY SUBPENAS 3 IN INQUIRY ON WHITE'S ESTATE

Two Trustee and Third Ex-State Official.

Subpenas were reported issued the grand jury for Paul Ludmann, F. Donald Bird, and Gilbert E. Keebler in connection with an investigation of the management of the estate of the late Michael E. White, paving contractor. In a suit on file in the federal court improper diversion of 6 million dollars is charged.

Bird, a son-in-law of White, and Ludmann, treasurer of the White Construction company and also secretary-treasurer of the Drake hotel, are two of the four trustees of the estate.

Keebler has no official connection with the estate. He was the 1940 campaign manager for Gov. Green and served as state administrative auditor from January, 1941, to August, 1942. Reached at the Drake last night, Keebler said he was puzzled by the grand jury subpena.

Keebler Says He's in Dark.

"This grand jury action is a mystery to me," said Keebler. "I have no knowledge of or interest in the White estate. I do not even know the two men summoned with me. However, I shall be glad to appear before the grand jury whenever it asks me to."

Gov. Green, when told that his former administrative auditor, was to be called before the grand jury, said:

"I know nothing of the reasons for calling Mr. Keebler, but I'm sure he will be glad to tell the grand jury whatever it wants to know. State officials will coöperate with the grand jury at all times."

Summoning of Keebler, Ludmann, and Bird followed a routine hearing by the grand jury into the White estate dispute. Because of an insurance element, an assistant attorney general, William C. Wines, aided in the proceeding. Specifically, the grand jury was rehearing evidence against Graeme Smith of River Forest, an insurance man, who once was indicted on two charges of forgery, involving $1,700. The indictment was faulty, and a new one was ordered. Thus the hearing.

Report New Charges Allowed.

Wines is reported to have permitted Charles F. Short Jr., attorney in the civil litigation in federal court, to make charges, touching upon elements not involved in the Smith matter. As a result, the grand jury issued the subpenas. Later, Asst. State's Atty. C. Vernon Thompson talked to Short, and indicated the forgery charge, rather than the other charges, would remain the grand jury's chief interest in the case.

In the federal court action, the plaintiff is Mrs. Mary Angela Dunphy, of Milwaukee, a granddaughter of White. She is also a complainant against Smith, as is another heir, Mrs. Henrietta White Joyce of Winnetka.

SIX ARE HURT AS AUTO AND BUS COLLIDE

Six persons were injured last night when a Chicago Motor Coach company bus and an automobile collided at Addison and Whipple sts. All the injured were treated at Martha Washington hospital and released.

Jose N. Martinez, 51, of 2340 Cleveland av. died in North Chicago hospital of injuries suffered a few hours earlier when he was struck by a truck at Cleveland and Fullerton avs. Ronald J. Maggard, 27, of 6125 Kenwood av. was the driver of the truck.

Mrs. Bengta Lundberg, 78, of 3321 N. Newland av., died last night in Belmont hospital of injuries received early yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding with her son-in-law, Henry Herstadt, 36, of Kenosha, collided with a car driven by George J. Lopata, 36, of 3728 N. Nora av., at School st. and Nordica av.

Joseph W. Freeman, 23, Negro, of 109 E. 49th st., was killed instantly and Clent McCorkle, 35, also a Negro, of 3112 Giles av., was injured, when the car in which they were riding collided head on yesterday with a Roosevelt rd. street car at Laramie av.

Robert Townsend, 43, of 105 S. Taylor av., Oak Park, died in the County hospital of injuries suffered when the car in which he was riding crashed into a safety island at 5409 Madison st. early Saturday.

TRIBUNE AWARD HELPS WIN WAR, GENERAL AVERS

June Honor Goes to Electronics Aid.

By stimulating workers to do their best, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE war workers' award has contributed to the quality of the equipment which is helping America's fighting men win the war, Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, deputy chief of the Chicago ordnance district, said last night at a dinner in the Medinah club held to celebrate the award's second anniversary.

The dinner preceded the presentation at a W-G-N broadcast of the award for June to Walter T. Turkowski, 46, 3507 Arden av., Brookfield, for 23 years an employe of the Western Electric company.

Gen. Hammond recalled the many reports he had had on the excellent design and workmanship of the war equipment which had been shipped to various theaters and he stressed the fact that there was now plenty of it.

Points to Improvements.

"What THE TRIBUNE has done," he added, "has helped bring this about."

Guests at the dinner included 19 previous winners of the award, executives of Chicago war area plants, representatives of the army and navy, and the award committee which selects the monthly winner. Philip Hampson, war workers award editor of THE TRIBUNE, presided.

The award, a diamond studded solid gold pin, was presented by Lt. E. S. Pulliam, officer in charge of the navy's Hugh Hanley school [radio-Chicago].

"Your service has been beyond the call of duty," he told Turkowski. "It has been a voluntary, individual, important service in getting fine equipment into the hands of first line fighters in America's first line of attack."

Saves Time and Materials.

The idea which won Turkowski the award, a method by which a part of a certain electronic device could be made in one instead of two pieces, improved the product, reduced costs, saved material, and so reduced the time consumed in manufacture that about 17,500 labor hours were saved on a single navy contract, David Levinger, vice president of Western Electric, explained on the broadcast. He disclosed that the company's labor-management committee had given Turkowski the top incentive prize of $1,000.

In his acknowledgement of the award, Turkowski revealed that he is a bond buyer and a war gardener as well as a war worker and that his daughter is a U. S. O. entertainer.

SALES TAX AID ACQUITTED OF BRIBERY CHARGE

Michael Fleischhacker, 35, of 1642 N. Fairfield av., an investigator for the sales tax division of the state revenue department, was acquitted in five minutes yesterday by a jury before Judge William V. Daly in Municipal court of a charge of soliciting a bribe. He was the first of several investigators arrested on similar charges in what was viewed as a drive by the state's attorney's office.

Chief witness against Fleischhacker was David Trabish, owner of a market at 1220 S. Kedzie av., who testified he gave Fleischhacker $35 in marked bills May 16 as part payment on a "fee" of $150 to fix a sales tax delinquency estimated at $1,100.

Fleischhacker testified he had called at Trabish's place several times and that on his last visit Trabish dropped the marked money, unsolicited, into Fleischhacker's pocket.

HANNEGAN'S FRIEND GUILTY OF ROBBERY WITH HIS TWO PALS

Wincel Urban, 48, of 1320 W. 22d st., Raymond Fischell, 40, and William J. Roche, 33, both of St. Louis, were found guilty last night by a jury in Judge Harold G. Ward's Criminal court of robbing the Olson Transportation company, 2222 S. Western av., of $1,177 March 6.

Fischell, convicted under the habitual criminal act, was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary immediately after Judge Ward overruled motions for new trials for all three. The sentence was mandatory.

Urban, an ex-convict, reported to have been a member of the Cuckoo gang in St. Louis, was sentenced to from 8 to 15 years, and Roche, who had no previous record, filed a motion for probation, hearing on which was set for Aug. 21.

Roche had testified that after his arrest he asked permission to telephone his friend, Robert E. Hannegan, now chairman of the Democratic national committee, a former Democratic ward boss in St. Louis.

Roche's $10,000 bond was continued. Urban's $10,000 bond was raised to $15,000 and he was placed in county jail.

5 FINED AFTER COUNTY POLICE GAMBLING RAIDS

Four men arrested by county highway police on gambling charges were fined $25 and $5 costs each yesterday by Justice of the Peace Harry Sullivan in Niles.

They were: Edward Lenze, 33, arrested last Saturday at Carbon's tavern, 909 Lake st., Melrose Park; Charles Bauris, 47, arrested Saturday at the Whoopee Inn, 3900 River rd., Schiller Park, and George Milano, 42, of 1022 S. Ashland av., and Alfred Arthur Newell, 24, route 4, Villa Oliva, who were arrested July 17 in the Purple Cracker cocktail lounge at Lake and Gifford sts., east of Elgin.

Frank J. Milano, 45, of 1022 S. Ashland av., arrested at the Purple Cracker, was fined $5 and $5 costs as an inmate of a gambling place. Justice Sullivan continued to Aug. 9 the cases of Peter Gregorio, 40, of 1442 Leamington av., and David Taddeo, 38, of 1118 N. 15th av., Melrose Park, charged with being keepers of a gambling place.

Boy, 2, Falls Seven Stories Onto Cement and Survives

New York, July 26 (AP).—Frank Policastro, 2, today survived a seven-story fall from his family's apartment to a cement courtyard. Police surmised he climbed to a window sill while his mother, Mrs. Laura Policastro, was away, and tumbled out.

BRAKEMAN DIES OF INJURIES.
Roy Stevenson, 37, of Fort Wayne, Ind., a brakeman, died last night in St. Bernard's hospital of injuries suffered Monday night when the caboose in which he was riding was struck by an engine in the Pennsylvania railroad yards at 61st st. and Stewart av.

W-G-N THEATER CONTEST EVOKES WIDE INTEREST

Entries Come from All Over Nation.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Nation-wide interest already has been evoked by W-G-N's $10,000 cash prize competition for the design of a studio theater seating 2,000 persons for the new W-G-N Chicago Theater of the Air building to be erected after the war. Scores of letters of application for the contest booklet of rules have been received since details of the competition were announced last Sunday.

Many sections of the country, including both the east and west coasts, are represented by applicants, John W. Park, professional adviser to W-G-N in the conduct of the competition, announced yesterday. The majority of the entries are from Chicago and Illinois, but New York, New Jersey and Delaware are represented on the eastern seaboard; Florida and Tennessee in the south, and California and Colorado in the west. The only application from outside the United States up to now is from Toronto, Ont.

Register by Nov. 1.

All entrants are required to register their intention to compete not later than noon, Wednesday, Nov. 1. Registration does not obligate a person to submit an entry, but is to enable W-G-N to communicate with aspirants. All entries must be received by noon, Wednesday, Nov. 15. A registration form is provided in each copy of the booklet, which all persons wishing to enter the competition may obtain by writing to W-G-N.

The contest is for the design of the studio theater only and not for the building of 12 or more stories that will house it. First prize is $5,000; second $2,000, and third $1,000. There will be 15 honorable mention awards of $100 each.

Await Material Availability.

The new building will be erected as soon as materials are available after the war. It will be on property facing Michigan av. between Tribune Tower and the Chicago river.

The contest is open to everyone except employes of W-G-N, the TRIBUNE, and members of their families. W-G-N's jury of awards which will consider all entries and select the prize winners, consists of Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE and president of W-G-N; Frank P. Schreiber, station manager, and Henry Weber, music director.

Britain's Aid Pledged to Punish Jap Flyer-Killers

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said in the house of commons today that the American people could rely on the full support of the British government in bringing to justice all the Japanese responsible for the execution of American flyers who bombed the Japanese homeland.

SEEK O'CONNELL, FREE ON BOND IN SHORTAGE CASE

Lawrence J. O'Connell, Democratic politician under sentence to serve one to 15 years for embezzlement of funds entrusted to him while he was chief securities examiner of the Illinois Industrial commission, was being sought last night by Criminal court bailiffs. O'Connell's conviction and sentence were affirmed last May 15 by the State Supreme court, but he has obtained a series of stays of execution without once having appeared in court.

The defendant, a cousin of Probate Judge John F. O'Connell, was indicted in May, 1942, after a $54,000 shortage had been discovered by the Republican administration which took over the industrial commission. His bond was set at $15,000, but not until after sharp demands by the Chicago Crime commission was O'Connell brought to trial on a specific charge of embezzling $5,000 deposited with the commission by the Sanitary Rag company under the state self-insurer plan. He was sentenced June 2, 1943.

Asks Forfeiture of Bond.

The Supreme court order that he be committed was received soon after being handed down, but nothing was done until July 5, when Assistant State's Atty. Melvin Reuble of the bond department asked Chief Justice Benjamin P. Epstein to forfeit O'Connell's bail, reduced to $5,000 after his conviction. His bondsman is Jacob L. Russman, 5118 N. Kedzie av.

Chief Justice Epstein allowed the motion to forfeit, then entered a motion to vacate the order and gave O'Connell until July 12 to surrender. On that date Atty. Charles Newton appeared and said his client, now a civilian employe of the navy, was having difficulty arranging provision for his wife and five children during his absence in the penitentiary. Judge Epstein granted a new delay to yesterday.

Granted Additional Time.

O'Connell failed to appear, but Newton came in, appearing before Judge Harold G. Ward, who is acting chief justice during Judge Epstein's illness. Newton said apologetically that his client still had not straightened things out. Reuble protested vigorously, demanding that O'Connell's bond be forfeited unless he appears in person. Judge Ward, a Democrat, as is Judge Epstein, granted O'Connell a few days more, until Aug. 3.

Chief Bailiff Jack Lelivelt of the Criminal court studied the record of the case, however, and found that according to the Supreme court's order, O'Connell should be in custody here until he goes to the penitentiary. When Lelivelt brought this to the attention of Judge Ward, the court agreed.

Deputy bailiffs who were sent in search of O'Connell were unable to find him, however, they reported. They camped near his home, 1333 Pratt blvd., last night, but their quarry did not appear.

Held After Mishap

East Chicago ave. police yesterday arrested Nunzio Caruso, 35, of 1300 Paddon av., and Carmelo Cirincione, 40, of 3126 Monroe st., who admitted, police said, that they were in the truck that struck and seriously injured John Lucaro, 5, at Locust st. and Hudson av., and that they had fled because they were frightened.

Caruso, employer of the other man, was driving the truck, police said, but neither could explain how the accident occurred. When the truck knocked the boy to the street the men got out, picked him up, handed him to his mother, Dorothy, of 930 Hudson av., and told her to call police. Then they jumped back into the truck and departed.

A neighbor jotted down the truck's license number, which led to the arrest. The men told police they hid the truck overnight behind a gasoline station at Milwaukee and Foster avs. Their victim is in a critical condition in the Children's Memorial hospital, where attendants said he had suffered compound fractures of both legs. His father, Martin, is in the navy.

2 Armour Employes Hurt in Ammonia Blast, Fire

Two employes who were injured early yesterday in an explosion and fire at the Armour & Co. refrigerating plant at 4300 Packers av. were reported in improved condition last night in Mercy hospital. They are Steven Hlavenka, 37, of 5321 S. Washtenaw av. and Theodore Davis, 40, Negro, of 1242 Newberry av. A company spokesman said the explosion resulted when escaping ammonia gas was ignited by a spark, possibly from a generator. He estimated damage at about $4,500.

RUSSIANS DRIVE TO WISLA RIVER NEAR WARSAW

Baltic Offensive Topples Narva, Estonian Fort.

LONDON, July 27 [Thursday]—(AP).—Russian troops, having reached the Wisla [Vistula] river on a 30 mile front in central Poland, fought today for bridgeheads on the west bank to outflank Warsaw, 57 miles to the northwest, and place them only 140 miles from Germany proper.

On the north the Baltic front was split open with soviet capture of the Estonian fortress of Narva and neighboring towns on the Gulf of Finland.

All along the 800 mile front, more than 500 towns fell to the Russian assault, Moscow announced.

Narva a Fort for 600 Years.

An order of the day from Premier Marshal Stalin announced the capture of Deblin, 57 miles southeast of Warsaw, on the east bank of the Wisla, last big natural defense line before the German border. Moscow dispatches said the river also was reached in the neighborhood of Pulawy. A German radio commentator, admitting the penetration to Deblin, 370 miles from Berlin, said this created "a tense situation."

Narva, a fortress city thruout the 600 years of its warring existence, had been partly encircled since last February's big drive that thrust the Germans back from the fringes of Leningrad. Stalin announced the storming of the city, seven miles inside Estonia, in an order of the day.

The Germans acknowledged that on the other end of the front, more than 800 airline miles to the south, the Hungarian puppet armies were being pushed back in the Carpathian foothills. The Russians remained silent on that operation.

6 Other Bases Imperiled.

The German garrisons of Stanislawow, Lwow, Brest Litovsk, Bialystok, Daugavpils [Dvinsk] and probably also Kaunas, once representing a line of formidable defenses ranging almost the entire front, appeared doomed by the gigantic Russian campaign.

Northeast of the Deblin front the Russians were only 40 to 50 miles east of Warsaw between the Polish capital and Siedlce. Warsaw was bombed Tuesday night, Moscow announced.

South of captured Lublin the Russians cleaned out a wide swath of territory and seized their 26th German general, Lt. Gen. Moser-hillmar, commandant of Lublin. Eleven Nazi generals have been killed since June 23.

The battle of extermination in Lwow made progress, aided by American planes.

Riga in Reach of Reds.

The Germans did not admit any large withdrawals on the reënforced Kaunas front, but acknowledged that Riga, Latvia, was within reach of the advancing Russians, now only about 65 miles away.

While the drive across Poland posed a threat to German Silesia, East Prussia was the original German soil most closely endangered in the sweeping soviet offensives. The German front already was wavering less than 3 miles from the Suwalki triangle that Hitler incorporated into East Prussia in 1939.

The power and scope of the Russian offensive are so great that London military circles believe the Nazis may be unable to make a firm stand until they reach the Oder river line, which is well inside Germany.

YANK FIGHTER PILOTS BATTLE ON SOVIET FRONT

MOSCOW, July 26 (AP).—American airmen have entered the great battle against the Germans on the eastern front, it was disclosed today with announcement that Lightnings and Mustangs flying from United States bases in the soviet union destroyed 38 German planes yesterday in an offensive sweep in the Lwow region in direct support of the Red army.

It was the first time that American airmen had struck directly at the enemy in a battle zone on the eastern front, altho strategic bombing attacks have been made using bases in Russia.

The Americans, attached to the United States 15th air force, which is based in Italy, shot down 29 enemy aircraft in combat and destroyed nine others on the ground. No American craft were lost.

The Mustangs accounted for 26 of the planes shot out of the air when they surprised a large formation of Junkers 87s which were returning from a bombing attack on Russian troops around Lwow.

CZECH ARMY CORPS TRAINS IN RUSSIA TO FREE HOMELAND

MOSCOW, July 26 (AP).—A Czecho-Slovak army corps under Gen. Jan Kratochvil is completing training in the soviet union for a campaign of liberation in their homeland as the Red army approaches the 120 mile Carpathian frontier of Czecho-Slovakia, southwest of Lwow.

The corps slogan is "on to Prague." It includes many veterans of the brigade which helped to win Kiev back from the Germans and was commended by Premier Stalin for valor in last spring's offensive. Many of its members wear red ribbons on their caps, denoting service in partisan detachments.

Soviet Russia and the Czech government in exile signed last December a 20 year pact for mutual aid and subsequently announced an agreement on administration of liberated areas.

ASSERTS POLAND IS CAPITALISTIC MINDED NATION

Poland, whose people have two armies in the field against the axis, and who are divided into various parties and groups, seems likely to develop along capitalistic lines but with national ownership of big industry, Prof. Oscar Lange of the University of Chicago, said yesterday at a press conference. He said the Polish government in exile, with its seat in London, has shown "utter bankruptcy" and "has forfeited the right to further mismanage the fate of the Polish nation."

Recently returned from a visit to Moscow and to Polish territory liberated by Russian armies and the Polish army under Gen. Zygmunt Berling, the economics professor, a native of Poland, said it probably was too late for a coalition government of Poland but that some members of the government in exile possibly might be included when a Polish government is formed.

Prof. Lange declared that Premier Stalin of Russia had asserted there would be no allied military government of occupied territories rule in Poland because he recognized that that would mean Red army control and would be unpopular with the Poles. He said Stalin had approved the Curzon line as a tentative eastern Polish border.

LATVIAN ENVOY PROTESTS REDS' RULE OF BALTIC

Washington, D. C., July 26 [Special].—A statement by the Latvian underground Social Democratic party charging that an unlawful dictatorial regime was established in Latvia by soviet Russia prior to the German invasion was communicated to the state department today by Dr. Alfred Bilmanis, Latvian minister.

The statement purported to put the Latvian Social Democrats on record as proposing a "confederation of Baltic states" after the war in the form of a close economic, political, and military union, and said, "we reject categorically any attempt at connecting our country with the soviet union as a component part thereof."

Dr. Bilmanis, recognized as head of the official Latvian mission in this country, said he was offering the statement as evidence of the growing unity of the Latvian people in opposition to a soviet regime. He did not disclose when the statement was received from the Social Democrats.

14 Leaders Exiled.

When the soviets occupied Latvia shortly after the outbreak of the European war, 14 leaders of the Latvian Social Democrats were exiled, six were arrested, and one was executed, the statement said.

Among those listed as having been exiled to Siberia were Fricis Vesmanis, former speaker of the Latvian parliament, and P. Ulpe, O. Lejins, N. Kalnins, and R. Dukurs, all members of the former Latvian parliament. Social Democrats made up about 20 per cent of the Latvian parliament before the war.

Treaties Violated.

The statement accused the Russians of occupying Latvia in violation of treaties, taking over the country by means of an unfair election, and suppressing all attempts to oppose incorporation of the Baltic states in the soviet union.

Under German occupation, the statement said, "one dictatorship yielded its place to another." The population under the Nazis was terrorized by reprisals and "nearly all Jews in the Baltic countries and approximately 20,000 Latvian, Lithuanian, and Estonian workers, farmers, and intellectuals have been executed," it was charged.

SWIETLIK RAPS RED RECOGNITION OF POLISH GROUP

Milwaukee, Wis., July 26 [Special].—Dr. Francis X. Swietlik, dean of the Marquette university law school and head of the Polish National Alliance of America, today condemned Russia's recognition of the new Polish committee of national liberation.

"The soviet union is using this committee as its own hand picked group contrary to the provisions of the Atlantic Charter," Swietlik said. "In this action the soviet acted unilaterally, without consulting the other allied nations in deciding upon Russia's western boundaries at the expense of the sovereign rights of a neighbor.

"This is contrary to the right of collective bargaining for which the allied nations are fighting and against the attitude of the other allied nations. All of the united nations excepting Russia, have maintained diplomatic relations with the Polish government in exile in London."

New York, July 26 (AP).—The British radio today said: "Reports spreading among German forces in Poland say that Field Marshal Ernst von Busch, until recently commander of the central front, has committed suicide."

ALLIES INFLICT BIG LOSSES ON JAPS ON ROAD TO IMPHAL

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., KANDY, Ceylon, July 26 (AP).—Japanese forces have lost heavily in men and equipment in the developing assault of British troops against their main defenses on the road to Imphal in east India, a southeast Asia bulletin said tonight.

The British now hold hills astride the road near Tengnoupal, eight miles from Palel, and mopping up operations are proceeding against the enemy. Along the Tiddim road to the south, other forces slugged doggedly forward despite enemy shelling and now are 32 miles away from Imphal.

In north Burma, American planes struck at enemy positions in the neighborhood of Magaung and Myitkyina. In the latter area the ground forces made minor gains within the besieged city in heavy fighting.

POLAND SCORNS LONDON REGIME, SAYS RED PRESS

MOSCOW, July 26 (AP).—Izvestia today called the Polish government in London "impostors and usurpers," and asserted "the Polish masses turn their heads from it with scorn."

The soviet government newspaper accused the exiled Polish regime of having been "hostile to the people's interest" and of having slowed down the struggle against the Germans "with the tactics of delay."

Izvestia said "an historical change has occurred in the mutual relations of the peoples of Poland and the U. S. S. R. Mutual conflicts harmful to both countries and favorable to the Germans—the enemies of the Slavs—have been replaced by friendship."

The editorial described the Polish campaign by soviet and Polish troops as "a holy, liberative war," and defined Poland's eastern frontier as the western Bug river.

Marshal von Model Gets New Nazi Post, Say Reds

LONDON, July 27 [Thursday]—(AP).—The Moscow radio today said Adolf Hitler had created a new command for the defense of East and West Prussia, Danzig, and Pomerania under Field Marshal Walter von Model, who was the only eastern front commander to give vocal support to his Fuehrer since the assassination attempt a week ago. It said a Gen. Elzenbek had been put in charge of "liquidation of sabotage and guerrilla warfare in East Prussia."

TELLS OF YANKS' ATTACK ACROSS NORMAN FIELDS

Tribune Writer Pictures Wreckage of War.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES IN NORMANDY, July 25 [Delayed].—German prisoners captured in today's American 1st army attack, which was preceded by the heaviest air bombardment of this campaign, were badly shaken by the aerial pounding and said a great many of their comrades were killed or wounded by our bombs.

Pvt. J. L. Beukema.

Doughboys began moving in when the air bombardment ceased, against dug in German tanks and mortar fire and across fields lined by almost impenetrable hedgerows.

Our planes had gone home and our artillery was working hard when I went to the front with two other war correspondents in a jeep driven by Pvt. Ernest Liston, Steubenville, O.

Kenosha Soldier in Charge.

We found one prisoner of war enclosure where captives already had begun arriving. Lt. Jack C. Nikolai, Kenosha, Wis., was in charge of military police at that point.

We continued toward the sound of guns, meeting the wounded returning as we drove slowly down a dusty road while infantrymen with rifles huddled in ditches on each side. We passed German tanks burned to a rust brown standing in the fields, their guns pointing over the hedges in foolish menace. Here there was a dead doughboy in a ditch. Everywhere there were huge craters showing where the bombs of our air force had landed.

Then we went on until we reached the head of a column and found ourselves within 500 yards of the front. German mortar fire was bursting within a few hundred yards, keeping the infantrymen down in the ditches.

Just behind, one badly wounded soldier, whose leg was ripped and his left eye seemingly hopelessly injured, was being given treatment by aid men. Other wounded walked past slowly and wearily as tho they had been walking forever and had no hope of reaching anywhere. One held a bloody rag tight to his jaw.

Makes Some Acquaintances.

An officer noticed our war correspondent's insignia and told us there had been a war photographer killed by our own bombs a few hundred yards behind us earlier in the afternoon.

As the shelling of mortars and 88s grew a little heavier and a little closer, two of us crawled into a ditch with the G. I.'s. I found myself next to Pvt. John L. Beukema, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Beukema, Interlaken, North Muskegon, Mich. Beukema, who was graduated from De Pauw university in 1943, is a nephew of C. H. Beukema of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, while another uncle, Col. Herman Beukema, is a professor at West Point. Beukema has been in Normandy since D-day plus six and last night aided in capturing three Germans.

In the same ditch we found Sgt. William E. Stephenson, 1220 Central av., Evanston, Ill., who said he found the engagement "fairly rugged."

Find Body of Photographer.

Finally the infantry leaped from their ditches and began moving toward a point where presumably the four dug in German tanks waited for them. So we said, "So long and keep your head down" as we headed away from the front.

We stopped a few hundred yards back, however, and climbed thru a gap in a hedge past a dead infantryman with a gaping hole in the back of the neck.

There in the field where he died we found the war photographer. He was lying face down in a ditch under a stretcher they had brought to carry him away. And in his boot some one had shoved a note reading, "Bede Irvin is a war correspondent. Please forward his personal effects to Col. ——."

He was a good photographer.

Brereton Pays Tribute.

U. S. 9TH AIR FORCE HDQ. IN NORMANDY, July 26 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the 9th air force, paid tribute last night to Bede Irvin, Des Moines, Ia., Associated Press photograher who was killed by a bomb from a B-26 Marauder which fell short of its target. Brereton said:

"Mr. Irvin's death, which I understand is the first casualty among American civilian war correspondents in the present campaign, can but serve to exemplify the role that he and his colleagues have played and will play in this war. He was an unarmed observer who, heedless of personal danger, flew with us, lived with us, and worked with us that thru the medium of his profession he might bring home to all of us the truths of war."

Smashing American Assault Makes Five Mile Gain

U. S. TANK DRIVE CRUSHES NAZIS' NORMANDY LINES

1st Armored Offensive Plunges 5 Miles.

Armored bulldozers pushed forward. Protected by the guns of other tanks and our artillery, these bulled thru the hedges while armored doughboys and infantry worked along the edges of each field.

"The boys in those tanks are plenty good," said Capt. Kenneth Cowan of 471 Woodlawn av., Glencoe, Ill., a headquarters commandant.

Among the troops in the tank attack were Sgt. Walter Baker of Independence, Wis.; Sgt. Robert J. Pindell of Corydon, Ind.; Col. Carl Hutton of Terre Haute, Ind.; Capt. Luke Bolin, a chaplain, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Capt. John A. Ryan of Ann Arbor, Mich., a surgeon.

While the St. Gilles fight raged more doughboys and tanks battled for the key terrain around Marigny.

Scores of Nazis Slain.

All thru this area, in every field, were scores of dead Germans. Some had been killed in the pre-assault bombing, but many more were slain today in the hedgerow fighting. It always was the doughboys and their artillery who first won the key positions. These moves then enabled the armor to move up in force.

One fighter pilot had the distinction of "capturing" from three to five German tanks as he strafed them just north of Casigny. The crews jumped out and waved white flags.

Other fighters and fighter bombers pounded enemy columns moving out from Coutances. They set afire 12 tanks, 12 trucks, three staff cars, and a half-track.

BRITISH STOPPED

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 26.—Very serious German counter-attacks have held up the British-Canadian forces striking on the east end of the allies' Normandy front. Some dispatches said these forces had suffered a serious setback in the Orne-Odon wedge when they ran into a tough defense belt.

The British reportedly have been pushed out of the town of Esquay, about 8 miles southwest of Caen, and off of important Hill 112, tho both never were completely in allied hands. Numerous enemy counter-thrusts were repelled during the day, however, including one northwest of Verrieres.

4 Nazi Divisions Engaged.

Heavy fighting continued south of Caen. At least four enemy divisions are engaging the British-Canadian forces on a 5 mile front in the region of May-sur-Orne and Tilly-la-Campagne. In this area heavy German troop movements have been observed and the 2d panzer [armored] division has been sent into action.

Despite the increasing Nazi blows, the British 2d army has been able to cling to Verrieres and St. Martin de Fontenay, 5 miles below Caen. Twice they pushed into May-sur-Orne and Tilly-la-Campagne, but were repulsed.

The British, observers said, have run into the best organized defenses yet seen on the Normandy front. The enemy has four armored divisions on a front no broader than 7 to 8 miles, supported for the first time by sufficient infantry to man the defense position.

Terrain Aids Defenders.

The panzers are quick to come to the support of the infantry and every thrust into enemy positions draws an immediate and violent reaction.

The ground slopes gradually uphill, which gives the defenders a considerable advantage. From hills the enemy can observe any moves by the attacking forces and direct mortars and artillery fire on them from the other side of the crest.

Despite this, British patrols have advanced 500 yards south of Verrieres.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Yesterday's broadcast German war report said:

"In the course of heavy fighting south of Caen the enemy succeeded in breaking into our positions west of the road from Caen to Falaise and in bringing up further infantry and tank forces. Our troops, fighting frantically, prevented the enemy from enlarging his breaches and in the afternoon launched a counter-attack.

"After bitter fighting former positions were firmly in our hands again in the evening. Enemy losses are very heavy. Eighteen tanks were destroyed.

"Northwest of St. Lo a defense battle on a large scale is raging. After the first enemy attacks, supported by the strongest artillery and air forces, had been repulsed, the enemy succeeded at some places in entering our front and in crossing the road from St. Lo to Periers in a southwestern direction. Counter-attacks are in progress. Since the early morning hours of today, fighting in great strength also extended to an area north of Periers. Battle planes attacked enemy deployments in the landing head with telling effect, heavily damaging a large transport off the coast. Eleven enemy machines were shot down in aerial combats."

R. A. F. AGAIN ATTACKS STUTTGART IN NIGHT FIRE AND BOMB RAID

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—More than 2,000 tons of explosives and thousands of fire bombs were dropped on Stuttgart last night by hundreds of R. A. F. heavy bombers in the second successive night's attack on that precision tool center.

From Italy a large force of American Flying Fortresses and Liberators flew into Austria and bombed military targets in the Vienna area.

R. A. F. Mosquitoes kept up their almost clocklike attacks on Berlin, strewing two-ton bombs over the Nazi capital. Other British bombers struck at flying bomb bases in France and at a synthetic oil plant at Wanne-Eickel in the Ruhr. Thirteen bombers were missing from the widespread attacks.

German broadcasts tonight told of the approach of formations of bombers over East Prussia, Kiel bay, western, northwestern, and southern Germany, as well as the lower Danube region.

COMMONS HAS SECRET SESSION ON ROBOT RAIDS

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—The house of commons went into an impromptu secret session today to discuss flying bombs.

Capt. Alec S. Cunningham-Reid, who had a tilt at the government last week with persistent questions about the robots, brought on today's secret session by raising "the urgent necessity of adequately dealing with looting from premises damaged by flying bombs."

When Prime Minister Churchill spoke on the robots July 6 he rejected all proposals for a secret discussion, but there have been insistent demands by members for more information.

Two patients were killed but 250 escaped injury when a robot hit a hospital in southern England today. London and southern England were hit by flying bombs at regular intervals during the night.

TITO UNITS LAND ON 3 ISLES OFF DALMATIA COAST

LONDON, July 26 (AP).—A war bulletin broadcast today from the Yugoslav headquarters of Marshal Tito said Partisan forces had landed on the islands of Peljesac, Korcula, and Mljet off the Dalmatian coast.

In the operations, the report announced, more than 70 Germans were killed and 180 captured. Mopping up of the coast opposite the islands, which are bunched together, continues.

On the mainland, the bulletin said, the German stronghold of Ribnik, east of Sibenic, was captured by Partisans.

CANADA, STIRRED BY NATIONALISM, SEEKS OWN FLAG

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Canada, July 26.—Are the Canadians getting ready to haul down the Union Jack? Maybe not, but the war has given rise to renewed agitation for a distinctive Canadian flag to become the symbol of the dominion as an equal associate in the commonwealth.

The Native Sons of Canada, an organization wagihg a campaign to get Canada a flag of its own, asserts Australia and New Zealand have distinctive flags. One plank in the platform of the Bloc Populaire party in Quebec also calls for a Canadian flag. At present, the Union Jack, the only flag flown in Canada, flies over public buildings.

The flag suggested has a blue background with crosses and fleur de lis in each corner.

Canadian units in Italy and France already are flying what is known as the Red Ensign [a red banner with the Union Jack and a coat of arms imposed] as a flag distinctive of Canada, on the authority of a general order issued by defense headquarters last January, says the Ottawa Globe.

Flown During Conference.

For some time, Canadian defense officials state, the Red Ensign rather than the Union Jack has been used to indicate the position of Canadian forces on war maps to distinguish their positions from British, United States, and Australian troops.

The most recent flag question has been raised by Lucien Dubois, Quebec Liberal, in a resolution asking for the appointment of a committee to examine the "expediency of adopting for Canada a distinctive flag which would represent the country as a whole."

Dubois is said to be opposed to adopting any entirely new design, such as the French Nationalists would like. He approves the Red Ensign.

Use Formally Ordered.

An official order in January of this year ordained that the Red Ensign is to be used on all occasions by formations of the Canadian army when they are serving in the same command or area with British, Australian or allied troops.

Wilfred Lacroix, another Quebec Liberal, reopened the national flag agitation this year in parliament. He asked the prime minister: "Has the government at last decided to endow Canada with a distinctive national flag to replace definitely the Union Jack which now flies over all our public buildings?"

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the question brought up the advisability of creating a flag controversy in time of war. He said that the Red Ensign had been used for 70 years when it was essential to have a distinctive flag.

From King's reply and from expressions of other government members it is believed that the government hopes the Red Ensign may in time be accepted as a compromise between those who demand retention of the Union Jack and others who seek a new flag—abandoning completely the Union Jack, symbol of empire association.

FLYER DESERTS, STEALS A CAR, TURNS BURGLAR

Arrested After Looting North Shore Home.

An army air forces veteran of the African campaign who deserted his base at Pocatello, Idaho, and stole a car in Lexington, Neb., was in the Town Hall police station last night after admitting he and a juvenile companion looted a palatial north shore home Tuesday night.

The deserter, Robert Savage, 19, of El Paso, Tex., said he joined the army in December, 1941, was promoted to sergeant in six months, and went overseas in the summer of 1942 with a bomber command. He related that on his 23d mission he was wounded in the knee by flak and sent home.

Admits Theft of Auto.

After two months in Bellevue hospital, New York, he was sent to Denver, Colo., and two weeks ago was released to Pocatello. Instead of going to his base, Savage went to Lexington, Neb., stole a car, and headed for Chicago, he related. He asserted he had had no furlough in two years. En route, he picked up a hitch-hiker, who gave his name to police as Robert Devins, 15, of 2341 Ainslie st.

Early this week, after arriving in Chicago, the pair decided to loot the home of Harry Kunin, 1201 S. Sheridan rd., Highland Park, because, Savage said, "he looked like he might be a millionaire." Kunin, retired president of Sprague Warner-Kenny Corp., owns a $350,000 lake front home.

Discovered Looting Home.

Savage said he entered the home thru a French door Tuesday night while Kunin was away and his wife, mother-in-law, and two servants were upstairs. He carried approximately $2,000 worth of silverware and other property to the car and had returned to the house when Kunin arrived and discovered the burglary, he said.

Savage fled and with Devins drove to Montrose beach where they were asleep when Chicago park police found them yesterday morning.

Town Hall police said Savage, who claimed to have the Purple Heart decoration, the air medal, and a good conduct ribbon, would be turned over to federal authorities today.

Chief of Police Martin E. Copp of Highland Park, said last night a warrant would be issued for Savage on a charge of burglary, if federal men did not prosecute. A warrant also will be issued for Devins, he added. Copp was holding William A. Lynn, 33, of Tomahawk, Wis., as a possible third participant in the Kunin burglary. Lynn was picked up near the Kunin residence. Savage told police, however, that he and Devins were alone.

Sgt. S. P. Menkowski, 27, Is Wounded in France

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Menkowski, 1506 Greenview av., were notified yesterday by the war department that their son, Sgt. S. P. Menkowski, 27, has been wounded in action in France.

Polé Campaign

In the same alley, off Wood st., Democratic campaign posters ask for the reëlection this fall of Municipal Judge Joseph H. McGarry and the election of Assistant State's Atty. William J. Tuohy as state's attorney. A picture of the electric light pole carrying these signs was published in yesterday's TRIBUNE. The signs were still up late yesterday.

Meanwhile, a sign boosting State's Atty. Courtney, Democratic nominee for governor, which appeared Tuesday on a light pole off Ashland av., near North av., was removed yesterday. All that remained were four nails and fragments of the sign.

Placing of signs and advertising on utility poles is in violation of chapter 36, section 30 of the Chicago city code.

PICK ARRINGTON FOR G. O. P. RACE IN 6TH DISTRICT

Russell Arrington, 137 Custer av., Evanston, an attorney, was chosen Republican nominee for state representative in the 6th senatorial district last night, to replace Alan E. Ashcraft Jr. of Evanston, who resigned the candidacy after his appointment as a master in chancery in Circuit court.

The selection was made by the Republican senatorial committee, composed of Ernest Forsberg, Fred Sparling, and Louise M. Ross, in the 50th ward Republican headquarters at 2323 Devon av.

Arrington was Ashcraft's campaign manager in the primary.

Lyons Reports Campaign Expenditure of $5,972

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—Richard J. Lyons, Libertyville, Ill., candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination in Illinois, has reported to the senate campaign expenditures committee he received contributions of $9,211, and spent $5,972. Sen. Lucas, Democratic candidate for renomination, reported contributions of $1,650 and expenditures of $648. William J. Baker, Chicago, also seeking the Republican nomination, reported no contributions and expenditures of $211.

BLASTS' FREAK ANTICS EXPLAIN HITLER ESCAPE

Adolf Hitler, who was reported to have lost his pants when a bomb exploded six feet from him while others in the same room were killed or maimed, may owe his life to the capriciousness of blast waves, the strange antics of which are described in the July 29 issue of the Journal of the American Medical association.

The article, "Blast Concussion Injury," was written by Lt. Col. David Woolfolk Barrow and Capt. Harmon T. Rhoads of the United States army medical corps. It reports on the cases of 200 persons exposed to air blast effects.

Bizarre Effects Noted.

"As was anticipated, the closer the individual to the explosion, the greater the injury," the article pointed out. "This was not always true, however, for bizarre effects were noted. One fortunate man who was standing between two men fatally injured, one of whom was found 42 feet from his original position, escaped uninjured except for perforations of the tympanic membrances [ear drums]. Another man was thrown 15 feet and turned completely around in midair, yet had only minor injuries."

A soldier who was resting his chin on the shoulder of another in front of him escaped another explosion with only a broken jaw altho the man on whom he was leaning was literally "blown to bits," the article reported.

Blast Waves Irregular.

A blast wave near its source is irregular in outline with many "eddies" in its periphery, and a man sheltered in such an eddy might escape serious damage, it was pointed out.

Blast waves, like sound waves, are reflected from surface to surface and are subject to reënforcement or neutralization on meeting a similar wave in the same or opposite phase, said the article, adding that this neutralization may explain why one man is seriously injured and another near him is not.

G. O. P. SENATORS' PARLEY CALLED BY VANDENBERG

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 26 (AP).—Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], asserting "chances for an early German collapse are sufficiently encouraging" to make early enactment of reconversion legislation vital, tonight announced he had summoned Republican senators to a Washington conference Tuesday morning.

Vandenberg, chairman of the senate Republican conference, said he had invited all Republican senators who intend to be in the capital when congress reconvenes to join in a meeting of the Republican senate steering committee for discussion of any further recess.

"Regardless of house action, the senate should proceed immediately with its own responsibility for completing reconversion legislation," he said.

RIBBONS, VALUED AT $222, STOLEN.

Sixty-five rolls of florist's ribbons, valued at $222, were stolen yesterday from an automobile parked on Van Buren st. near Canal st., Peter H. Johnson, 2315 N. Ridgeway av., told police.

"And when our boys get back, we've gotta warn them about how the girls will make a silly fuss over them. Remember how they lost their heads over us in 1918?"

INTERNED YANKS TO GET COLLEGE COURSE BY MAIL

Swiss Will Do Grading of De Paul Material.

Correspondence courses for American prisoners of war in European internment camps have been inaugurated by De Paul university in cooperation with war relief services, the National Catholic Welfare council, and Switzerland's University of Geneva.

The first shipment of correspondence course materials will be made this week, the Very Rev. Michael J. O'Connell, S. T. D., president of De Paul, said yesterday. The courses will be similar to those already offered in the university's large domestic extension school.

Geneva to Do Grading.

The material will be distributed within the prison camps by the American Red Cross. Student work will be guided and papers corrected by the University of Geneva faculty to avoid delay of sending work back to this country.

When the courses have been completed successfully, the student's work will be certified by the Swiss university and college credits will be granted by De Paul, Father O'Connell stated.

"Altho books and lesson plans will be distributed as if for regular correspondence courses, it is my hope the men will be allowed to organize classes within the camps," said Father O'Connell.

Varied Courses Offered.

Many basic commerce and liberal arts courses are being offered. These include accounting, business organization, business mathematics, principles of banking, production management, logic, cosmology, psychology, metaphysics, ethics, German, French, sociology, education, English literature, and contemporary American literature.

"These selections have been made for two reasons," Father O'Connell explained. "The courses will become a foundation for working toward a degree for those who wish to complete their educations upon being released and the basic courses are much more adaptable to self teaching."

G. O. P. RECALLS TRUMAN ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—Sen. Truman [D., Mo.], Democratic candidate for Vice President, was challenged by house Republicans today to answer during the coming campaign his own bitterly worded charges on the senate floor last year reflecting upon President Roosevelt's efficiency as commander in chief of the army and navy.

Rep. Taber.

Rep. Taber [R., N. Y.], ranking minority member of the house appropriations committee who will be chairman if the house goes Republican, in an interview, led the attack, asking how Truman can reconcile support of his running mate as indispensable to conduct of the war effort when his own words brand the war and navy departments as "throwing away tremendous sums of money with a scoop shovel."

The capital also buzzed today over the disclosure that Sen. Truman has his wife, Mrs. Bess W. Truman, on the senate pay roll as a $4,500 a year "clerk." His office admitted her duties require her presence only once or twice a week to pick up personal mail which she helps the senator answer.

Raised from $2,400.

Mrs. Truman, the records revealed, was on the pay roll from July, 1941, to June, 1943, at $2,400. She returned at the higher salary last fall and still draws $4,500.

Reached by telephone at Independence, Mo., Sen. Truman said his wife helps edit his committee reports in addition to assisting him in his personal correspondence.

Rep. Taber recalled that Sen. Truman on June 29, 1943, delivered one of the most stinging attacks ever voiced in the senate against the army and navy's handling of the hundreds of billions of dollars appropriated to them. He added, significantly, that "when public funds are to be expended, no one has any interest in what happens to them, no matter what his responsibilities may be under his oath of office."

Worse than Belief Scandals.

"That reference undoubtedly was to Mr. Roosevelt whose direct responsibility is the appointment of efficient and capable war administrators," said Taber. "Before the Democratic Vice Presidential candidate makes any speeches claiming that no one can replace his running mate as head of the war effort, let him reconcile such a claim with his own charges that billions have been thrown away with a scoop shovel."

Sen. Truman, Taber recalled, further charged that all the boondoggling scandals in connection with the administration of the relief administration were minor matters compared with army and navy handling of appropriations.

"They know how to waste money better than any other organization I have ever had anything to do with," Truman told the senate.

Supported by Jones.

"I wonder," commented Taber, "how the Vice Presidential candidate can justify his support of Mr. Roosevelt when he himself charges handicapping of the war effort by the appointees and subordinates of the commander in chief."

Rep. Jones [R., O.], another high ranking minority member of the appropriations committee, supported Taber.

"The waste of billions of dollars, contributed by the people in taxes and by the purchase of war bonds, attributed by Sen. Truman to the war department, has handicapped the conduct of the war," he declared in an interview. "Sen. Truman's findings as chairman of the special senate committee investigating the national defense, furnish the strongest evidence that Mr. Roosevelt is not only not indispensable, he should be replaced, to promote efficiency in the administrative functions of the army and navy."

CONVICTED OF IMPERSONATION.

John J. Garcia, 18, of 2109 W. 18th pl., was convicted yesterday in Boys court of a charge of impersonating a woman and was sent to jail for 30 days in lieu of a fine of $50 and costs. Garcia was arrested early Monday in Grant park by two policewomen.

Anyone who knows can tell the REAL THING!

It's EASY for anyone who knows fine whiskey to tell the real thing today.

Before the war, Calvert was the most called-for luxury whiskey in America. We believe it still is...for scarcity hasn't altered either the preference for finer whiskey, or Calvert's own finer quality.

In fact, many of our friends who sell and serve Calvert tell us—"Calvert continues to be the whiskey most often asked for by name."

Evidently, even in these days of whiskey shortage, it remains true that Clear Heads Choose Calvert. You may not always be able to get it...but it pays to keep asking for the best rather than the most plentiful whiskey.

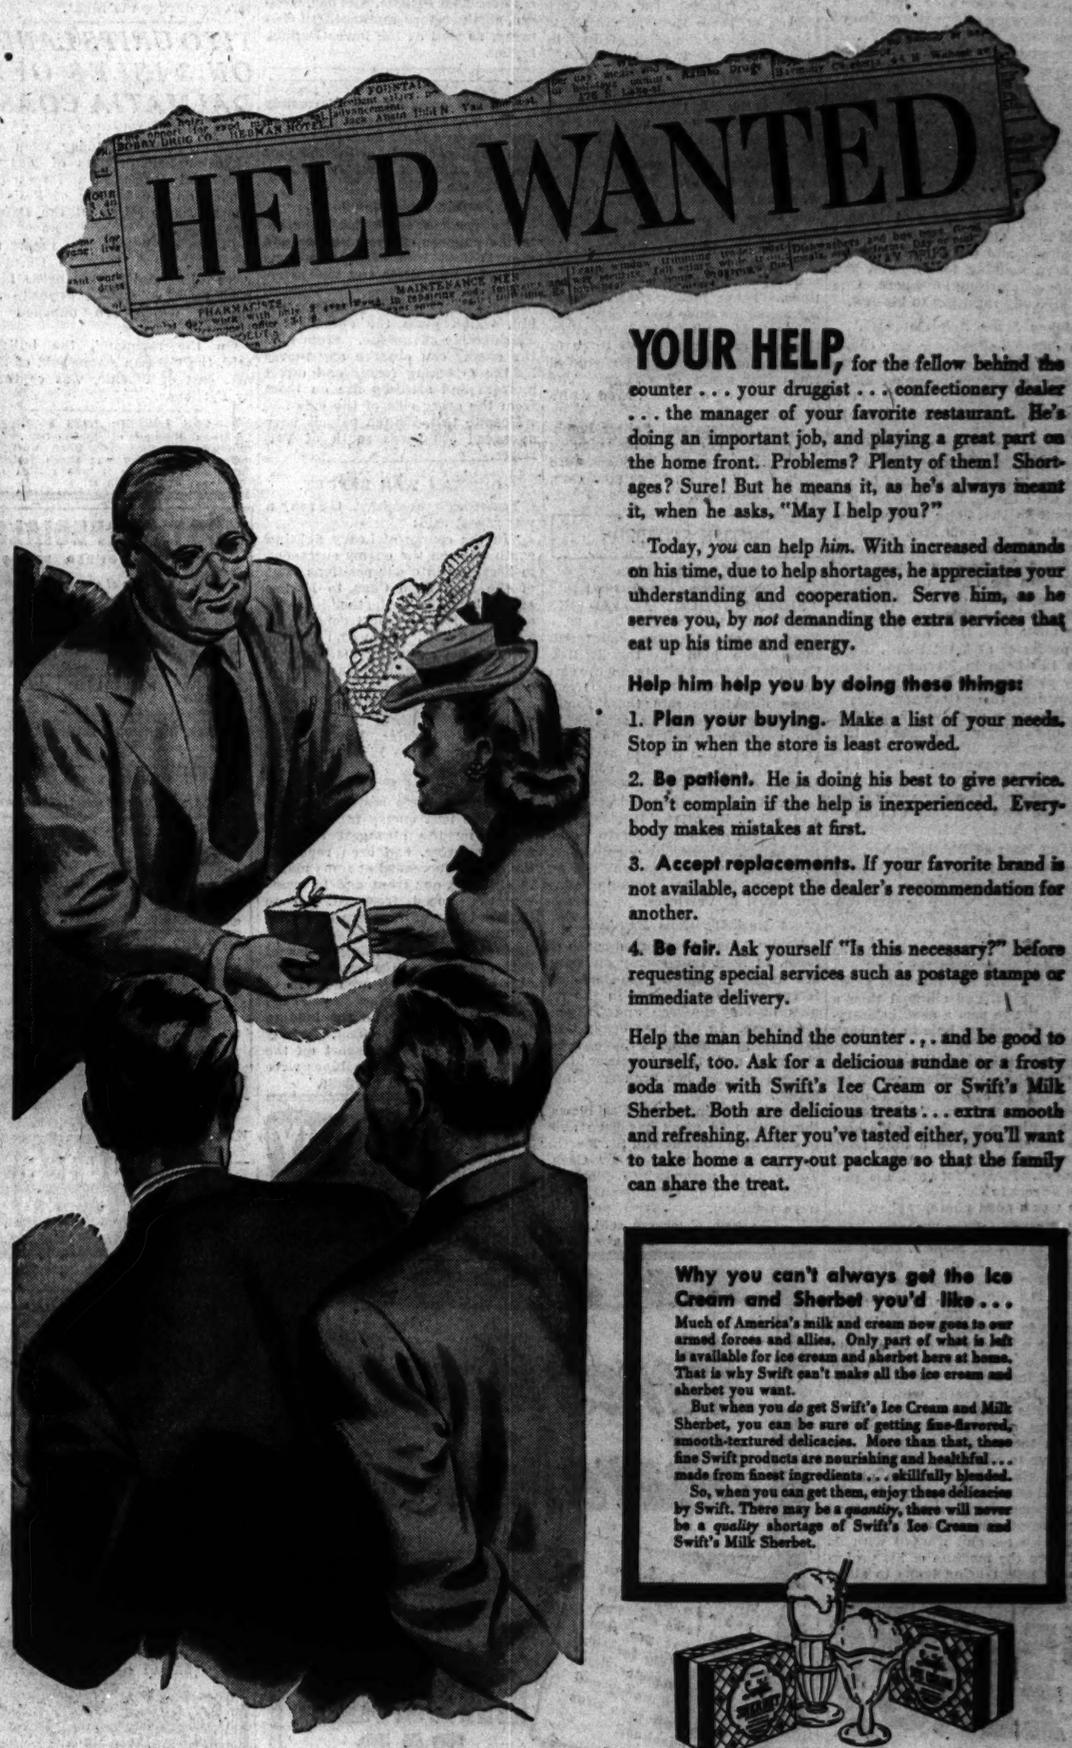
HELP WANTED



YOUR HELP, for the fellow behind the counter... your druggist... confectionery dealer... the manager of your favorite restaurant. He's doing an important job, and playing a great part on the home front. Problems? Plenty of them! Shortages? Sure! But he means it, as he's always meant it, when he asks, "May I help you?"

Today, you can help him. With increased demands on his time, due to help shortages, he appreciates your understanding and cooperation. Serve him, as he serves you, by not demanding the extra services that eat up his time and energy.

Help him help you by doing these things:

1. Plan your buying. Make a list of your needs. Stop in when the store is least crowded.

2. Be patient. He is doing his best to give service. Don't complain if the help is inexperienced. Everybody makes mistakes at first.

3. Accept replacements. If your favorite brand is not available, accept the dealer's recommendation for another.

4. Be fair. Ask yourself "Is this necessary?" before requesting special services such as postage stamps or immediate delivery.

Help the man behind the counter... and be good to yourself, too. Ask for a delicious sundae or a frosty soda made with Swift's Ice Cream or Swift's Milk Sherbet. Both are delicious treats... extra smooth and refreshing. After you've tasted either, you'll want to take home a carry-out package so that the family can share the treat.

Much of America's milk and cream now goes to our armed forces and allies. Only part of what is left is available for ice cream and sherbet here at home. That is why Swift can't make all the ice cream and sherbet you want.

But when you do get Swift's Ice Cream and Milk Sherbet, you can be sure of getting fine-flavored, smooth-textured delicacies. More than that, these fine Swift products are nourishing and healthful... made from finest ingredients... skillfully blended.

So, when you can get them, enjoy these delicacies by Swift. There may be a quantity, there will never be a quality shortage of Swift's Ice Cream and Swift's Milk Sherbet.

BRICKER FINDS HE AND DEWEY SEE EYE TO EYE

Agree on G.O.P. Plank: No World State.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., July 26.—Gov. Bricker of Ohio, sitting side by side with Gov. Dewey on a porch sofa today, told a press conference the two see eye to eye on campaign issues, including the "no world state" plank in the Republican platform. The 42 year old Presidential nominee listened attentively while his stalwart, white haired, 51 year old running mate repeated his preconvention attacks on Communists, internationalists, and union-now followers of President Roosevelt.

In this first meeting of the two candidates since the Chicago convention there was a freer discussion of issues than heretofore because Dewey has been conserving his ammunition for his speaking campaign. It was Bricker's press conference and Dewey took little part in the discussion.

Will Repeat Pledges.

"I'm ready to go back to the 25 or 30 states I stumped before the convention and repeat my message in behalf of the entire Republican ticket," Bricker said, opening the conference. He campaigned for the Presidential nomination on a forthright, midwestern nationalism theme of keeping United States interests first.

"In the same message?" he was asked.

"Certainly," Bricker replied, exchanging glances with Dewey. "There is nothing I have said at all inconsistent with what Gov. Dewey has said, and nothing inconsistent with the Republican platform."

He was asked to compare the foreign planks of the two parties.

"I think the Republican plank states more clearly the thinking of the American people," replied the Vice Presidential nominee. "The Democrats were not very definite in their plank."

Not a Clear Statement.

"I think they [the Democrats] came out very definitely for an international organization and the use of force to maintain peace," volunteered a reporter for PM, Marshall Field's New York newspaper, which is described as the uptown edition of the Daily Worker, official Communist organ.

"It was not a very clear statement as to what it should be, or who should command the force," Bricker said.

"It would be under the command of an international organization," the PM reporter continued.

"I have always opposed that," Bricker, a World War I. veteran, retorted. "I think our own forces should be under our own command at all times. Of course, we'll cooperate with other nations of the world to preserve peace."

Silent on Truman.

Bricker had no comment on his opponent, Sen. Truman, picked by Roosevelt and Hillman after ditching Vice President Wallace in midstream. He said he didn't know Sen. Truman and did not know whether the Truman committee's criticism of the New Deal would be used in the Republican campaign.

The baiters in the press corps asked him if he welcomed support from John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' president, from Hamilton Fish, New York nationalist congressman, and from Gerald L. K. Smith, rabble rouser isolationist. To each of the questions, Bricker replied substantially the same.

"Their votes count the same as any one's," Bricker smiled. "And elections are won by counting votes."

The two governors continued their discussion thru the afternoon and into the night, laying plans for the campaign and also outlining a tentative agenda to be presented to a meeting of 26 Republican governors in St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 2 and 3. Tomorrow, Bricker is going to New York to confer with Herbert Brownell Jr., chairman of the national Republican committee.

The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Rose Rowe, 4828 Sheridan rd.]

THE QUESTION.

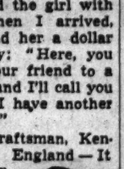
What should be said or done to one who, when asked to have dinner with you, always brings a friend?

WHERE ASKED.

Lawson Y. M. C. A., 30 W. Chicago av.

THE ANSWERS.

Marvin West, singer, Detroit, Mich.—If I had a dinner date with a girl who was in the habit of bringing a girl friend with her and she had the girl with her when I arrived, I'd hand her a dollar and say: "Here, you take your friend to a movie and I'll call you later in the week. I have another appointment tonight."



Cyril Turner, aircraftsman, Kendall, Westmorland, England—It would be a rather expensive venture to take two girls to dinner when you had only planned on one. If I liked the girl, I'd ask her if she had enough money to pay the bill. That might make her stop and think the next time. It would be a lesson for her.

William White, 30 W. Chicago av.—I've never had a girl friend bring a friend to dinner with her, but I've heard that it does happen. I wouldn't stand for it if it happened consistently. I'd take the girl to one side and demand an explanation. I'd tell her that she had to choose between her girl friend and me.

Lt. Andrew Levada, Brooklyn, N. Y.—If I liked my girl's friend I'd bring some one along for her the next time. However, I wouldn't want to bring too nice a fellow because then my girl might fall for him. Then, too, if the girl didn't like the date I brought for her she might not tag along the next time.

Robert Ferri, singer, 4736 Flournoy st.—That would be a simple problem. Regardless of the parasite's personality and looks, I'd spend the evening paying attention to her. I might even invite her to join us again for dinner. That would make my girl jealous and I'd have her alone the next time.

Allan Davies, musician, 30 W. Chicago av.—When a girl brings a friend along to dinner consistently, I think it's obvious she is either a moocher or doesn't care for you. I'd rather eat alone than with some one interested in getting a free meal. I'd either drop the girl or never again take her to dinner. Enough is enough.

REPORT INDIANA, MASSACHUSETTS IN G. O. P. RANKS

New York, July 26 [Special].—Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman, today received information that Massachusetts, with 17 electoral votes, and Indiana, with 14, probably would go to the Republicans in the November election.

The information concerning Massachusetts came from George Rowland, state chairman. In an interview at national headquarters, Brownell said Rowland had told him disunity in the Democratic party in Massachusetts had increased since the Democratic national convention.

Mrs. Grace B. Reynolds, former member of the national committee, said she expected Gov. Dewey and Gov. Bricker to carry Indiana. "The New Deal for years has been causing dissension among the American people," she told Brownell, "now it is a victim of its own poison and is in fact disintegrating. Liberal minded people will support the Republican party in this campaign as the one hope for rallying the nation in harmony for good government."

COTTON ED SMITH ADMITS DEFEAT IN SO. CAROLINA

Columbia, S. C., July 26 [Special.—Sen. E. D. [Cotton Ed] Smith, colorful senate dean now rounding out his 36th year in that body, today acknowledged defeat in his quest for renomination in yesterday's Democratic primary.

Leading him by more than 46,000 votes was Gov. Olin D. Johnston, who tried unsuccessfully, with President Roosevelt's help, to unseat the veteran in 1938.

"If this election meets the approval of a majority of the qualified voters of South Carolina, I abide by their decision," Smith said in a statement from his headquarters in Florence.

Ran as New Deal Foe.

The 79 year old senator, seeking his seventh consecutive term, asked renomination as an indorsement of his fight against New Dealism and his ardent championship of "white supremacy." Johnston, 48, a lawyer who formerly was a textile worker, clung to the Roosevelt coat tail thruout the campaign.

Returns from 1,452 of the state's 1,540 precincts gave Johnston 126,909 votes against 80,727 for Smith. Three other candidates trailed as follows: Atty. Gen. John M. Daniel, 12,985; Dr. Carl B. Epps, 7,182, and Augustus S. Merrimon, 2,567.

In Senate Since 1909.

It appeared there would be no need of a South Carolina run-off inasmuch as Johnston had an apparent safe majority of all votes cast.

Smith, who is just a month short of 80 years old, has been in the senate since March 4, 1909. His political career was built on aid to farmers, especially cotton growers, opposition to tariffs and, in recent years, denunciation of New Deal practices as injurious to state rights.

MRS. CARAWAY LOSES

Little Rock, Ark., July 26 [Special].—Sen. Hattie W. Caraway [D., Ark.], the senate's only woman member, today conceded defeat in her race for renomination in the Arkansas Democratic primary. The apparent winner was Rep. Fulbright, 39 years old.

Returns from 1,918 of the state's 2,087 precincts gave Fulbright 61,235 votes; Gov. Homer Adkins, 44,953; Col. T. H. Barton, El Dorado oil man, 39,863; Caraway, 22,809, and J. Rosser Venable, 681.

The returns indicated a run-off between the two high candidates would be necessary on Aug. 8 between Fulbright and Adkins.

Mrs. Caraway, who has been in the senate since Nov. 13, 1931, following the death of her senator husband, was the only candidate to come out formally for President Roosevelt for a fourth term. Tho she did not openly claim the President's indorsement, she released a letter from Roosevelt in which he referred to her as an old friend.

AFL 'PLEASED' WITH FALL OF HENRY WALLACE

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor in its weekly news service said today AFL leaders were "highly pleased with the outcome of the Democratic national convention," and added:

"Defeat of Vice President Wallace for renomination, and the choice of Sen. Truman to replace him on the ticket were two of the major objectives of more than 50 AFL union representatives who attended as delegates."

Led by President William Green, the article said, the AFL forces also obtained important concessions in the party platform. Federation leaders made no secret of their hostility to Wallace, whose record, the article said, showed repeated acts of discrimination against the AFL, and whose allegiances were obviously to the left wing element in the CIO.

R. J. LYONS PINS 'DEMOCOMS' TAG ON THE NEW DEAL

Red Rule of Party Hit by Nominee.

Taylorville, Ill., July 26 [Special].—Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States senator, today renamed the Democratic party the "Democoms" party in recognition of the role played by Communists at the recent "so-called" Democratic national convention.

In a speech at the Christian county fair Lyons raked the New Deal campaign ship from stem to stern. He assailed John Maynard Keynes British economic theorist, and his schemes to induce this nation to continue trying to spend its way to prosperity. Americans of Main street see in Dewey and Bricker the leaders who speak their own language, he said.

Not Jeffersonian Democrats.

"I say so-called Democratic convention," he said, "because the leaders of the forces in control were not the kind of Democrats that you and I have known in downstate Illinois politics.

"Perhaps it should be called the 'Democoms' convention. Certainly no true Jeffersonian Democrat would want it to be called a Democratic convention. In fact, the Communists openly played as strong a hand as did those who still call themselves Democrats—the machine bosses.

"The bosses would have looked mighty strange to Jefferson and Jackson if they could have looked down upon them from their portraits in the Stadium.

"On the stand there were the leaders of the CIO political action committee—Sidney Hillman in the general's tent—and on the floor speaking for Michigan's delegation was CIO's Frankenstein, leader of the sit-down strikes in Detroit."

No Tears for Wallace.

Neither farmers nor business men will shed tears for Wallace, said Lyons, but the manner in which he was slaughtered gives warning to all. Wallace expressed only what Roosevelt approved of in New Deal-ism, but he was refused renomination because of his espousal of the right of Negroes to vote, Lyons said.

"The sacrifice of Wallace should teach the American people that the forces of intolerance still control the so-called Democratic party," he said. "It should warn the Negroes that whatever campaign promises are made by the fourth term candidate and his new running mate; those persons who for generations have resisted Negro progress in the south are satisfied that the promises shall not be kept."

Main street will not tolerate an international body being given the power to decide what America shall do with its man power and its resources, Lyons said.

Scant Sympathy for Dreamer.

"They will have scant sympathy for the dreamers, who when peace time production is restored, would send American plows and tractors to Russia and China before our own worn out machinery is replaced," he said. "They will insist that home needs come first in America, just as they do in Britain, in Russia, or in any nation that is smart enough to survive."

"Unless the administration of America is restored to the people with the election of Dewey next November, we may expect the indispensable man and his indispensable allies—Bosses Hannegan, Kelly, Hague, Flynn, and Crump—to assume that they have acquired this country by a sort of permanent lend-lease."

ATTORNEY TO APPEAL IN ADVERSE RULING ON FEDERAL BALLOT

Atty. Urban A. Lavery said yesterday he would appeal Federal Judge William J. Campbell's action Tuesday dismissing Lavery's suit to compel Gov. Green to certify the so-called bobtail federal ballot for overseas service men as valid in Illinois. Lavery said he would go before the Circuit Court of Appeals Monday and request an early hearing because of the emergency character of the matter. Judge Campbell sustained a motion by William C. Wines, assistant attorney general, to dismiss the suit on the ground that federal courts lacked jurisdiction.

G.O.P. ENLISTING KIN TO SWELL SOLDIERS' VOTE

Encouraged by news that more than 25,000 soldiers from Chicago and Cook county already have applied for ballots to vote in the Nov. 7 election and that more than 30,000 requests have been received downstate, Republican workers thruout Illinois yesterday were reported redoubling their efforts to help get his ballot to every Illinoisan in the army and navy.

John F. Tyrrell, state Republican chairman, and George Fisher, who heads the city and county G. O. P. committees, said every effort was being made to get the ballot applications to the men fighting in all parts of the world, thru their families or relatives. Precinct workers are going from door to door with the application forms. What arguments they hope to exert on the fighting men also are being presented thru those they left at home.

No Influence on Fighting Men.

"Our workers," Fisher said, "are distributing some 200,000 application cards to be sent to the men in the field. Except thru the parents or other relatives, the organization is attempting no influence upon them in voting."

The local Democratic organization headed by Mayor Kelly is doing a double job. Ward leaders said their organizations had taken the names of men in the army and navy from the poll lists and would send ballot applications to them from headquarters. In addition, the precinct workers will visit the homes and urge the parents and families not only to see that their fighting sons, fathers, brothers, or sweethearts vote, but that they vote Democratic, particularly for President Roosevelt for a fourth term.

Fisher said he understood that letters urging the fighters to vote Democratic are going with the ballot applications sent out by the Democratic ward organizations. Henry Sonnenschein, Democratic clerk of the Superior court and committeeman of the 22d ward, however, denied this.

"We have been sending out ballot applications for some time," Sonnenschein said, "but if literature of any kind goes with them I have never seen any of it." He added that any electioneering the Democrats are doing is, as far as he knows, being done by working thru parents or families.

Thruout the state the ballot application is a simple form. All the soldier or sailor need do is sign one and get his superior officer to sign. The form then is mailed back and his ballot will go to him in plenty of time for him to mark it and get it back before Nov. 7.

Returned to County Clerk.

Fisher explained that all the ballot applications from the soldiers or sailors are returnable to county clerks. Then, in such territory as Chicago, where an election commission is in operation, these are turned over to the commission. The others are handled by the county clerks directly.

Under the Illinois law covering soldier and sailor voting, the applications are not supposed to be returned prior to 100 days before the election. The authorities, therefore, are holding all early applications until the time limit has been reached for the official record.

CHARGES SON BURNED HER FEET.

Edward Schmid, 46, iron worker son of Mrs. Mary Nillsen, burned his mother's feet with matches and locked her out of their home at 1428 Wellington av., she told Judge Harry P. Beam in Town Hall court yesterday. Schmid was ordered examined by the Municipal court psychiatrist.

PLANT'S DELIVERIES OF MILK ARE HALTED BY DRIVERS' STRIKE

Seeking to obtain a union contract which it is said will provide about $1,000 a month in wages and commissions for each milk truck driver serving stores in Chicago's west suburbs for the Arlington Heights branch of the Pet Milk company, the Milk Wagon Drivers union, local 753 of the AFL teamsters' union, called a strike at the plant yesterday morning.

John Randag, manager of the plant, said payment of the scale asked by the union would amount to about $1,000 a month in wages and commissions for each driver. He said the company was willing to present its case to the war labor board.

James Kennedy, president of the drivers' union, said negotiations had been in progress for a year to obtain a union contract with the company. Failure to obtain the contract caused the union's executive board, with the permission of the AFL Teamsters' Joint council, to order the strike continued until the company agrees to meet the union's terms.

The Arlington Heights plant serves 30 stores thruout the Maywood, Evergreen Park, Downers Grove, and Desplaines area. These stores were all without milk supplies yesterday.

54 HOUR WEEK IS ORDERED IN ARMY SERVICE FORCES

War Goods Lag Is Basis of Edict.

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The army, setting the pace in its campaign to increase production of critical equipment and supplies, today ordered a six hour increase in the working week of all army services forces personnel in headquarters organizations and in arsenals and depots having unfinished work. They will work a nine hour day, 54 hour week.

Effective immediately, Lt. Gen Brehon Somervell, chief of the service forces, also banned all leaves of absence or vacations for the 1,300,000 military and civilian personnel of the services forces.

The move followed urging from the military that civilian industry increase production. Earlier this month the war department declared its monthly goals of war goods deliveries were not being met, and two weeks ago Assistant Secretary of War Patterson reported production of army weapons and equipment was 400 million dollars behind schedule in the second quarter of this year.

Affects 50,000 Immediately.

The service forces have 425,000 military personnel and 877,000 civilian employes in the United States. There was no immediate indication of the total number whose work week would be increased. Definitely affected, however, are the 10,000 military and 40,000 civilian personnel of all headquarters organizations, of which, 6,000 military and 29,000 civilian employes are in Washington.

The order exempted plants already working three full shifts a day, and determination of its application to other establishments was left to the commanding generals of the services.

Boosts Civilians' Pay.

Since the normal working week of 40 hours applies to civilian employes of the army as well as to workers in private industry, the order will have the effect of giving time and a half pay for 14 hours of overtime each week to all civilian workers affected. The pay of military personnel will not be increased.

"Where compliance with this order results in surplus personnel," said the order, "such personnel will be promptly transferred to other activities."

UNION PROTESTS I. C.'S HIRING OF JAP-AMERICANS

A mass meeting of eight divisions of the AFL Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes union will be held tonight at 9231 Cottage Grove av. to protest the hiring of Japanese-American track layers by the Illinois Central railroad.

Frank L. Noakes, general chairman of the I. C. branch of the union, said the meeting follows an ultimatum he issued to the railroad Tuesday demanding that 59 Japanese-Americans be discharged because other union members refuse to work with them because they "are dangerous and may sabotage our vitally needed railroad transportation system."

At a meeting yesterday between Noakes and I. C. officials and representatives of the war relocation authority an attempt was made by the WAA representatives to convince Noakes the Japanese-Americans employed were of the second and third generations and were "good, patriotic Americans." Noakes told the meeting that if the Japanese-Americans were not discharged "his 8,000 members would take a vacation."

UNION'S DECREE ENDS STRIKE AT PULLMAN PLANT

A threat by Felix K. Knight, president of the AFL Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, to drop from union membership the 111 riveters on strike at the Michigan City, Ind., plant of the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, ended the walkout yesterday when all the men returned to their jobs.

The strike was called July 14 after the men balked at maintaining the 1942 production rate of steel freight cars altho they had received a wage increase during the last two years while the company was not producing all-steel cars.

INCISO UNION DROPS STRIKE IN WAR PLANT

Without gaining a single point in the dispute that caused 85 members of the AFL United Automobile Workers union to go on strike July 19 at the Chicago Die Mould Manufacturing company plant, 4001 Wrightwood av., the strikers returned yesterday.

Angelo Inciso, Chicago ex-convict head of the union, who was arrested Sunday night while loitering near the plant by Lt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, was granted a continuance until Aug. 31 in South State Street court yesterday on a disorderly conduct charge.

The company refused to fire women workers at the union's request. When the strikers returned, the nonunion girls remained at their benches. The company makes radio and radar equipment for the navy.

Foundry Workers Strike; Accuse WLB of Stalling

Accusing the war labor board of stalling in rendering a decision on their demands for wage increases and other union contract improvements, 200 members of local 453 of the CIO United Automobile Workers union went on strike yesterday at the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company, 4544 W. 26th st.

PEACH GROWERS' TROUBLES CITED IN PLEA TO OPA

Bowles Asked to Adjust Price Inequities.

The plight of Illinois peach growers under rulings and controls of the office of price administration was described yesterday by Frank E. Trobaugh of Trobaugh Homestead, West Frankfort, Ill., in a letter to Chester Bowles, national administrator of OPA.

Trobaugh, who for many years has produced peaches for the wholesale and retail trade, appealed for an adjustment before Aug. 1 in the wide spread between the wholesale ceiling of $3.66 and the retail price of $8 a bushel.

Cites Difficulties.

"It takes five or six years for a peach tree to come into bearing," Trobaugh wrote, summing up the handicaps under which peach growers must operate. "Last year the frost got our crop. This year a storm on July 5 broke about one-fourth of the limbs on our trees.

"Farm labor costs have increased 300 to 400 per cent during the last few years.

"The arbitrary price you have set to the peach grower is unreasonably out of line. Four or five years ago we sold our peaches for from $2.50 to $2.75 a bushel. Now that we are having to pay three times what we did then to produce the fruit, we should be entitled to something near the same percentage of increase for our fruit.

"Why the Discrimination?"

"You have set the retail at $8 a bushel on these peaches. The grower should have at least $6 of that $8. . . . We Illinois growers fail to see why you have favored growers in the southern states by letting them sell their peaches in our market today for $5 or $6 a bushel wholesale. Now that our peaches are ready to be harvested you clamp down and limit us to $3.66. Why the discrimination? Is it political?"

Trobaugh urged that the OPA, instead of fixing prices in New York or Washington offices, send representatives to the peach growing region, which centers about Carbondale, and there consult with the growers on actual production conditions.

ISSUE NEW GAS COUPONS FOR HARVEST TIME

Gasoline rations to complete harvesting and carry on other essential nonhighway activities are being issued in Chicago in the form of E-2 and R-2 coupons, Rae E. Walters, regional office of price administration head, said yesterday. In addition to these new coupons, there are E-1 and R-1 coupons, which most farmers now are using, and the old type E's and R's without serial numbers. All types are valid, Walters said. All R coupons are worth five gallons of gasoline each, and E's are worth one gallon. They are issued to farmers and other nonhighway gasoline users for tractors, stoves, sawmills and mining, logging and construction equipment.

Reopen Lake Shore Dr. Lanes After Resurfacing

Lake Shore dr. express lanes which were closed for resurfacing have been reopened to traffic, Otto K. Jelinek, park district traffic engineer, said yesterday. The drives were resurfaced between Ohio st. and North av.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

LANSING, Mich., July 26.—Michigan has been more fortunate than most of the corn belt, as scattered local showers have helped prevent the drouth from assuming serious proportions. More rain is needed, however, to help the state harvest a bumper crop from one of the largest planted acreages in its history.

Farmers have increased their acres of major crops considerably over those of last year. Winter wheat acreage is up 46 per cent; corn, 16 per cent; oats, 24 per cent; rye, 20 per cent, and sugar beets, 35 per cent. Idle crop land and pastures have been converted to production this year in an effort to obtain a maximum of food.

The state has 1,805,000 acres planted to corn, the largest total in its history. A yield of 70,395,000 bushels is indicated, according to C. J. Borum, agricultural statistician.

Winter Wheat Tops Record.

The largest winter wheat crop in a century is coming in from 952,000 acres, with the average yield running 24½ bushels per acre. The oat crop, altho larger than last year's near-failure, still is not satisfactory. The yield is expected to reach 46,563,000 bushels, which is only about 3 million bushels ahead of the five year average.

Michigan's famed fruit crop was in above average condition on July 1, except the apples. The peach harvest is estimated at 3,600,000 bushels, the second largest in the state's history. The largest cherry crops ever produced in the state are in the making.

Cherries Making History.

The harvest of sour cherries is estimated at 52,400 tons. The sweet cherry harvest is set at 4,600 tons, or 40 per cent above average. Orchardists now fear storms may knock the fruit off before it can be harvested.

Altho labor is scarce, the essential work is being done. Pickers in the orchards are in fairly good supply, and the crop is moving in good condition to the canning and processing plants. Here the use of German war prisoners is preventing any of the harvest from going to waste.

The apple crop is spotty again, and an estimated harvest of 7,800,000 bushels is about the same as the 10 year average. Pears, plums, and grapes are in abundance, and an excellent harvest is indicated.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

ONE common garden error noted at this time of the year is the practice of breaking the stems of onion plants prior to harvesting the bulbs for winter storage. Gardeners thus decrease the size of the onions and the total yield of the crop. As long as the foliage is green, the bulbs are growing. The stems will turn brown and fall naturally as soon as the bulbs have reached maximum size.

Gardeners should not delay the onion harvest after the stems turn brown and fall. Storage qualities are highest if the bulbs are picked within three days after this occurs. The bulbs should be pulled when there is no dew or rain on the ground, and be allowed to cure for two days on dry turf.

They should be picked up in the evening of the harvest day, then returned to turf the next morning after the dew has disappeared. After such curing they should be stored on open racks in a garage or other dry storeroom until frost time.

Drouth Is State Peril.

Feed reserves in the state are low, while live stock numbers continue high, despite a reduction in the swine and poultry population. The number of cattle on feed has dropped sharply, as elsewhere in the corn belt.

If the weather is favorable, Michigan expects one of the best crop years in its history. Continued drouth thru the next few weeks, however, will cause prospects to decline rapidly.

PUT UNDER COURT SUPERVISION.

George Hancko, 64, of 443 W. 61st st., who allowed a 12 year old runaway girl to live in his apartment for 12 days, was placed under supervision of the Domestic Relations court for one year yesterday by Judge Victor A. Kula.

MERCHANDISE STOLEN.

Two men, who accosted him near 1506 Trumbull av., took 18 dozen pairs of hose, five pairs of suspenders, and $48, Levy Israel, 50, of 1636 Trumbull av. told police yesterday. He said the merchandise was valued at $67.

EXPERTS SIZE UP TURKEYS; AMPLE SUPPLY IS SEEN

Miss Alice R. Peppers, administrator of the war food administration's order to provide Christmas turkey for every man and woman in the armed service, inspected a few prime specimens yesterday at the Fulton Market Cold Storage company, 1000 Fulton st. Accompanying her were Maj. Emil C. Voll and Capt. J. G. Richardson, of the Chicago office of the army quartermaster corps; Graydon McCulle, president of the Minnesota Turkey Growers association, and Herbert Beyers, president of the Northwest Turkey Growers association, of Salt Lake City.

War food administration officials said the requirement is 4½ pounds of turkey for each man and woman in service. They estimated this will leave an average of three pounds each for civilian consumers.

Altho the consumption estimate for the armed forces is a military secret, it will exceed last year's 35 million pounds, the WFA officials said. Preliminary surveys by the National Turkey federation, which has been in session here, indicate the supply will be greater than last year's.

West Chicago Soldier, 19, Badly Wounded in France

Pvt. Robert William Buchanan, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Buchanan of West Chicago, was seriously wounded in France July 5, a message received by his parents yesterday said.

CORN PROSPECT GAINS AS RAINS BREAK DROUTH

Improved prospects for the vital middle western corn crop resulted from the heavy thundershowers which fell early yesterday over most of Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana and broke a six week drouth.

In Illinois the rains varied in intensity from less than .30 of an inch in the Moline, Carbondale, and Springfield districts to almost 1¼ inches in the Effingham and Peoria areas. Precipitation measured .70 of an inch in Chicago, with the west suburbs getting slightly more. The reading in Joliet was .94 of an inch.

Weather forecasters reported that the rains were moving into Ohio and the east where drought conditions have persisted for more than a month and a half.

C. A. Hughes, Cook county farm advisor, described yesterday's rains as "worth a million dollars" to northern Illinois farmers. All of the vegetable crops, as well as field corn, pastures, and hay crops, were in poor condition. Hughes pointed out that rainfall in Cook county this month still is 1.18 inches below normal, despite yesterday's showers. The field corn and alfalfa hay require additional "followup" rains to insure a heavy yield, he said.

Charles Glover, of the Blue Island office of the Cook county farm bureau, said yesterday's rain was particularly beneficial to the tomatoes and onion sets being grown by truck farmers in the southern part of the county.

Bolt Sets Zion Bowling Lane Afire; $35,000 Loss

Lightning yesterday struck the Zion Bowling lanes, 2647 Sheridan rd., Zion, and started a fire which caused $35,000 damage. Mrs. Mary Hanlon, 2719 Elizabeth av., Zion, an employe, only person in the place, was knocked down by the bolt but escaped injury. Ten soldiers brought by truck from a nearby camp aided Zion firemen in extinguishing the flames. Otto F. Lawrence, the owner, said the bowling alley was built in 1940 at a cost of $70,000.

THE LIE THAT SOLDIERS CAN'T VOTE.

Federal Judge Campbell dismissed, as the Constitution clearly requires him to do, a suit seeking to compel Gov. Green to certify the bobtailed federal ballot as legal when cast by Illinois service men overseas.

The suit was brought on behalf of three absent soldiers by Urban A. Lavery, a reputable attorney of this city. Mr. Lavery didn't help his case any by the assertion that "the governor is the only bottleneck depriving some 300,000 service men overseas of receiving the federal ballot." Whether consciously or not, Mr. Lavery was falling in with the propaganda of the Communists and their fellow travelers within the New Deal.

The 300,000 Illinoisans overseas are not going to be deprived of their votes. The Illinois absentee voters' act, as amended under the leadership of Gov. Green, gives them an ample opportunity to vote and gives them a fuller voice in the conduct of political affairs than would the crooked federal ballot that Mr. Lavery sought to have the federal court foist on the men and women in service. The lie that soldiers cannot vote unless they are allowed to use the bobtailed ballot is a Communist invention and is being promulgated on the usual Communist theory that if you tell a lie often enough and loudly enough no amount of demonstration of the truth will keep a large number of people from believing the lie.

The suit was, as Judge Campbell found, without merit. He referred to the 2d article of the Constitution in dismissing it. The Communist lie would not travel so far if citizens were as familiar as they should be with this section of the Constitution, which clearly vests in the states the power of determining how the Presidential electors shall be chosen. The relevant portions of the Constitution and of the 12th amendment, which was adopted after the election of Jefferson and Burr in 1800, are these:

"Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the congress; but no senator or representative or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States shall be appointed an elector.

"The electors shall meet in their respective states and vote by ballot for President and Vice President, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice President, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President and of all persons voted for as Vice President, and of the number of votes for each, which list they shall sign, and certify and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government, of the United States, directed to the president of the senate; the president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President." [There are other provisions for election by congress in the event that no candidate has a majority of the electoral votes.]

When the fourth term manipulators sought to set up a phony election commission, a bobtailed, nameless ballot, and the other paraphernalia by which they hoped to steal the soldiers' votes in the November election they ignored the Constitution. Congress refused to authorize the fraud. It recognized that the states, and not the federal government, have control under the Constitution of the manner in which electors for President shall be chosen, and in approving the bobtailed ballot they provided that it should be used only in those states whose governors certify that the laws of their states made it legal. This was all that congress could do constitutionally. Its act amounted to no more than setting up machinery and offering a suggestion to the states, which their governors were free to accept or reject as their state laws provided.

Judge Campbell took this view of the federal ballot act in dismissing the suit. Gov. Green, in common with a majority of the other governors, has refused to authorize the use of the federal ballot in the Illinois election. His grounds are sound. It is illegal under state law; it is fraudulent, and it is unnecessary.

The provision of the Constitution, vesting in the states control of the selection of Presidential electors, was not adopted by accident. The men who drafted the Constitution had all lived thru the war in which this country won its independence from the overweening and abused power of an executive, the king of England. They recognized the need in the new country of an executive with sufficient power to conduct the government, but, in view of their own recent experiences, they feared that such an executive might use the powers granted him to subordinate the judicial and legislative departments to himself and make himself a dictator or monarch. They recognized that if the executive were given power to conduct the election of the electors who, in turn, elected him, it would be quite possible for him to perpetuate himself in office for life. That was why they kept that power out of the executive department of the federal government and placed it in the hands of the states.

The last 12 months have given the nation cause to be thankful for this foresight. Roosevelt is trying to perpetuate himself in power and in so doing he has tried to kidnap the conduct of the election from the states. Fortunately the Constitution stands in his way.

OPPORTUNITY FOR REPAYMENT.

Adm. King, in his report on naval operations in this war, says that "our strategy in the Atlantic involved maintaining our lines of communications to Great Britain and to future bases of operations against our enemies in Europe, in addition to insuring the security of the western hemisphere."

The defense of the British Isles was a part of our strategy almost from the day in September, 1939, when a state of war was declared between Great Britain and Germany. It was American troops, ships, and airplanes that saved England from invasion. We gave her guns and other equipment when our own stock was desperately short, as subsequent events in the Philippines were to show. More American troops, ships, and airplanes are now doing the major share of the fighting to liberate France.

Under those conditions, it is only common decency for England and France to turn over to us, the islands they hold on this side of the ocean, whose only value to them can lie in making war on America.

RUSSIA OUTWARD BOUND.

Even today we could hardly doubt the first intention of the victors who signed the peace treaty of 1919 to keep Germany disarmed. The methods were repressive and the machinery seemed to be adequate. "So long as the present treaty remains in force Germany undertakes to give every facility for any investigation [of armaments and restricted or prohibited production] the league of nations, acting, if need be, by a majority vote, may consider necessary." The military and naval observers soon were reporting evasions and violations. As early as 1924 a British investigator was informed by his government that it did not care to raise the question of "the manifold infringements."

Twelve years later Hitler was sufficiently rearmed to risk the Rhineland reoccupation and was unopposed. Why? Very likely he could have been chased back into Berlin and even chased out of office if Great Britain had been willing to support France. But at that moment when the present war unfolded itself in Nazi plans the statesmanship of England feared Russia more than Germany. A buffer state was wanted strong enough to keep bolshevism from flooding central and western Europe. The situation had changed. A perfectly reliable crystal ball might make statesmanship always wise, or at least show which of alternatives presented the greater danger. Lacking it, men must follow their best judgment, or their inclinations, or their prejudices.

Now it may be assumed that both Germany and Japan will be treated with greater severity in any peace dictated to them. Their arms will be taken away, their production of armaments stopped, their militarists punished, and a watch set over both of them which should not be winking at infringements within less than five years. When the victorious peace makers sit down to consider how aggressor nations can be stopped and what force shall be used against them it ought not to be necessary to have Germany or Japan in mind for some time to come. If either is able to pull a pistol on the family again it will be because of the gross negligence or indifference of persons banded together to prevent it.

Within the limitations of living men to say what shall and shall not be done, in the future Germany and Japan should be attended to and aggressor nations against whom force is to be used instantly should be looked for logically not among the present culprits, big or little, but elsewhere—among the victors themselves. The victors alone will have the power to commit aggressions, overrun territory, make war or unjust demands threatening war. In the immediate view of any undertaking to send an army against a disturber of the peace the nations to watch are Russia, Great Britain, and the United States. Who else could raise hell in the foreseeable future?—unless some South American country runs amuck against another good neighbor.

Probably neither the United States nor Great Britain will do anything the vestrymen would not approve even if the British get mixed up with the hillsmen of the India frontier or have other colonial troubles. More reasonably the peace makers who threaten to keep the peace with military force might examine Russia's prospects and ask themselves what, in case, they propose to do and how. In at least two directions Russia might create new problems, one with Turkey, the other with China. The urge in each direction is of long standing. Great Britain and France have applied the block in one way, Japan in the other. There also is Persia, another sought-for gateway in which Russia and Great Britain established a war time condominium altho it is a supposedly independent country.

The internal order of Russia may be a modern heritage from Lenin but the Russian outward march has back of it a long line of czars and is imperial. It is one of long view and it never had a better chance than it has now. With much outrage to consistency, Russian acquisition of territory in Europe and of peoples who were promised freedom has been forced into the alleged equities of a post-war world. Possibly the makers of the lasting peace can find sanctions for whatever else may be on the Russian program. If they can't they'd better recheck their probable military commitments. The first assignment might be unexpectedly formidable.

OLD SCHOOL TIES.

After reading that the plain people of England may be permitted to crash the gates of public schools privately endowed, and thus advance into the Old School Tie class, we began to wonder if they will be happy when they get there. For there is ample evidence, in the numerous novels Old Boys have written about their public-private school days, that life within those ancient foundations is not all beer and skittles. The literary Old Boys seem to be surprised that they survived the ordeal.

Alec Waugh, English novelist, made his literary debut in 1917 with "The Loom of Youth," in which he described the public school he had attended. Sherborne it was, which may not be in the Ivy league or Big Ten of England, but which is probably high ranking, for the Waughs are a distinguished family of intellectuals. The things that Alec wrote about dear old Sherborne and its management caused that institution to erase his name from its Old Boys' roster. This anti-Waugh attitude of Sherborne compelled Alec's younger brother Evelyn, who has become quite a satirist of the English patriciate, to break the family tradition and expand his youthful mind at another school, Lansing by name.

Alec Waugh also wrote a work called "Public School Life," which may be an authority on the rigors of the system. The plain parents of England should consult it before sending their sons, at tender, homesick ages, in pursuit of the glamorous Tie.

The United Services college at Bideford, Devonshire, is the prep school described by Rudyard Kipling in his "Stalky and Co." stories. In his time it seems to have been a rugged exposure ground for future pukka sahibs, hardening them for service in the bleaker outposts of the empire.

Eton boys may be movie favorites, but Rugby heads the list for American popularity. It gave us the game of football, thru Thomas Hughes' story about Tom Brown's school days. In the wall of Rugby's playing field there is an inscribed stone which reads:

"This stone commemorates the exploit of William Webb Ellis, who with a fine disregard for the rules of football as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game, A. D. 1823."

NORTH WOODS VACATION.

This is silence. . . .
This green laughter of birch leaves
And sun and tree patterns on a cabin floor;
And golden lap of azure water on the still sand of a glacial lake,

And a loon cries and birds stir drowsily, and the pungent fragrance of wood smoke drifts thru the night.

This is the healing heart of silence.

The navy no longer gives direct commissions in the WAVES except to doctors and dentists. With your background it would be advisable to enter the officer candidate school. You would be commissioned for two months' indoctrination at Smith college. If you failed to complete the training you would have the option of returning to civilian life or enlisting in the ranks. When graduated, your rank would be commensurate with age, so this plan offers you the same advantage as direct commissioning. We have a folder setting out the various fields of specialization and requirements for the WAVE OCS which we will send to women who request it.

"PHYSICIAN, HEAL THYSELF."

PHYSICIANS are subject to the same maladies as their patients. Furthermore, they are seldom able to avoid exposure and overstrain. Try as he may, the conscientious practitioner cannot forget that Mrs. A. has a severe pneumonia. Neither can he free his mind of concern about Mr. B., who is afflicted with nephritis. Every case means some anxiety.

The wonder of it all is that doctors keep as well as they do. Many have learned, however, the value of short but frequent vacations, wherein the rebuilding program will begin before the batteries of vitality have been exhausted.

The recent report of the illnesses of more than 8,000 physicians, covering a period of one year, reveals that 1,620 of them were unable to perform their regular duties for a week or more.

Respiratory disturbances headed the list, with a total of 1,627 cases. Next came accidents. Some are on call constantly and mishaps due to transportation are relatively common. Infections accounted for a goodly amount of time lost. For the most part, the disability was acquired in the course of dressing wounds or performing operations.

When we come to the causes of death among the profession, we find that plugging of a coronary vessel [which supplies the heart with nutriment] may well merit the title, the "physicians' disease." The rate is three and one-half times the average for all other occupations.

How can we explain many of the early fatalities? There is a never ending nervous tension which fills the days and nights. Arteries lose their elasticity as a result of too little rest, irregular meals, broken sleep, and conscientiousness. The chances are that arteriosclerosis will continue to be an outstanding factor unless periodic respites, which are truly recreational, can be enjoyed.

The rejection of applicants for army medical service carries considerable significance. The average age of one group was 35 years and the disqualifying percentage was 24. Chief among the ailments were peptic ulcer, asthma, heart disease, and high blood pressure. All these afflictions may attack those who lead active, vigorous lives and who are subjected to exhausting experiences.

Our communities can help their medical advisors. Night calls may be reduced to real emergencies. Furthermore, office appointments can be kept scrupulously so that time will be saved for those who are seriously ill. Prior to each consultation, the individual can make a brief memorandum of symptoms and complaints. This procedure would take but half as long as when the physician is obliged to pry loose cogent facts thru innumerable queries.

Not so long ago I heard an estimable lady complain that the disposition of her physician had changed abruptly. When he called at the house, he went directly to the patient's room, asked a few questions, made a brief examination, left his orders, and hurried away. "He didn't have a pleasant word for any one," she observed. I tried to explain to her that Dr. X. may have had more than a score of calls on his list that morning and he wanted to be fair to each. There just isn't time for social amenities. We cannot expect our apostles of healing to exhibit outstanding cultural qualities when they are on the run.

BONE HEALING.

Bone repair is slow. As a rule, several weeks will be required for the formation of a firm callus. Reinforcing the diet with calcium is advised by many experts. On the other hand, too much quiet and inactivity may lead to the deposit of mineral matter in various parts of the body—for example, the kidneys.

1. A woman called the police to corral a prowler. When the policeman discovered a man under her bed, he accused her of concealing "a friend" in her apartment. While the policeman berated her, the prowler crawled from under the bed and escaped. The policeman was suspended indefinitely.
2. A young woman answered the doorbell in her home. She was met at the door by an attractive, forty-ish, pistol packin' lady who relieved her of her purse.
3. Every day for 28 days a switchboard operator turned onto its other side a duck egg that had been placed on a rectifier, an instrument used to charge batteries. At the end of 28 days, she made an inspection trip, and found a chirping duckling.
4. After being credited with saving two lives, a Fort Worth policewoman was recommended for the certificate of merit.

Yes, ma'am. In Texas men are men, and women are women!

Total War.

A lady we know pretty well received a coconut the other day from the South Pacific. On its outer shell the sender, a soldier, had pasted three strips of adhesive. On one was printed the lady's name and address. On the second was printed the soldier's name and address. On the third was stamped: "Passed by censor."

Patience Does It.

A dozen men sat in the Hyde Park barber shop, fanning themselves as they waited to be shaved by the lone barber. In the shop window, prominently displayed, was a copy of the new book, "Blessed Are the Meek."

Effect of a Pigeon Story.

From Lt. Robert Hibbard, formerly of the W-G-N newsroom, comes a sad tale of what an innocent little story did to a sedate London bar. He describes the bar as a super-sophisticated and quiet little place, with platinum-plated dowagers perched on the edges of their chairs for cocktails. Into it for a round of drinks went Lt. Hibbard, Jack Thompson, THE TRIBUNE'S bearded war correspondent, and several fellow correspondents. As is customary in such surroundings, they began to tell jokes. Mr. Thompson, Lt. Hibbard concedes, told the best of the evening—the story about the Chicagoan who boarded a Pullman with a large wicker basket of pigeons.

Thompson whispered the story: how the conductor, highly upset, told the man he had to get rid of the pigeons; how, after a long argument, the pigeon fancier gave in, opened the window slightly, and took the pigeons from the basket, whispering softly in the ear of each just before releasing it: "Chicago . . . Chicago . . . Chicago . . ."; and how, just as he released the last one, the conductor came thru the car and saw him.

"What's the big idea of whispering 'Chicago' to your pigeons?" the conductor demanded.

"That's where we are going, isn't it?" the man asked.

"No," the conductor replied, "we're going to Detroit."

The Chicagoan gasped hoarsely, flung the window wide open, jutted out his head, and roared at the top of his lungs: "DETROIT."

"Well," writes Lt. Hibbard, "when Thompson came to the punch line, he did just that. He held his head well back, allowed his bushy beard to jut forward, and bellowed 'Detroit' at the top of his lungs. In the ensuing confusion, one dowager swallowed her lorgnette, another poured a pousse café down the back of her Pekingese, the shining glasses on the shelves echoed an atonal chord, and the cash register rang up 10 pounds by itself.

THE PARTY OF DESTRUCTION.

Chicago, July 22.—A glance at world political development shows where we are headed and how the Marxian one party, one man dictatorship backed by the "masses" works. In Russia, the Communist party; in China, the Kuomintang party; in Italy, the Fascist party; in Germany the Nazi party. Now in the United States the recently created CIO-New Deal party. In every case the "masses" were supposed to rule thru their dictator to their advantage. In every case, as soon as the supposed benevolent dictator organized an efficient army, police, and burocracy, the people found themselves under the heel of an iron dictatorship. Haven't we already had a little taste of that here?

The ancient and free Democratic party is dead. It remains only in the minds of honorable southern Democrats, to whom, next to God, the party was the most important fact of the universe. The convention of the CIO political committee, which nominated Roosevelt and Truman, is ample proof. There was a desperate effort to merge the Republican and Democratic parties under Willkie and Roosevelt, respectively, but that failed, temporarily at least.

If Hillman and Roosevelt-Truman win this election, then what? The last vestiges of constitutional government and personal freedom will be wiped out—legally, of course—Justice Frankfurter will see to that. The Kulaks and individual businesses will be liquidated. Machinery to accomplish that is already in gear.

Gaze at Russia. That is the pattern to be followed by Russian born Hillman, the hatchet man, and his radicals. The Russia of today will be the America of tomorrow. The Democratic party under Hillman is no longer democratic. It is the party of destruction, dictatorship, and despotism. It is Russoveltism.

I can testify to what this great land of opportunity has meant to me, emigrating as I did from Canada. BRITISH IN WAC UNIFORMS.

Chicago, July 18.—I have a relative in the WAC. She has been in since April, 1943, and has been in England since last February. She is a sergeant and went in as an X-ray technician but landed as a stenographer, work which she is also qualified to do. I want to quote from a letter just received from her.

"The WACs are burned up here because British civilian stenos, [two of them] are outfitted in WAC officer's uniforms, wearing the United States insignia, but no rank. . . . They are not Americans [even tho they would like to be and one is married to a colonel] and they do not belong to the United States forces. . . . British civilians are entitled to wear them, according to a bulletin over here. . . . It tends to create a laxity in saluting. Our own officers . . . are saluting no females from now on, which is too bad as the boys were beginning to have a little respect for the WAC here."

I hope there can be some investigation made about the uniforms. I certainly am not in favor of outfitting the British civilians in our army uniforms.

NO THIRD FLOOR ICE DELIVERIES.

Chicago, July 22.—While the cry is on for us to save food for victory, etc., we have to throw food away, spoiled because icemen refuse to deliver ice to people living on the third floor.

Most people who use ice are in the low income group and can't afford a refrigerator. But any and all applications for a priority to secure a refrigerator, are refused on the grounds that they are necessary in new homes for war workers. And that the war food administrator will see to it that ice is delivered. But nothing is done.

DON'T HOLD YOUR BREATH WHILE WAITING.

Ballard Vale, Mass., July 21.—The Democratic platform says racial minorities have the right to vote, and congress should exercise its full constitutional power to protect that right. The Constitution commands congress to protect this right by cutting down the representation in congress, and in the Presidential electoral college, of any state that interferes with this right by such a device as the poll tax. Therefore the platform commits the Democratic party to favoring and facilitating such action by congress.

KINGERY URGES SPEEDIER ROUTE TO LAKE AREAS

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

Robert Kingery, general manager of the Chicago Regional Planning association, and state engineers have different ideas about the best post-war highway route from Chicago to Madison, Wis. It isn't a new position for Kingery, who specializes in being several jumps ahead of public officials when it comes to drafting blueprints for improvements.

Robert Kingery.

State officials propose that U. S. 20 be rebuilt from Elgin to Rockford, which must be done in any event. They also plan a new pavement from Rockford to the Wisconsin line. That route to Madison is tentatively included in proposals for a federal interregional system of military highways.

Seeks More Direct Route.

Kingery, a pleasant man, who 10 years ago had charge of the Illinois highway system as state director of public works and buildings, doesn't object to that route, but he has visions of another and more direct highway being added when new automobiles are driven by the millions after the war. As spark plug for the planning association, Kingery makes a career out of furnishing ideas for and promoting coöperation between various sets of public officials and civic agencies.

His dream is for a new route starting at Halfday, out at the far reaches of Milwaukee av. It would extend thru Fox lake, utilizing present pavement part of the way, and leave the state at Genoa City, Wis. Then Wisconsin officials would have to coöperate by meeting it with a route from the Twin Cities and Madison thru Lake Geneva.

Convenience to Lake Region.

Kingery also suggested that a good route to Rockford might be via Higgins rd., out in the northwest part of Cook county.

U. S. 20, the Lake st. road, would connect with Chicago's west side super-highway upon completion of transport facilities which the governor insists are necessary if the city is to thrive after the war. Near Rockford the pavement is old, slow, and indirect, with a relocation to be scheduled as soon as that city agrees on the preferred route.

Outlet for Super-highway.

Higgins rd. is to be a major outlet for the proposed northwest side super-highway, which would follow Clybourn av. and the Chicago & North Western embankment. As state route 72, Higgins rd. now has 11 miles of new two lane pavement on a super-highway right of way out in the northwest sector of Cook county.

For the north branch connection with the northwest super-highway, Cook county is buying right of way for Edens parkway, a 12 mile route which will merge west of Wilmette with the present Skokie highway, U. S. 41. Except for some needed grade separations and for stretches where there is no dividing barrier between the north and south traffic channels, Skokie now is an adequate expressway from the Cook county line into Milwaukee. It also probably will be a unit in the federal interregional road system.

Planned for Thru Traffic.

The plan is for all thru traffic to use Chicago's northwest super-highway, relieving the strain on the streets on which cars now filter thru to the Outer dr. at Foster av. Even after the Outer dr. is extended to the Evanston city limits, it is to handle only cars from the north shore and immediate suburbs.

Route 42, nearer Lake Michigan than Skokie rd., is to have two improvements in the Waukegan area. One is the 22d st. grade separation project in North Chicago. The other is new expressway pavement from Waukegan to the Wisconsin line.

U. S. 14, via the Northwest highway and Woodstock toward Madison, is also scheduled for improvement after the war. There will be a belt line around Woodstock and new pavement from the Cook county line to northwest of Cary.

PETRILLO CITED FOR CONTEMPT IN CONTRACT ROW

Minneapolis, Minn., July 26 (AP).—James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians [AFL], today was cited for contempt of court and a bench warrant issued for his arrest by Judge W. W. Bardwell of Hennepin county District court in the four-month-contract dispute between radio station KSTP and the Musicians' union.

The warrant was issued on petition of KSTP on ground Petrillo violated a temporary restraining order of the court by advising eight musicians of the station's Minneapolis studio to cease work.

The temporary restraining order was issued last week against the studio's Minneapolis musicians pending a hearing Friday on a request for a permanent injunction to prevent them from striking. The state's required 10-day "cooling off" period before a strike is invoked had expired.

Orders 8 Musicians to Quit.

Another eight musicians of the station's St. Paul studio were not affected by the restraining order, but Petrillo had ordered them to quit work, also.

Court officials indicated the bench warrant would not be served on Petrillo unless he comes to Minnesota, since contempt of court is not an extraditable offense.

Meanwhile, KSTP's St. Paul musicians filed a strike notice with Leonard W. Johnson, state labor conciliator, and remained on the job. The Minneapolis musicians, however, were idle altho the regional war labor board in Chicago notified them any work stoppage "would delay further the orderly settlement of the dispute now before the WLB."

Owner Offers a "Deal."

"The panel report in this dispute is ready for submittal to the parties," the WLB said, "but under no circumstances will action be taken until all threat of an interruption in the services of KSTP is removed."

After issuing his order Petrillo said his action was prompted by KSTP management's failure to await the WLB decision and that the musicians would remain idle until KSTP "decides whether it wants the war labor board or the courts to handle this dispute."

Stanley Hubbard, KSTP president, in a telegram to Petrillo, said the station would withdraw court action and await the WLB decision if Petrillo would "withdraw the strike."

PETRILLO OUT OF TOWN.

James Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians, could not be reached here for comment today. A spokesman for the union said he would be in his Chicago office tomorrow.

WINDOW WASHER ADMITS THEFTS AS HIS SIDELINE

Lacy Williams, 42, of 5137 Calumet av., a Negro, mixed theft with window washing, he admitted yesterday to Capt. Edward J. Kelly of the Woodlawn police, as he told how he went thru many of the best Woodlawn and Hyde Park homes with pail and squeegee.

He was arrested while washing windows at the home of Mrs. Della Hynes, 1514 E. Marquette rd., from whom he admitted stealing a $50 wrist watch on a previous occasion. He also admitted stealing a $25 wrist watch from Mrs. Julia Woeter, 2316 E. 70th st., on July 1, while washing windows there, Capt. Kelly said.

DIVORCED WIFE AND J. F. REEVE WILL REMARRY

Milwaukee, Wis., July 26 [Special].—Mrs. Louise Falk Reeve of Milwaukee, daughter of the late Clarence Falk, Milwaukee industrialist, and Jay Frederick Reeve, Chicago attorney, will be remarried in Chicago next Tuesday, it was announced here today. Mr. Reeve's second wife, Mrs. Josephine Patterson Reeve, divorced him last Saturday in Waukegan.

Mrs. Louise Falk Reeve obtained a divorce from Mr. Reeve at Reno, Nev., in June, 1936. Their wedding was a society event here in July, 1925. They have two children, Frederick Falk Reeve and Peggy Sawyer Reeve. Mr. Reeve also had two children by his second wife, Joseph, and Alice, whose custody was given to their mother.

BLAMES TRAFFIC FIGHT FOR DEATH OF INTERVENOR

John C. Givens, 36, a garage owner of Bloomington, Ill., died yesterday in Illinois Research hospital of what Dr. Harry Maxwell diagnosed as a stroke caused by a clot on the brain.

His mother, Mrs. Mae Givens, said he was struck in the face on July 15 when he intervened between two motorists involved in a minor traffic accident. A few days later, she said, his left arm and leg suddenly became paralyzed while he was driving, and his own car was in a minor accident.

She asserted that he was arrested and held overnight in jail on a tipsy driving charge, despite his request for medical aid. Later, she said, a physician examined him and ordered him to the hospital.

Women Study City Post-War Housing Plans

Women's views on neighborhood planning, housing, and slum eradication are likely to have greater influence on new building in Chicago after this war than ever before in the city's history, a survey of activities of women's societies disclosed yesterday.

The opinions of more than 150,000 Chicago clubwomen on post-war community planning will be expressed as a united chorus thru the Women's Joint Committee on Adequate Housing, of which Mrs. Sewall Wright is chairman. Forty women are on the committee, representing scores of social clubs, women's professional groups, church organizations, and federations.

Organized in the fall of 1940 "as a sort of spontaneous outburst among women who realized that something must be done about housing," in Mrs. Wright's words, the joint committee maintains close contact with the Chicago Plan commission, the Chicago Metropolitan Housing council, and other agencies preparing for the planned growth and reconstruction of Chicago and its blighted districts.

Mrs. Wright, whose husband is a University of Chicago professor, and Mrs. Frederick Rubel, acting director of the metropolitan housing council, said women want neighborhoods in which every one will have more air and sunlight and more recreational, shopping, and service facilities.

These plans, they said, are in contrast with the present reality of 23 square miles of blighted and semi-blighted areas in the heart of the city. The contrast is dramatized in an exhibit of post-war community diorama plans and current photographs on view thru Aug. 1 at Marshall Field & Co.

Five solvent areas — The Loop, Beverly Hills, Hyde Park, Austin, and Rogers Park—contribute the taxes that support the burden of the slum and near-slum neighborhoods, according to the city planners' statistics.

While awaiting the start of post-war improvement projects the clubwomen's joint committee is conducting a program of educating the public to the need of housing improvements, and it is collecting data on inadequate housing conditions thru courts, the board of health, and the office of price administration.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

A large proportion of players have the peculiar and extremely dangerous idea that an overcall is justified on any hand that is almost worth an original bid. Thus, we see millions of such horrible calls as that made by South in this deal.

SOUTH

♣ 7 6 4 2

East	South	West	North
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
Pass	2 diamonds	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

In fairness to South, it is quite true that his two diamond bid was not an ordinary overcall—that it was a reopening bid. Nevertheless, the adjective used above still goes; South's bid was horrible!

Presumably, South justified the bid to himself on the basis of his two outside honor tricks, reflecting that another half trick would have raised his holding to opening bid standard. If this was his thought, however, he urgently requires bridge lessons! The most optimistic appraisal of South's hand could not find more than four playing tricks, and that was precisely the number that it won. North's ace of clubs reduced the penalty to 800 points, but this was a rather stiff price to pay for the advantage of shutting out the opponents from a part score.

Incidentally, a bad overcall in a minor suit at the two level is far more dangerous than a similar overcall in a major suit. The reason, of course, is that the enemy is far more apt to double the minor, because if the contract is made, no game is involved.

Thru the Looking Glass

We wouldn't even hint that the eye lotion can strengthen sight or is in any sense a substitute for eyeglasses when needed, but simply as a beauty aid a pure, well made lotion that refreshes tired eyes and cleanses dust laden orbs is pretty important. Professional beauties and women who guard their looks with every protective device use such preparations every single day.

The eye lotion is a friend in summer, when dust is more widespread and when the eyes are wearied by glare. Its use is a good freshening-up trick when you're tired and heat-frazzled, too.

One of our favorites isn't a newcomer. It's been on the market a long time, which speaks well for its quality. This has a faint fragrance of menthol and is extremely mild. You can use it in a cup, as an eye bath, after exposure to sun and dust, or when your eyes are very tired. Or you can use it as a pick-up treatment when your eyelids are drooping with fatigue. Just saturate pads of absorbent cotton with it and lay them gently over the closed lids for a few minutes.

This eye bath has a companion piece that has special importance in summer, too—a very rich eye cream that is to be used ever so sparingly on the lids and around the eyes before you go out in the hot, drying winds. It's to be used at night, too, as a rich lubricant, if the skin is thin and so dry it's threatening to crinkle.

Neither of these is expensive and both are good beauty aids.

Winners of the first day's writing contests at the fifth annual Writers' conference sponsored by the Medill school of journalism and literary groups at Northwestern university in Evanston were announced last night. The conference will continue thru Saturday.

Prizes were awarded to Miss Doris G. Needler, Evanston; Mrs. Gertrude Dawson, Deerfield; Martha Guinn Kiser, Maywood; Mrs. A. B. Musholt, Chicago; Gladys Hoin, Milwaukee, Wis.; Josephine Baumgarten, Des Moines, Ia.; Anastasia Furman, Oshkosh, Wis.; Mrs. James Mudra, Riverside; Miss Madeline Senmelmeyer, Chicago; Mrs. Earl Wallace, Highland Park, and Raleigh E. Ross, Oak Park.

Sixteen hundred professional and amateur writers have registered at the conference. Attention at today's sessions will be focused on drama and radio writing. A workshop dinner at 6:15 p. m. in the First Methodist church, Evanston, will climax a full day's program of clinics and round tables.

Engagement

State Rep. and Mrs. James M. White of Oregon have announced the engagement of their daughter, Laura Belle of St. Charles, to Pvt. Harold E. Brantner of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linus Brantner of Byron, Ill. Pvt. Brantner is stationed at Camp Rucker, Ala.

Old Settlers to Hold 70th Annual Picnic and Reunion Aug. 7

Early settlers in Chicago and their descendants will gather for their 70th annual Old Settlers' picnic and reunion Monday, Aug. 7, in Harms park, at Western and Berteau avs. A proclamation by Mayor Kelly urging attendance at the picnic as a tribute to the city's elders was issued yesterday.

"Our city came into being and grew in progress and in fame as a result of the courage, initiative, and accomplishments of its early settlers, and Chicago has a deep and special sense of gratitude for its pioneers," Mayor Kelly's statement said.

BY REA SEEGER.

Once neglected, the younger set now is getting a big fashion break, for the smartest and newest clothes are designed for the junior miss. Recognizing the future importance of these budding career girls and potential shoppers, who will set the fashions of the future, designers have styled entire collections for the young. Dresses for school, college, and office wear, and suits, coats, and even fur coats have been specially cut and streamlined for the slimsters of sizes 9 to 16. The result is good looking clothes without unwanted infantile silhouette or details.

There's a new and flattering femininity to the dresses, which include sleek one piece models and clever two piece numbers. Bustle bows, back flares, artful shirred motifs, soft bows for the flattering necklines, and all the expert fit and finish that used to mark only the sophisticated larger sizes are now definite and expected in the junior fashions.

Color in exuberant shades and contrasts gives these slim junior sizes animation. Gathered skirts, together with belts that define a narrow neat waistline, are details that only the young and slim can wear so effectively.

Extra jackets and the jumpers that end down around the hips, with neat fitted beltlines and wide armholes, are gay high fashion models with which to vary the color scheme each day. Striped wool, short or long sleeved blouses, and striped printed crepe and printed jersey shirts are ideal contracts for both the long or hip length version of the jumper dresses. With plenty from which to choose, this coming fall, the Junior Miss will attain a new neatness and charm.

TEN THOUSAND YEARS and then some, in the dairy business, but you won't find an Old Fogey among 'em . . . in the "Old Timers Club" at Bowman's. Of course, that 10,285 is the sum total in years of service of all the boys and girls who've been with Bowman 25 years or more!

MOSTLY MORE! Of the 341 names on the Honor Roll, four have already chalked up more than 50 years . . . fifteen are in their 4th decade . . . and umpty-ump are in the thirties! By the way, our list includes five fair ladies, bless 'em— Irene and Bertha, Alice, Catherine and Jennie.

FROM ADAMS TO ZELSDORF, we've been one big happy family for a good long time. Maybe that accounts for our dairy being around lo, these many years! (Just celebrated our 70th, you know.) And there are plenty of youngsters coming up the ladder just like the Old Timers did.

IT JUST GOES TO SHOW that Bowman Dairy is a grand place to work. Folks like these have made it so. And, together, we've built up the biggest dairy business in Chicago and environs. With the help of you folks, too, who like our service and our products. Thank you!

Western Golf Tourney Players to Be Guests on North Shore

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE 44th annual amateur tournament of the Women's Western Golf association, set for Aug. 7 to 12 at the Onwentsia club, will provide not only a week of sport for the participants and spectators but also enlarged recreational facilities for Vaughan General hospital at Hines, which will receive the entire gate receipts from the large tournament.

At present Mrs. Charles Dennehy, who heads the W. W. G. A., and Mrs. Barrett Scudder, tournament chairman, are preparing to welcome out-of-town players, of whom more than 70 already have sent in their entry blanks. A number of north shore residents have offered to house visitors, among them Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Ronald P. Boardman, Mrs. Owen West, Mrs. Donald Welles, and Mrs. Oliver Wilson. Mrs. Dennehy's mother. Mrs. Dennehy is sending her own family to the farm in order to make more room for the visitors, many of whom will have their headquarters at Lake Forest academy.

Mrs. Scudder and Mrs. Dennehy are planning a barbecue supper at the former's home for the contestants and board members Aug. 6, the day before the qualifying round. The association will entertain at luncheon at the Onwentsia on the final day of the tournament. Some of the local golfers who expect to be competing are Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., Mrs. Wilhelm, Mrs. Scudder, Mrs. Linn, and Miss Olive Robbins.

Wedding News.

Ensign Harold Pearson Grant and Miss Jean Marian Arch were married at 8 o'clock last night in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nelson of River Forest, with a small reception following. Miss Arch was attended by her sisters, Miss Sally Elizabeth Arch and Miss Mary Lou Nelson, as maids of honor, and a cousin, Jody Wathier, as flower girl. First Class Petty Officer Thayer Porter served as best man.

The bride, who attended Mary Washington in Virginia, will join Ensign Grant when he has received his orders in San Francisco, Cal. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. William Stanley Grant of Port Haywood, Va., and is an alumnus of Randolph-Macon college. Missing from the wedding were the bride's two brothers, William Arch, who is serving with the Presbyterian hospital unit in New Guinea, and Lt. Ralph Nelson Jr., on duty with the navy in the Mediterranean.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Monser of Quito, Ecuador, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Sgt. Patricia Monser of the marines, to Lt. Edgar Gilbert of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan C. Gilbert of Lake Shore dr. The wedding took place July 18 in Moorhead City, N. C. Lt. Gilbert and his bride were fellow students at the University of Chicago. She is stationed at Atlantic field, N. C., as an air control operator, and he is on duty at Camp Shelby, Miss.

News of Births.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Joseph Burgweger [Helen Chancellor] have named their second son, born Tuesday night in the Evanston hospital, Justus Chancellor after his maternal grandfather. Two year old Francis Joseph Burgweger Jr., who is called Kip, is waiting to welcome his new brother to the nursery of their home in Kirkland, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Chancellor Jr. and Mrs. Meta Dewes Burgweger of Winnetka and Henry Burgweger of Buffalo, N. Y., are the children's grandparents.

Miniature V-mail announcements have arrived from Washington, D. C., telling of the birth, July 2, in the Walter Reed hospital of James Lawrence Houghteling III., first child of Mr. and Mrs. Houghteling Jr. [Fiora Mariotti]. The baby, who will be called Larry, is a grandchild of the James L. Houghtelings of Chicago and Washington and of Mrs. Vincent Mariotti of Boston. His father is serving with the army overseas. The Doctor's Secretary.

For the sake of other doctor's secretaries, can you call attention to the patient who once in a great while finds the reception room empty and settles herself at the doctor's desk for a "nice long visit?"

It does not occur to the patient that the doctor has other work beside appointments. There is daily laboratory work, and there are prescriptions to write, correspondence to answer, medical bulletins to read. Often the secretary jealously has guarded a 15 minute interval for the filling out of insurance, ration, or welfare forms, only to find the time absorbed by the patient who figures the doctor isn't busy. As a result he is late on his round of house calls and the secretary stays after hours to clean up the desk work that accumulates.

You might call attention, too, to telephone calls which are very hard to handle. If the doctor had the courage, he would charge for them at the same rate as an office visit. They interrupt consultations, examinations, injections; they sometimes drag a daily schedule out to one or two hours' overtime work.

Miss Bampton Scores, So Does a Needed Rain

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

The weather played no favorites last night, but split the evening diplomatically between concerts and crops with an exactitude that permitted Rose Bampton, George Dasch, and the Grant Park Symphony orchestra to present the first half of the Grant Park concert and add two encores before the rain actually began to fall. So the crowd scurried home and I joined it, tho reluctantly, because the second half held one of my favorite songs, and I wanted to hear Miss Bampton sing it. But it wasn't a fleeing audience that Richard Hageman meant when he wrote "Do Not Go, My Love."

Fortunately, Miss Bampton looks like a singer who would forgive her admirers for retreat in a rainstorm. There is a creamy graciousness about her beauty as well as her voice, and that flowing white gown with the vermilion overskirt was a dramatic choice to carry its decorative note to the very fringes of a large audience. She had time to sing just twice before our flight into the night, the great aria from Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," and Bizet's "Ouvre ton coeur."

Altho she is a dramatic soprano nowadays, and has been for several Metropolitan seasons, the Carmenesque curves and audacious overtones of the latter work suited her superbly because they made so much of the mezzo-richness left over from her unforgotten days as a very young contralto. Comparatively, the blazing splendors of "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio" were not completely at her disposal. She had nine-tenths of the voice, opulent in contour and rich in color, but the soaring sense of completion—the incandescent brilliance that made the music tingle in the days of Raisa and Muzio—simply wasn't there. Perhaps it might have been, without the hazards of outdoor performance. I once heard Miss Bampton sing a magnificent "Andrea Chenier" with Beniamino Gigli. In an opera house, her "Pace" might have rivaled that memory.

Mr. Dasch, a competent tho scarcely a clairvoyant conductor, opened the concert with Damrosch's heavy handling of Bach's "A Mighty Fortress" and added "Traumerei" as encore to an adequate performance of Schumann's Fourth Symphony. The orchestra played so well it seems a pity this is its final week. The Woman's Symphony takes over next, then the Chicago Symphony [which has loaned Grant Park many players] winds up the season.

Army and navy chaplains will face the most critical phase of their work during demobilization, Col. George F. Rixey Jr., deputy chief of chaplains, said yesterday. He addressed 40 candidates for chaplaincies, here for interviews by the Methodist commission on chaplains.

"Soldiers in the period after the fight," Col. Rixey said, "will not have the morale and enthusiasm of the fighting front, so chaplains will need to keep them on an even keel and help in the reintegration of the men into community and church life."

The Methodist church has more than 14,000 chaplains in the services, D. Stewart Patterson of Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the commission, reported. He said chaplaincy casualties are third highest in the services.

Four chaplains invited to sit with the commission in reviewing applications were Capt. Byron Kelly, Camp Ellis, Ill.; Capt. C. O. Boatman, Fort Sheridan; Lt. J. E. Reaves, Great Lakes naval training center, and Lt. [j. g.] Teddy T. Howes, air technical training center, Chicago.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Four army nurses, who are foreign duty veterans, and a member of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross who served as an army nurse overseas in the first World war, held a reunion in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

Lt. Col. Martha Jane Clement, newly assigned chief nurse in the army's 6th service command; Lt. Col. Nola Forrest, visiting in Chicago en route to a new assignment which, she hopes, will take her overseas; Maj. Nellie Denison, chief nurse at Gardiner General hospital, and Mrs. Garland S. Thomas, chairman of the Red Cross' nurse recruitment committee, met to give a farewell party for Lt. Col. Pearl C. Fisher, who retired this week as 6th service command chief nurse and will return to civilian life when her terminal leave expires.

Before being assigned to duty in Chicago Col. Clement was chief nurse in the Southwest Pacific, with headquarters in Brisbane, Australia. Asked details of nurses' heroism in that theater of operations, Col. Clement replied: "We nurses soon learn that the real heroines of this war are the wives and mothers of men on foreign duty. They are the women who stay at home and worry, or work to rear the soldiers' children on army allotments. Men in hospitals overseas have only one thought, and it's not for themselves. They always want to reassure the family at home that they're all right."

Col. Clement was assigned to the command directly after her first leave in 27 months. "Hard work compensated for lack of leave," she said. She returned to the United States, expecting to be sent again to foreign duty, but a recent army ruling setting an age limit for nurses' overseas service caused her to be transferred to an administrative post.

Col. Fisher had headed army nurses in this command since April, 1943. Previously she was assistant superintendent of the corps in the office of the surgeon general in Washington, D. C.

"Like all veterans in uniform, I don't wish to retire, but I am glad that Col. Clement is taking over my job," Col. Fisher said. "Her recent overseas experience especially qualifies her for the work of assigning army nurses." After a long rest, Col. Fisher will get into essential civilian work in New York City, her home.

Col. Forrest, a native of Lake Wilson, Minn., knew Col. Clement in the Philippines in 1930, where both worked in Sternberg General hospital in Manila. Maj. Denison was Col. Forrest's chief nurse at Schofield barracks in Hawaii in 1937. It was in the office of the surgeon general, where both were on duty in 1942 and early in 1943, that Col. Forrest made the acquaintance of Col. Fisher.

Maj. Denison served for three years in Puerto Rico and has been an army nurse for 26 years, as have Col. Clement and Col. Fisher. The major has been chief nurse at Gardiner since February.

Mrs. Thomas, a Chicagoan, works closely with the army nurse corps in her recruitment program. The Red Cross committee receives enlistment applications and processes the nurses' papers, after which the nurse corps makes the assignments. Her committee exceeded its procurement quota in the first six months of this year, said Mrs. Thomas, who was a nurse in England and France in the last war.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Today we are going to sum up suggestions given recently on the establishing of good sleeping habits for young children.

Normally going to bed and to sleep is an agreeable experience for a child, particularly for a small child. True enough, there comes a time, around the age of 10, when a girl or boy often begs to stay up because there are things going on at night that he enjoys; exceptions can then be made.

But with the younger children, bed time, like all the other routines, can be an enjoyable time. Whether your child reacts undesirably to bed time, or to any other arbitrary rule you must impose upon him or her—or whether he falls in with it as part of one more plan of the necessary routine, depends largely upon you. It depends upon what has gone before during the day: His physical care, the interest and understanding you give him, and how you carry thru the actual going-to-bed time.

In brief these are the points we have covered:

One cause of bed time trouble is almost surely because the child has had too much of the wrong kind of attention, or too little of the right kind.

If bed times are chronically difficult and if your child doesn't sleep well, go to a good doctor and have him thoroly gone over.

If your young child has been given a clean bill of health, then scrutinize his day with an eye to food, exercise, outdoors, and regularity.

Going to bed and sleep should be made pleasant for every child. Bed times can be planned so that the wonderful gift of sleep descends gently on little children, by making them feel secure and loved.

ESCAPE.

Jed got to his feet and investigated the narrow plank walkway, evidently placed there for workmen. He grinned. "We're in luck. It would have been difficult trying to keep this wire out of the water while swimming."

St. John smiled. "You mean impossible, don't you? But let's not quibble."

Jed shrugged. He threw two sacks of nitro over his shoulders, wrapped the wire around one hand, and stepped onto the walkway. It was slippery and he moved forward cautiously, making sure of each step. When he reached the first patrol boat he paused and examined it. The craft was somewhat like an American MTB, but much leaner and only a bit over 50 feet in length. A Jap seaman was standing in the open bridge, leaning on his arms and looking toward the other boats.

Jed crept by and made his way silently down to the end of the pier. He took one of the sacks of nitro from his shoulder, held it against a steel piling and tied it into place with a length of clothesline. Then he fastened the copper wire to a percussion cap inside the sack and made his way back down the walkway to a position near the first boat. There he fastened the other sack to the pier, tied it in place and strung in the wire. He stooped low and returned along the walkway, pausing now and then to tape the wire in such a manner that it would not rub against the steel and short circuit it.

When he got back to the beach, he pulled up his sleeve and glanced at the luminous dial of his wrist watch. It was 2:20. When he looked up he saw St. John strolling along the beach as casually as if he were out for an evening's walk.

St. John stooped under the pier and squatted near him. He took the wire ends, fastened them together and then fixed them to the automatic switch. Jed pulled the batteries from the cart and wired them in with the switch.

In the center of the gadget was a timing device similar to that used on a kitchen stove. The Englishman mumbled, "The roast must be well done," and turned the handle of the timer to six minutes. He placed the switch on the sand and let go of the handle. It started making a faint whirring sound. Jed threw a sack over it and smothered the sound.

St. John looked at his watch and said: "Well, captain, if everything goes well, the whole blasted place will go sky high at about 2:27. If I know anything about explosives, the two piers should blow in toward each other and crush all 16 of the patrol boats. Very lively."

Omar looked from one to the other and started to smile. He asked Jed, "Is it now all arranged?"

Jed nodded. "It is all arranged. When that switch reaches the final stop it will send electricity from the batteries to the dynamite and our little brothers will receive the surprise of their lives."

"Ah-h-h-h. Matters have gone very well. Allah is kind."

St. John's expression sobered. "It's time we started thinking of ourselves. If we stay here we have exactly four minutes to live. We'd better start for that boat you were talking about."

Jed stood upright and lifted the small sack of grenades. He heard motors barking into life and looked down under the pier. The engine room crews of the eight boats due to leave on patrol were aboard and starting the engines. Jed glanced at St. John, who was watching him curiously. They could hear Jap officers talking on the pier over their heads.

The Englishman said, "Well, old man, this is it. We have three minutes."

Jed nodded and squared his shoulders, but failed to recapture the nervous energy that had so suddenly drained out of him. He looked back at St. John and suddenly he was grinning.

Jed took two grenades from the sack hanging at his side. In his mind's eye he pictured a small building about 200 feet back from the first pier and the officers of the patrol boats lounging about the building. Jed pulled the pins from the grenades and rapidly threw the two of them with all his might into the dark.

He ducked under the pier and shoved Omar and St. John before him. "Run!" he shouted. "Down the walkway. Last boat on the end."

They had hardly taken the first step when the two grenades exploded and shattered the calm of the deep night. Jed shoved by Omar and St. John and ran along the narrow walkway under the pier. The stunned silence of the base, following the explosion, lasted but a second or two. There were suddenly high pitched voices crying in the night and footsteps running down the pier above.

Jed passed the first of the eight boats, stooping low, but not slackening his pace. He unloosened the parang as he ran and skidded to a halt at the end of the pier, by the side of the last boat. The ship was secured to the pier by hawsers fore and aft. Jed swung the parang and sliced thru the first one, then ran for the aft hawser. The sharp parang sliced thru that one as easily as the first. Jed shoved against the stern of the boat and grasped the small rail over his head.

St. John and Omar were already scrambling aboard at the bow of the boat. Jed pulled himself up to the deck and paused there on hands and knees. There was one seaman in the open bridge forward of him, but he was staring at Omar and St. John as if they were ghosts out of the night. Jed ran forward and jumped him from the rear just as he was getting over his surprise. A group of Japs in the middle of the pier turned to look in their direction. Jed stepped back, smashed the seaman with the butt of his rifle, then tossed him into the water. Omar and St. John tumbled across the spray shield into the open bridge.

Jed rang the engine room for full speed astern and the engines below roared into life. Jed laughed. "That's discipline. Even with all the excitement, the engine crew stayed below." He grasped Omar by the arm and said, "You will find two men down there, my friend. Take care of them."

Omar dropped thru an open hatch into the engine room. The boat was backing away from the pier, but very slowly. Soldiers and sailors were running down the pier toward them. St. John leaned across the shield and methodically began firing down the pier. The whole base erupted into furious life.

Jed looked at his watch. Less than one minute to go. Great beads of perspiration broke out on his forehead. The bow of the boat was now even with the end of the pier. The dull thud and shock of Omar's .45 rang thru the engine room hatch.

They were now a few feet beyond the end of the pier and the boat was beginning to pick up speed, the screws churning the water into a phosphorescent boil. Jed looked at his watch. Seconds to go. Omar came out of the engine room hatch and there was blood on his face. Rifle fire was increasing from the pier and Japs were manning the machine guns of the other patrol boats.

Science Flourishes With Christianity, Chaplain Asserts

Science can flourish only where the Christian world view is accepted, Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, chaplain at Stanford university, said yesterday in addressing the 13th annual Pastors' Institute meeting at the University of Chicago. Speaking on "The Failure of Power Culture," Dr. Trueblood said mankind is faced with the question not of which civilization it shall enjoy, but of how civilization can possibly exist if its ethical foundations collapse.

"The meaning of civilization is the supremacy of reason over human dispositions," he said. "There can be no enduring or generally satisfying civilization apart from ethical foundations. A mere power culture will eventually cease to be a culture at all. Modern western man, therefore, should be wise enough now in cultivating four ideas—the infinite value of the individual, the equality of all men, individualism, and liberty—while he still has allies and great resources."

Dr. Trueblood warned that if the moral foundations constructed thru centuries are destroyed, as they are in parts of Europe, there would be "a continual planetary civil war of either bullets or nerves."

New Musical Has Old Slant, but It Clicks

"MEET THE PEOPLE."

Good Morning!

Looks like Danny Kaye has competition in "Meet the People." Anyhow, the public was biting yesterday as enthusiastically at the Garrick as it's been doing at the Woods.

Pretty good bait, too, this new musical—with an old slant. Lucille Ball has one of the most potent personalities in films and she has elegant support—Dick Powell, Bert Lahr, June Allyson, Virginia O'Brien—and that small, furious boy who plays the piano and glares. Can't think of his name but he's one of the funniest things that ever happened to the movies.

Old slant, I said. Yes—shipyard workers go to town for Uncle Sam in a war bond drive. There's lots of talent among them and the script furnishes situations that call for plenty of acts—singing, orchestras, imitations, piano playing, etc. Miss Ball plays a famous Broadway star who becomes a welder in the yards for one reason and remains on the job for a couple of others. Two of these are Mr. Powell, a playwright turned workman, and the latter's play, "Meet the People," which is NOT produced on Broadway because its author darn well wouldn't let a Broadway producer make it stylish. But there—that's giving the plot away and there's not so much to it that I can afford to do that.

The action spins along at a lively pace, and tho the piece has some stretches that stretch too much, it's fun and you'll like it.

Cliff Dwellers Will Hold Old Fashioned Box Social

The Cliff Dwellers have cards out for an old fashioned box supper and social, beginning at 6:30 p. m. Friday, Aug. 4. Each couple is requested to bring along a "box of vittles," and is promised free mugs of coffee and ice cream. There will be a drawing for dinner partners, and members specifically are requested to select guests on the basis of their ability to put together a good box lunch. Parties are limited to two couples.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A good homemade chili sauce is a great satisfaction. But how to produce that good chili is what worries homemakers. I've heard many a complaint that in order to get chili sauce to thicken properly, it is necessary to cook the stuff for hours and hours. Cooking chili sauce for hours and hours darkens and discolors it. The relish looks anything but attractive, and the flavor suffers, too.

To make good chili sauce, it is necessary to drain the tomatoes of much of their juice, so that the cooking time can be short. The drained juice makes an excellent breakfast drink, or it may be used in soup or sauce. I often mix the vegetables for chili sauce and drain them all. A fine flavored cocktail is the result—and it should be drunk without cooking. It may be thin, but it's all vegetable juice, and good!

Chili Sauce.

[About 3½ quarts.]

- 50 medium tomatoes, peeled and chopped
- 6 large onions, chopped
- 3 green peppers, seeded and chopped
- 2 red peppers, chopped
- 3 or 4 small hot peppers, chopped
- 1 small bunch celery, chopped
- ¾ cup salt
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 stick cinnamon [or 1 teaspoon, ground]
- 1 teaspoon whole allspice
- 1 tablespoon mustard seed
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 2½ cups cider vinegar

Chop tomatoes in large wooden bowl. Put onions, peppers, and celery thru food chopper. Drain juice from tomatoes and save for soup or to drink. Combine ingredients, with stick cinnamon and allspice tied in muslin bag. Cook to a thick sauce, about half an hour. Seal in hot jars.

Uncooked Chili Sauce.

- 1 peck ripe tomatoes, chopped
- 1 cup salt
- 4 large onions, chopped
- 4 large green peppers, chopped
- 2 small hot peppers, chopped
- 3 medium bunches celery, chopped
- 5 cups sugar
- 1 cup grated horseradish
- 1 quart vinegar
- 2 tablespoons mustard seed

Add salt to finely chopped tomatoes and let stand overnight. Drain thoroly. Use salty juice in soup, sauce, or breakfast drink. Grind other vegetables and add with sugar, horseradish, vinegar, and mustard seed. Seal in clean jars, cold.

For other chili sauces, catsups, relishes, and pickles, see the recipe booklet "Favorite Pickles and Relishes," which will be mailed for 5 cents, in stamps to any interested reader. Address requests for this booklet to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 26.—When finished in "Anchors Aweigh" for Metro Frank Sinatra will appear at New York's Paramount theater at the highest price ever paid any entertainer. . . . Lana Turner's discovered that Turhan Bey is an attractive male—not something to wear on her head. . . . "Ambassadors in White," all about our American doctors in Central America, probably will be the next for Alan Ladd, Kenneth MacGowan says. Stanley Clements, who played the bad boy before he turned good in "Going My Way," has a long termer at Paramount. His first will be "Salty O'Rourke." . . . Jimmy Cagney and Dame May Whitty did a beautiful job in "Night Must Fall" on the Screen Guild show. . . . Our producers are missing a great bet now Kenny Baker's back. He sings and looks better than ever. Garry Moore, with the proper material and setting, could be another Danny Kaye. His comedy is out of this world, and he writes most of it himself.

Out of the Mouths of Babes.

Connie Moore, planning a birthday party for her 14 year old sister, asked Betty what young man she'd like to meet. "First on the list is Van Johnson," said Betty. "He's the subdeb delight." . . . The Ronnie Colman baby was named Juliet. Wonder which member of the family wanted to play "Romeo and Juliet." . . . John Murray Anderson, who directed the water ballet in "Bathing Beauty," is much sicker than his friends suspect. . . . Gene Kelly has passed his pre-induction physical, joins the navy Saturday. . . . Is it true that Frances Rafferty is secretly engaged to Steve Brody? . . . Dana Andrews is making his New York fans' hearts go pitter-patter. This is his first trip back there. . . . Dick Jaeckel, who came to the screen in "Guadalcanal Diary," gets more fan mail than many seasoned stars. . . . Lon Chaney thinks Universal is kidding. His next is "The Mummy's Curse." Day before that title was handed down he'd told the studio that his ranch house had burned down and fire had destroyed all the feed for his live stock.

Some Mistakes Are Costly.

Betty Grable, in "Diamond Horseshoe," will compete with cartoons. She has a number about a mink coat, in which all the little minks come to life and fight not to be on Betty's back. . . . Betty deserves a scolding for what she didn't do back east. She traveled with Harry James on one night stands. Naturally everybody wanted to see and talk to her, take pictures. But she wouldn't even take a bow with Harry. Wilkes-Barre, Pa., is especially bitter. James was the attraction, not Betty, but everybody in town knew she was along. Just goes to prove that even when they're traveling with their husbands, girls need either a mother or a press agent to guide them. Mistakes like this can be far-reaching. . . . The reason Greta Garbo bought Gladys Swarthout's home is that it has a walled in garden under lock and key and a lovely music room with plenty of wall space in which to hang her art collection, which now can be unpacked.

Let's Wait and See.

Dudley Nichols is unperturbed at report Rosalind Russell's next will be "Portrait of a Lady." He's working day and night to finish "Sister Kenny" for her, and has been promised she definitely will do that before "Lady." . . . Sol Lesser still thinks Brian Aherne will do "High Among the Stars" with Jane Powell. But Brian already has taken his shots for his overseas jaunt with Katharine Cornell. It may be many moons before Brian makes another picture in Hollywood. . . . "Going My Way" is breaking all records everywhere. Incidentally, that's the kind of picture the entire industry should back. When we speak of good pictures we can point with pride to this one. Also, it wasn't an expensive epic. It cost less than a million, and will gross about 10.

Eddie Tells His Post-War Plans.

Lt. Eddie Albert of the navy stopped in. At war's end he may just keep on with the job he's doing now for the navy, and that is, continue making pictures about visual education. "It's a great thing," said Eddie "being able to teach by way of the screen." He added, "of course, if a wonderful part comes along, I won't say I wouldn't do it. But the way I feel now, I'd like to continue in this work." I've never seen Eddie look so fit. . . . The Akim Tamiroffs are now playing host to their former milkman, who's here on leave and has taken a wife. They couldn't find a place to live, so they're visiting in the Tamiroffs' home. . . . Casey Robinson and Tamara Toumanova were so domestic looking, doing family marketing. Only thing wrong was Casey—he looked so unhappy. . . . Ruth Warrick, downtown having a picture taken with Mayor Bowron, was asked by a young sailor if she'd be a witness to his marriage license. He had no idea who she was, but he was a gentleman in distress, and she obliged.

Sally Requests Clothing for an Elderly Widow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

We hope our readers can assist Mrs. V., an elderly widow living on the north side, who writes:

"I suffer from arthritis, and am very much in need of certain types of clothing. Woolen underwear of all kinds and a woolen sweater would be very helpful to me, as I feel the slightest chill intensely. My size is 42, and I would also be grateful for a warm winter coat. Because I have been afflicted for the last three years, I have been receiving an old age pension. My illness has caused many incidental expenses, and on my present income it is impossible to buy clothing."

Because of her illness, it will not be possible for Mrs. V. to call for clothing. The address will be provided to any interested reader.

"Would it be possible for you to locate a washing machine for me? My son, who was my only support, is in the navy. The money which the government sends, plus the few additional dollars which he sends from his salary, just about provide for bare necessities, and I have very little money for extras, such as laundry. Due to the fact that I have a heart ailment, I have to have constant medical care and have been advised that using a washboard is very injurious to me, but it is the only way I have of cleaning clothes. I find it especially difficult during this warm weather. I realize this is asking almost for the impossible, but I do hope you will be able to help me."

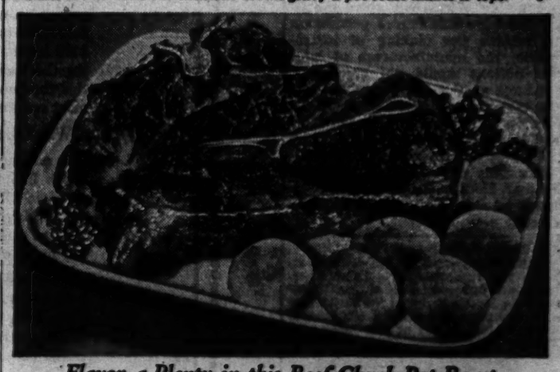
ABSENCE MAKES THE HEART GROW FONDER

Always highly prized for its deliciousness, beef pot roast has sky-rocketed to even higher favor during the past few months. Ease of preparation as well as its luscious flavor have given it first place on the busy woman's Sunday dinner menu. And the delicious brown gravy a pot roast makes is tops.



Flavor a-Plenty in this Beef Chuck Pot Roast

Select pot roast according to your preference. Beef chuck, sirloin tip, heel of the round or rump all make excellent pot roasts. Heat 2 or 3 tbsp. fat in a heavy iron or aluminum kettle or roaster with tight fitting cover and brown the meat well on both sides, using moderate flame. For extra flavor, brown sliced onion and green pepper slightly in the hot fat while meat is browning on second side. Season meat with salt and pepper, place a rack under the meat to prevent over-browning, add ¼ cup water or canned tomatoes, cover tightly, lower the heat and continue cooking on top of stove until tender—3 to 4 hours for a 4 lb. roast.

More hot water may need to be added from time to time depending upon how tightly the cover fits. If you prefer to cook the meat in the oven, place the covered utensil in a slow oven, 300° F., after the meat is browned.

Just before serving, remove meat to a hot platter, skim off excess fat, add more water if needed and thicken, allowing 2 tbsp. flour (mixed to a paste with cold water) to each cup of liquid. (Allow 1 cup liquid for 3 people.)

BROWNED POTATOES ARE TASTY

Time was when we browned potatoes and at least one other vegetable in the rich brown drippings around the meat. It's a great temptation not to do this these days . . . to save every bit of that luscious brown flavor for the gravy. However, there's no reason for not having delicious browned potatoes because any meat flavor taken up by the potatoes can be replaced by adding Wilson's B-V to the gravy. You'd never know the difference because B-V is really meat extract, concentrated, so it gives the flavor of browned meat juices.

Melt-in-your-mouth Pastry

We men are happy these days since lard is on the no-point list for that means more pies. If you want deliciously tender, flaky pastry shells, use Wilson's "Laurel-Leaf" Brand Lard, for lard has the greatest shortening power of all cooking fats.

Do you remember the tricks for making good pastry? (1) Cut half the fat in very fine for greatest tenderness; (2) cut the other half in very coarsely (size of large peas) for flakiness.

SUNDAY DINNER MENU

Pot roast and browned potatoes, glazed carrots, sliced tomato, cucumber and green pepper salad with French dressing, and cherry pie make a superb combination for a Sunday dinner. The pot roast will be obliging and give up the oven any time you need it for the pie. Keep the meat simmering on top of the stove. Sincerely yours,

George Rector

ARGENTINA SAYS U. S. IS UNJUST IN ITS ACTIONS

Sovereignty Is Defended by Foreign Minister.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 26 (AP).—Foreign Minister Gen. Orlando Peluffo declared tonight in a summation of Argentine foreign policy that his country clearly had signified its adherence to the cause of the united nations by concrete acts. He charges the United States sought unjustly to exclude Argentina from the comity of American nations.

The address, delivered in the foreign ministry in the presence of President Gen. Edelmiro Farrell and broadcast internationally, was made about the same time Washington released a memorandum by United States Secretary of State Hull criticizing Argentina's foreign policy.

Peluffo said his nation would "continue its present course of conduct" and that any attempt to have the Argentine people repudiate their present government would fail.

He also announced that "The Argentine government proclaims that from now on all censorship will cease."

Exhorts Crowd to Defense.

Meanwhile groups calling for "defense of national sovereignty" and distributing leaflets entitled, "Yankees should be made to understand," demonstrated in front of the American embassy.

One group of 25 youths began a parade from the embassy with an Argentine flag and a banner reading, "Argentina wears long pants," meaning that it was an adult nation.

One of the demonstrators was cheered when he called upon bystanders to prepare for active defense, but the crowd remained silent for the most part when he shouted "Down with the Yankees."

Most of the leaflets bore the label of the Republican Nationalist party or of the youth organization of Forja, a nationalist group.

Peluffo in his speech said Argentina's policy is inspired by two principles, "defense of our sovereignty and absolute continental harmony." He added that sovereignty "does not signify isolation."

Doesn't Favor Pacts.

He added, however, that Argentina "never has supported conclusion of military or permanent political accords."

Peluffo said the first thing his government was keeping in mind was its sovereignty and the principle of nonintervention in the affairs of other countries. He stated that Hull had supported such a principle at the Montevideo conference in 1933.

But, he said, Argentina has been the butt of attacks from United States officials as well as in the press and movies ever since it refused to join other countries in a stand against the axis at the Rio de Janeiro conference in 1942.

He said that when Argentina did break relations with the axis [in January, 1944] the secretary of state of the United States instructed its ambassador not to enter into relations with the government of President Edelmire Farrell.

CHARGE PIANO MAKING HELD UP BY OPA CEILINGS

Piano manufacturers could start delivering instruments in 30 days if the office of price administration would set new ceilings for makers of keys and actions, Harry D. Griffith of Newark, N. J., immediate past president of the National Association of Music Merchants, said yesterday.

He explained that altho the war production board had given nearly all piano manufacturers permission to resume the making of instruments, the manufacturers of keys and actions would not ship their products at the old prices because the cost of both labor and materials has risen. The industry has appealed to OPA, but without result, he said.

Griffith was attending the association's four day convention at the Palmer House. Dwight F. McCormack of San Francisco, Cal., was elected new president.

ARGENTINA HELD A DESERTER OF ALLIED CAUSE

erations to come our people will be called upon to discharge a debt of over 200 billion dollars which represents our material contribution to the defeat of the enemy.

"At this most critical moment in the history of the American republics, the government of one great republic, Argentina, has seen fit to take two steps which have resulted in tremendous injury to the allied cause, to wit:

"1. It has deliberately violated the pledge taken jointly with its sister republics to coöperate in support of the war against the axis powers, and in thus deserting the allied cause has struck a powerful blow at the whole system of hemispheric coöperation.

"2. It has openly and notoriously been giving affirmative assistance to the declared enemies of the united nations."

Hull said that recognition of the Farrell regime and the establishment of normal diplomatic relations would constitute approval of any Argentine action.

"It is the judgment of this government," Hull declared, "that the American republics and their associates among the united nations should firmly adhere to the present policy of nonrecognition of the Farrell regime until by unequivocal acts it is conclusively demonstrated that there has been a fundamental change of Argentine policy in favor of the cause against the axis and in support of inter-American unity and common action."

Hull said it has been established that pro-axis elements had been responsible for the overthrow early this year of the Argentine government headed by Gen. Pedro P. Ramirez, which broke relations with the axis Jan. 26, 1944.

Ramirez and responsible members of his government had assured the other American nations, Hull said, that energetic measures would be taken to suppress axis espionage activities in Argentina. Within 10 days, however, forces with the Argentine government were opposing Ramirez's stand, and Ramirez "delegated" his authority to Farrell, and later resigned as president.

Cites Farrel Course.

Hull said the Farrell government refused to commit itself to Argentina's break with the axis, insisting repeatedly the break was brought about by foreign pressure.

Hull then detailed charges of axis assistance given by the Farrell regime. Freedom of the country was extended to axis diplomats and assistance was given to axis firms thru official contracts and the requisitioning of materials from firms friendly to the Democratic cause, Hull declared.

"Such pro-axis newspapers as El Federal, Cabildo, and La Fronda enjoyed governmental support and assistance in obtaining newsprint," Hull said. They also carried on a bitter campaign against the allied nations, the secretary said.

Nevertheless, Hull said, certain elements in the Farrell government from time to time professed a desire to see the break with the axis powers made official by the new regime. Officials inclined to that view admitted, however, according to Hull, that they would be "eliminated" if they made the suggestion officially.

Attempts of the Farrell regime to gain diplomatic recognition were rebuffed by the United States and other nations, Hull said, because of the new government's insistence that recognition be granted before the break with the axis was made official.

Claims Documentary Proof.

Hull said the state department possessed memoranda of the Farrell government, informally made available by the Chilean charge de affaires in Washington, which proved the Ramirez regime had done "little or nothing" to suppress Nazi espionage activities in Argentina or to implement the Ramirez break with the axis.

"At the very time the Farrell regime was protesting its intention to collobarate with the united nations," Hull said, "this government was receiving reports of actions conclusively establishing that a contrary policy was being pursued.

"The [state] department is in possession of irrefutable evidence that as late as the middle of June the Argentine authorities required firms friendly to the united nations to receive bids as subcontractors from Nazi firms on contracts calling for materials imported from the united nations."

Nazi newspapers are openly published in Argentina, Hull said, using newsprint imported from allied nations, and carrying advertising paid for by the Argentine government. "Internal controls over axis firms are non-existent," the secretary declared.

ASSEMBLY UNIT CALLS MEETING ON TAX ISSUES

Representatives of the state's labor unions, agricultural groups and downstate municipalities have been invited to attend a meeting Tuesday in Sprigfield of the joint legislative committee on current tax problems.

State Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago], chairman of the committee, said that the present objective of the members is to become familiar with the divergent views on the action of County Assessor John S. Clark in assessing Cook county property on a full value basis.

From the information to be gathered, the committee hopes to formulate a legislative program that will iron out inequities of real estate taxation over the state.

THE NATIONAL DEBT

...and Your Postwar Job

Coming upon the heels of a ruinous ten-year depression, this war has once more made it clear to us that the strength of our country depends upon our ability and willingness to produce. Until the world conflict eclipsed the depression, we saw what failure to use our productive capacity can do—even to a country potentially as rich as ours.

The stark reality of war finally shocked us out of our economic lethargy. The necessity of supplying our Armed Forces with almost unlimited quantities of goods unleashed our inventive genius and revealed to us our real capacity to produce. It indicated what our standard of living might be, if in time of peace we used our full productive capacity.

Today we are producing more than all the other nations combined, half again as much as in 1940. Today our production is insuring victory to our fighting men.

Already our national debt has reached astronomical proportions, and it is going higher. The depression years' fear of insecurity, that all but paralyzed our spirit of enterprise, our inventive genius, and our natural instinct for expansion, appears likely to return promptly if industrial activity again is curtailed for long because of unwise public policies.

This war is being fought to make men free. But our economy cannot be kept free through military conquest alone. There is another responsibility which we on the home front cannot avoid any more than we can build walls around our future. That is the problem created by our frightening public debt.

This is a two hundred billion dollar war. It affects the lives of every one of us. At the end of this war, the public debt of the United States will be at least ten times the twenty-five billion dollars that it was at the end of the first World War. It will be almost twice the present annual national income of the country. The interest charge alone will be about 4 per cent of the national income. If the burden were spread evenly, interest alone would take at least $80.00 of every worker's income per year, or approximately $1.60 out of each and every weekly pay check.

Some people fear that the heavy taxes required by the debt will keep the country poor by obstructing employment and limiting the output of goods.

Others believe that the size of the debt does not matter because we owe it to ourselves. They reason that if A is taxed $100 to pay $100 interest to B, A has $100 less to spend and B has $100 more, but both together have the same amount. They therefore hold that the demand for goods and the volume of employment remain unchanged.

Which view is correct?

Is our huge debt bound to be a crushing burden which limits employment and lowers the nation's standard of living, or will it simply redistribute income? May the public debt under certain conditions even be used to help increase employment and raise our living standards?

Most people, rich and poor alike, find it difficult to believe that the national debt "just doesn't matter". They know that the interest alone on this huge debt will be almost equal to the total amount of taxes ever raised before by the government for all purposes in any peacetime year. They find it difficult to follow the kind of reasoning that suggests increasing the already mammoth debt year by year in order to maintain full production and employment. They fail to see how this "debt raising" can go on indefinitely.

On the other hand, the records show that other nations have more than once successfully managed even greater debt burdens than will confront the United States after the present war. The interest on the British debt after the Napoleonic Wars was nearly 8 per cent of the national income, and after the first World War was over 7 per cent. But despite heavy taxes and some unfortunate mistakes in economic policy (such as restoring the prewar pound), per capita real income in Great Britain rose about 31 per cent between 1920 and 1929. In fact, it rose as rapidly as it did in the United States. The world depression was far less severe in Britain than it was in the United States; and, by 1936, when industrial production still was 6 per cent below 1929 in the United States, it was nearly 16 per cent above 1929 in Britain. Britain's heavy debt burden proved less of a handicap to her during the depression than our weak banking system did to us.

Whether the debt becomes a crushing burden or whether we use it to further our progress depends upon who holds the debt and how the money is raised to pay the interest.

Here are the important possibilities:

1. If the expenses of the government, including the interest on the debt, are met largely by heavy taxes upon business profits—i.e., by taxes upon job-giving—then they will reduce employment, output, and our standard of living, regardless of who holds the debt. Heavy taxes on profits prevent enterprise from expanding current operations or enlarging the capacity of its plants, unless the prospects for profit seem certain and the prospects for loss are slim. Hence the jobs that might be created to take advantage of long chances will not come into existence, and the country as a whole will be poorer.

2. If the expenses of the government are met largely by stiff surtaxes upon the incomes of persons who do a considerable amount of saving, and the debt is, in the main, owned by millions of small investors, then the net effect of the debt upon the volume of employment and output will be fairly neutral. The stiff surtaxes, while reducing the savings of the well-to-do, will cause them to avoid risky investments and to hold part of the savings of each year in the form of cash. This will limit the demand for goods and the volume of employment. But this effect will be partially offset if millions of small holders of the debt are led by their savings in government bonds to spend a larger part of their current income.

3. If the expenses of the government are met largely by sales taxes or other taxes on small incomes, and if the debt is held largely by the well-to-do or by business corporations, then the effect of the debt will be unfavorable to employment and production. The limitation to the spending power of the small-income group will reduce the volume of investment opportunities, and the transfer of income to the well-to-do will increase the volume of investment-seeking funds.

4. If the debt is widely distributed among millions of small holders, and the expenses of the government are met largely by taxes on individuals, if substantial exemptions from surtaxes are given for all income invested in new plant or equipment, and if there are liberal offsets for losses, then the debt will help increase employment and raise the standard of living. The millions of small holders will gain a sense of security from their accumulated savings and hence be encouraged to spend a larger portion of their current incomes. The stiff surtaxes will reduce the savings of the well-to-do; liberal exemptions for income put into new plant and equipment, and generous treatment of losses, will cause the well-to-do to invest their savings in job-giving enterprise rather than to hold them in idle cash.

But what is the situation today?

Today, non-banking corporations own nearly half of the Federal debt, commercial banks about one-fourth, and individuals less than one-fourth. Not more, and probably less, than one-tenth of the debt is held by persons earning less than $5,000—although these persons receive three-fourths of all income.

Today, about half of the revenues of the Federal government come largely from taxes which must be regarded as taxes upon the creation of new jobs. If these conditions continue, we may be sure that the debt will be a disastrous obstacle to a rising standard of living after the war.

What can be done to change this situation?

To begin with, vigorous steps should be taken to get much more of the debt into the hands of individuals, particularly of those in the small-income group. During the last three years, the incomes of individuals, after taxes, have exceeded the supply of consumer goods by $74.2 billion. In other words, individuals have been compelled, by the sheer scarcity of goods, to save over $74 billion. Of this amount, only $27.4 billion, or 37 cents out of every dollar, has gone into government bonds. Indeed, individuals have saved more in the form of cash and bank deposits than in the form of government bonds. The sale of war bonds to individuals was most disappointing in the recent drive. It was so disappointing, in fact, that I would favor a special drive for individuals only, to be scheduled before the next general drive. During 1944, when the supplies of civilian goods are severely restricted and when the fighting is at its climax, the Treasury will have its best opportunity to persuade individuals to buy more bonds. This opportunity should not be lost. An increase of at least twenty-five billion should be the goal for the next year. Every citizen should be made to understand that by buying war bonds now, he is not only helping to win the war; he is helping to make possible a more prosperous and stable America after the war.

The efforts to sell bonds to individuals should be vigorously continued throughout the shift from war production to civilian production. During this period, corporations which, up to now, have been the largest buyers of government bonds, will need all their depreciation allowances and undistributed profits to pay for new equipment, and to restore their own dealers' inventories. The government, however, will still have large bills to settle and will need to sell as many bonds as it can for some months after the end of hostilities. During this period, the demand for most types of goods is likely to exceed the immediate productive capacity of industry. Hence, the sale of bonds by the government will make for economic stability.

The huge expenses, including interest on the debt, which the government must meet after the war, require that the tax system be drastically reformed. Today, taxes fall most heavily upon those incomes which are the reward for increasing production and employment, because profits are taxed first as corporate profits, and taxed again as dividends to owners of the corporation. Surtaxes are so stiff and offsets for losses so meager that the well-to-do capitalists cannot afford to encourage and help promising young businessmen to start new enterprises.

A nation whose expenses are as large as those of the United States will be after the war must be sure that its tax system provides incentives, not penalties, for increasing production and employment.

Should the debt be repaid? Some people fear that any reduction of the debt would have a deflationary effect and cause unemployment. An opposite view was expressed by Mr. Morgenthau recently: "We have a big public debt that must be paid off, and the quicker we do that the better." Both of these views are extreme. Repayment of part of the debt during a period of depression would increase unemployment. Every period of high prosperity, however, would give the government an opportunity to pay off part of the debt without limiting employment. During these periods of prosperity, business corporations will sell government bonds in order to buy equipment; and many individuals will redeem war savings bonds in order to purchase houses, automobiles, and other goods. If the government budget runs a surplus during periods of high prosperity, and if this surplus is used to retire some of the bonds sold by corporations or redeemed by individuals, the country will be protected against a disorderly and speculative rise in prices. Thus, reduction of the debt can be made a device for stabilizing our economy.

There are two other reasons why reduction of the debt will be desirable.

In the first place, it will help prepare the country financially for a possible third World War. Determined as we are that this war shall be the last one, common sense tells us not to count on this. At any rate, we must be prepared for any eventuality.

In the second place, gradual reduction of the debt would stimulate employment by creating the expectation of lower taxes. It is not generally appreciated how much the willingness of individuals and business concerns to spend money is affected by the prospects of higher or lower taxes. One of the best ways to make individuals and enterprises spend more freely is to convince them that taxes will become a little lower, year by year.

Many people have difficulty in visualizing the day when there will be a substantial reduction in the burden of the national debt. And yet, if the country pursues wise economic policies, there is no reason why the debt burden should not be cut in half during the next generation.

The days of technological progress and economic expansion are not over. They are, in fact, only well begun. During the Twenties, the national income in dollars of constant purchasing power increased by well over 50 per cent. Between 1929 and 1939, it increased by less than 6 per cent. Perhaps the rate of the Twenties cannot be maintained indefinitely; but scientific research and development work in industry are laying the foundation for very large advances in national income. Suppose that the national income increases 33 per cent in the first decade after fighting stops (say, hopefully, 1945), 25 per cent in the next decade, and thereafter at the rate of 20 per cent a decade. In 1955, the national income (at present prices) would be about $173 billion; in 1965, about $216 billion; and in 1975, about $257 billion. By 1970, the burden of the debt would be reduced by nearly half, even if not a cent of it were repaid!

A huge public debt is a test of the character, the common sense, the foresight, and the equally important technical and engineering skill of a nation. It requires that tens of millions of small income earners be willing to become substantial holders of the debt. It requires that the nation be willing to tax itself heavily, but in ways which increase the attractiveness of job-giving or self-employment relative to job-holding; it requires that the nation be willing to pursue policies of expansion and to put a rising income for the nation ahead of the pleas of self-seeking groups in labor, agriculture, and industry.

A huge debt may so draw out the hidden powers of a people that it makes the nation wealthier rather than poorer, stronger rather than weaker.

Up to now, Americans have not met the test of a big public debt too well. Individuals have saved more in cash than in government bonds, and the country has shown little interest in avoiding the kind of taxes that reduce the demand for labor. These shortcomings, I am sure, stem largely from the fact that the American people never have had the problems of debt and taxation honestly and adequately explained to them.

I have confidence in the American people. I believe that Americans have the intelligence to understand this problem of the public debt, the character to face their responsibility regarding it, and the common sense to accept the challenge and make the most of it.

CALUMET FILLY WINS ARLINGTON $16,950 STAKE

Doggone Second to Miss Keeneland.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Miss Keeneland, a disappointment to the Calumet farm in four races this season, returned to her 1943 form in the $16,950 Cleopatra handicap at Washington Park yesterday and scored a half length victory over Coward and Du Puy's Doggone in a field of seven 3 year old fillies. Harriet Sue, the favorite, was third, 15 lengths back.

A great stretch drive under the guidance of Jockey Jess Higley accounted for the victory as the stablemate of the sensational Twilight Tear again had trouble getting away with the rest and floundered around in seventh place until she hit the far turn in the mile event.

Doggone Makes Bid.

Harriet Sue and Dr. Elise Asbury's Bell Song made the pace for that distance, but Miss Keeneland finally got up to fourth as they entered the stretch turn, with Col. C. V. Whitney's Big Push showing the way and Doggone making her bid. As they entered the stretch it was Doggone by three lengths and Miss Keeneland second, just a head in front of Big Push.

Then the Calumet filly began to step in earnest, caught Doggone in the last furlong, and breezed by the judges with plenty of speed left, altho Doggone closed gamely as Harriet Sue and Big Push stumbled in 15 lengths behind and noses apart. Hal Price Headley's Paddle was fifth, Bell Song sixth, and Headley's Letmenow last.

Miss Keeneland's time was 1:41 1-5 on the first muddy track of the Arlington Park meeting which has been running for 33 days. The winner's mutuel prices were: $7.60, $5.60, and $3.60. Doggone paid $10 to place and $4 to show. Harriet Sue refunded $3 to show.

By Miss Keeneland's victory the Calumet farm added $11,450 to its earnings and raised its season's total to $427,860. In 1941 the Warren Wright stable was the leading money winner with $475,091.

A crowd of 11,500 braved a threat of rain and wagered $926,542 to see the eight race program which had as its secondary feature the $3,000 Roamer handicap which was won by T. D. Grimes' With Regards. C. U. Yaeger's Corona Corona was second, three lengths back in a field of six. Mrs. V. E. Smith's Sirius was third. The winner, ridden by Charley Corbett, paid $5.80.

The daily double paid $128, when William Helis' Valdina Angel scored in the opener at $7.20, and H. W. Ostle's Epizar accounted for the second race at $14.20. Nick Jemas rode Valdina Angel, and Willie Bailey was up on Epizar.

ALL-STARS ROUT BREWERS, 18 TO 0; GET TRIPLE PLAY

Milwaukee, Wis., July 26 (AP).—A picked squad of American association sluggers unloaded 20 hits tonight to crush the Milwaukee Brewers, 18 to 0, the most top heavy beating in the 10 year history of league All-Star play.

After an auspicious start in which three Stars struck out in the opening inning, the Brewer pitching collapsed and their opponents counted eight runs in the second, three in the third, five in the fifth, and a final pair in the sixth, getting 20 hits in the contest.

The All-Stars also established another record by staging a triple play in the third inning. Three Star pitchers yielded only five hits to the usually heavy hitting Brewers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—The quarterly meeting of the Committee on Physical Fitness, which will be held here tomorrow and Friday, enters a new phase of its efforts to improve the physical well being of the nation. . . . It marks the beginning of active coöperation with the American Medical association. . . . The committee, after a year's operation, realized that if a program of physical fitness was to be stimulated with sufficient emphasis, the assistance of the A. M. A. was essential. . . . Consequently, the Committee on Physical Fitness submitted to the A. M. A. at the latter's national convention in Chicago six weeks ago a proposal that the A. M. A. join the National Council on Physical Fitness in a coöperative effort for a special year to stress the importance of the movement. . . . The board of trustees and the house of delegates of the A. M. A. accepted the invitation. . . . A guiding committee, composed of five members appointed by the A. M. A. and five members appointed by the National Council on Physical Fitness, under the chairmanship of Col. Leonard G. Rowntree, has been chosen. . . . The five representing the A. M. A. are Maj. Gen. George F. Lull, Dr. Roscoe L. Sensenich of South Bend, Ind., Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, Dr. William Stroud of Philadelphia, and Dr. L. A. Buie of Rochester, Minn. . . . The Physical Fitness appointees are Dr. William P. Jacobs, president of Presbyterian college; Dr. Hiram A. Jones of New York; Dr. John W. Studebaker, national director of education; A. H. Pritzlaff, athletic director Chicago's public schools, and the author, who wonders what he's doing in such high-falutin' company. . . .

Maybe you are among those who wonder what the physical fitness movement is attempting to accomplish. . . . Obviously, it hopes, by encouraging men and women in nearly all stages of life to take some suitable exercise, to lift the average health of the nation, so that never again will 4,000,000 men of military age be disqualified from the armed service of their country for physical defects. Its functions are: [1] Define the study problems relating to the promotion of physical fitness in coöperation with national agencies and organizations, and encourage the development of coöperative programs for their solution; [2] serve as a center for the stimulation of state, district, and local programs for the promotion of physical fitness; [3] make available to states, localities, and organizations, upon request, the services of specialists in physical fitness; [4] prepare materials and serve as a clearing house on informational matters pertaining to the developments of a national program on physical fitness.

A place where he may play and run
And have the sort of harmless fun
A growing pup enjoys.

A place that has a hideaway
Which he may call his own
Where he may lie the livelong day
And wrestle with a bone.

A place where scoldings are but few
And whippings, none at all,

For this boy and his dog and his fishing pole
On this lush summer's afternoon.

And I thought of a million other lads
Who such a short time ago,
Too, knew the thrill of old Moore's mill
And the swimming hole just below;
Long golden afternoons like this
Not a shade on the far horizon

Be carefree while you can.
Those unalloyed joys are only for boys—
Tomorrow you'll be a man!

Tommy Loughran Expects Marine Discharge Soon

Philadelphia, Pa., July 26 (AP).—S/Sgt. Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight boxing champion, said today he expects his honorable discharge from the marines within a week because he is over age. He will be 42 in November. He expects to enter private business after his release, Loughran said. Recently he has been in charge of physical conditioning at the marine barracks of the Philadelphia navy yard.

IRISH AND ILLINI PLAYERS ADDED TO ALL-STARS

Adams, Greenwood Undergraduates.

All-Star Roster

THE list of college football players who have accepted invitations to join the All-Stars for the game Aug. 30 in Dyche stadium against the Chicago Bears follows:

ENDS—Abe Croft, Southern Methodist; Dub Wooten, Oklahoma.
TACKLES—Clyde Johnson, Kentucky; William Aldworth, Minnesota; John Adams, Notre Dame.
GUARDS—Frank Gaziano, Holy Cross; Bob Gratziger, Minnesota.
CENTERS—John Tavener, Indiana; Vic Lindskog, Stanford; Meredith Cushing, Cornell.
BACKS—Ralph Park and Pete Layden, Texas; Gene Fekete, Ohio State; Billy Reinhard, California; Glenn Dobbs, Tulsa; Don Greenwood, Illinois.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Don Greenwood, Illinois full back, and John Adams, 225 pound Notre Dame tackle, who expect to play football for their universities this fall, have agreed to join with the College All-Stars for the battle with the Chicago Bears Aug. 30 in Dyche stadium. They will report at Northwestern university for the beginning of the All-Star practice Aug. 12.

Greenwood is the more experienced of these additions to the college cast for the 11th annual game sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. He will play a fourth college season this fall at Champaign where Coach Ray Eliot has mapped a campaign for him to provide the power in a T formation attack. Greenwood won two varsity football awards as a half back at the University of Missouri before matriculating last October at Illinois.

Home Is in Wilmette.

Before the change in university affiliation there was a hiatus of almost 14 months when Greenwood was a sergeant in the army air corps. He received a discharge last Sept. 16 and entered Illinois a month later. While Wilmette is Greenwood's home—his father is vice president of a mail order house—he attended Southwest High school in Kansas City before entering the University of Missouri.

Greenwood is president of his fraternity, Phi Delta Theta, and expects to receive the degree of bachelor of science in education next February. He also is president of the Illini Veterans of World War II., a campus organization to obtain and disseminate educational benefits and vocational rehabilitation to returning veterans.

While at Missouri Greenwood helped the Tigers defeat Oklahoma and the Sooners' great half back, Jack Jacobs, 28 to 0, in 1941. He lists this game and the Illinois victory last fall over Wisconsin, 27 to 6, as his greatest thrills in intercollegiate football.

Roster Now Includes 16 Players.

Notre Dame's Adams, who is 6 feet 7 inches tall and thus exceeds the army's maximum for enlistment, played right tackle on the Irish 1943 national championship team. He is one of four letter men returning for the 1944 season and is a senior.

Adams' home is in Charleston, Ark., and he will be 23 in September. He played football and basketball at Subiasco [Ark.] academy in 1939 and 1940 and in the former year his team won the state title. John won his first Notre Dame monogram in 1942 and this spring he was voted the Frank Hering award for the most improved performance in practice.

The All-Star squad now has 16 players but it is apparent that the group will number in excess of 50.

HEINLY, WYATT GAIN FINALS IN JUNIOR TOURNEY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Henry Heinly of the home club and Art Wyatt of Aurora, two 16 year old prep school swingers, will play 36 holes today for the annual junior closed championship of the Chicago District Golf association at the Hinsdale club.

Heinly had his troubles in winning one of yesterday afternoon's semi-finals from his high school and club pal, Connie Creed, by a 3 and 1 margin, but they were as naught compared to the difficulty Master Wyatt had in gaining the title match.

Coyle Loses in Upset.

Art, a bespectacled member of West Aurora High's golf team, finally engineered the top upset of a tournament which already had been studded with form reversals. His feat consisted of a 20 hole triumph over no less than Jack Coyle Jr., the long hitter from Springfield who only last week had run off with the C. D. G. A. junior open crown, and was considered the main favorite in the closed tourney.

Wyatt surprised the gallery by taking a 2 up lead thru the first nine holes. Coyle adjusted that by squaring the match on the 12th, but Art regained the lead by taking the 13th. Coyle thereupon won the 14th and 15th to go one up, but the Aurora youth evened it with a par at the long 17th, then went on to win the 20th and the match by holing a 15 foot putt for a par four. Coyle drove with an iron, put his next on the slope of the green, and then chipped too strongly.

Heinly Down Only Once.

Heinly, who finished fifth in the state interscholastic meet and was voted the most valuable player on the Hinsdale High golf team, was down only once in his match with Creed, and that on the first green, where he missed a short putt.

The cards for the semi-finals follow:

Par—Out	444	343	544—35
Heinly—Out	555	333	455—38
Creed—Out	455	343	556—40
Heinly leads, 2 up.
Par—In	454	344	354—36—71
Heinly—In	565	364	44
Creed—In	565	354	55
Heinly wins, 3 and 1.
Par—Out	444	343	544—35
Wyatt—Out	545	343	555—39
Coyle—Out	544	454	564—41
Wyatt leads, 2 up.
Par—In	454	344	354—36—71
Wyatt—In	456	355	354—40—79
Coyle—In	454	434	364—37—78
Match even.
Wyatt—Out	54
Coyle—Out	55

Wyatt wins, 1 up, 20 holes.

QUARTER-FINAL RESULTS.

Connie Creed, Hinsdale, beat Bill Owen, La Grange, 5 and 4.

Art Wyatt, Aurora, beat Pete Smith, Midlothian, 3 and 2.

SEMI-FINAL RESULTS.

Heinly beat Creed, 3 and 1.
Wyatt beat Coyle, 1 up, 20 holes.

Senators Shut Out White Sox in Field Meet

George Case, the major league's champion base stealer, beat Thurman Tucker of the White Sox by three feet last night in a 75 yard dash, feature attraction of a pregame field meet held before the third annual War Charity game in Comiskey park between the Sox and Washington Senators. The time was 7 and 8-10 seconds. Johnny Sullivan of the Senators was third.

The wheelbarrow special was won by Nick Altrock, Senators' coach, who piloted his land craft to victory on a blindfolded trip from second base which missed home plate, the objective, by only 10 feet. Mule Haas, Sox coach, wound up near the first base coaching box and his associate, Bing Miller, was in short right field at the finish.

Sullivan raced from home to second base in 7 and 6-10 seconds, in just beating Chicago's Ed Carnett, who ran from second base to the plate. The relay throw from the center field flag pole to home plate was won by the Washington quartet of Stan Spence, Sullivan, Al Evans, and Rick Ferrell. They got the ball to the plate in 6½ seconds.

Ferrell won the contest for accuracy throwing among catchers. He was the only competitor to hit a barrel placed on second base. Mike Tresh was second, Tom Turner third, and Evans fourth.

Winners were presented with $50 war bonds.

VICTORY MOVES CUBS UP TO 5TH PLACE IN LEAGUE

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 26.—In the course of doing their bit tonight for the war benefit funds the Cubs didn't overlook turning a profit for their own cause. They simply took the frantic, cellar dwelling Dodgers apart again before 11,738 Flatbush mourners who contributed $13,417 at the turnstiles. The score was 4 to 1, being the result of some capable pitching by Bill Fleming. It was the 23d defeat in 26 games for Leo Durocher's unhappy boys.

Lou Makes Leaping Catch.

The victory permitted the Cubs to move up to fifth in the National league standings, ahead of the Philadelphia Phillies, who lost a night game to the St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers meanwhile took over undisputed possession of last place.

The Cubs were confronted by Clyde King, 19, just out of the University of North Carolina, but refused to stand on ceremony over the fact that they might be charged with cruelty to minors. They clipped the youngster neatly in a couple of spots—the fourth and seventh innings—and that was sufficient for Fleming altho he needed outside assistance a few times. It was produced, notably, by none other than the usually ponderous Lou Novikoff and Bill Nicholson.

Due to Novikoff's rare feat of leaping up against the wall to make a catch and Nicholson doing a shoestring robbery that led to a double play at first base, Fleming was touched for only four hits in the first seven innings. Two of these, along with a stolen base and a bad throw by Don Johnson provided the Dodgers with a run in the second inning.

In the last two innings Fleming, after getting into jams, worked out on his own power. The Dodgers couldn't budge him after a double and pass had opened the eighth and he continued to stand his ground after Augie Galan had endeavored to start something by leading off in the ninth with a double.

Phil and Bill Hit Doubles.

King's first major league start extended thru eight innings and at least two of the Cubs were sorry to see him go. Phil Cavarretta clubbed him for three hits, not to mention a pass, two of the hits being incidents in the scoring innings. Nicholson limited his plunder to a pair of hits, one helping in the first bit of run production and the other driving in a mate to raise Bill's first place total to 68.

The Cubs felt out the youthful King with three hits in the first three innings but when they paired safeties on him in the fourth he

BY EDWARD PRELL.

White Sox fans, 30,879 of them, had to wait until 15 minutes before midnight last night for Jim Dykes' athletes to throw off their allergy to electric light bulbs. The Sox, after seeing a 2 to 1 lead become a 3 to 2 deficit when the Senators nailed Johnny Humphries for two runs in the ninth inning, came back in their half for a 4 to 3 victory, ending a long and eventful evening.

The crowd, setting a record in Chicago for war fund games, sat patiently in the rain for an hour and 22 minutes after the Senators had put over a run in their half of the second inning. Then the Sox tied it in their half, went ahead in the sixth, then surrendered and regained the lead for good in the ninth.

Fourth Night Time Victory.

It was the first triumph for the Sox in a night game since June 16 when they whipped the Indians in Cleveland. Since then they had lost eight games in succession under the lights. After last night's thriller the Sox had a record of four successes in 17 after dark games.

Humphries had a four hit job well in hand when George Myatt opened the Washington ninth by walking. Joe Kuhel bunted foul, then tapped a double into left. Stan Spence was walked purposely and Myatt scored while Skeeter Webb was starting a double play on Harland Clift. Then Ed Boland drove a single into center, scoring Kuhel to put the Senators ahead.

Landis Ignores Rain.

It was about this time that the fans wondered why they had followed the example of K. M. Landis, the baseball commissioner, who had sat in the rain during the long interlude with a slicker thrown across his shoulders. Their interest was slightly stirred when Ralph Hodgin singled to left. They became positively wild when Hal Trosky lined a single to right, sending Hodgin to third. Boland fumbled the ball and Trosky went to second. When Thurman Tucker was intentionally passed by Early Wynn, who had succeeded John Niggeling at the start of the eighth, the Senators were in the same position which had been costly to the Sox.

Roger Wolff came in to pitch and Mike Tresh came thru with his sixth single in two games against the Senators. It scored Hodgin with the tying run, but Trosky was cut down at the plate on Spence's throw. Johnny Dickshot batted for Webb, and hit a fly ball just far enough to Boland in right for Tucker to score the wining run.

Trosky's Single Breaks Tie.

Two earlier Sox runs were unearned. Hodgin was safe on Johnny Sullivan's fumble with one out in the second. Trosky walked, and Tucker lined a single to right for the score. Ed Carnett walked with one out in the sixth, and was forced by Hodgin, who took second when Myatt threw wild to first trying for a double play. Trosky's single broke the 1 to 1 tie.

To put the Senators' first run in motion in the second, Clift walked with one out and advanced when Humphries threw wild trying to

REDSKINS' COACH PREDICTS TEAM WILL WIN TITLE

Card-Steeler Combine Threat, Says Edwards.

Turk Edwards, husky line coach of the Washington Redskins, made two guesses yesterday as one section of the Eastern National Football league champions spent the day in Chicago en route to their training camp at San Diego, Cal.

Turk's first guess was that the Redskins will win the eastern division title. His second one was that the combined Chicago Cardinals and Pittsburgh Steelers should come thru in the west, leaving high and dry those perennials, the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers.

The Redskins' new coach, Dudley De Groot, is in San Diego awaiting arrival of the squad. Yesterday's contingent, which left at 11:15 p. m. on the California Limited, numbered 21. Three more were to join the entourage at Kansas City, including Bob Seymour, veteran full back from Oklahoma. Sam Baugh and many of the first stringers are going direct to the California base.

The Redskins, who were beaten for the 1943 title the day after Christmas by the Bears, do not play the Chicagoans this season in a league game. They will meet, tho, on Sept. 10 at Baltimore, in an exhibition. The Redskins have six other nonchampionship games, including one with the Brooklyn Tigers in Ogden, Utah, on Aug. 29.

DAVID ADVANCES IN NET TOURNEY IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., July 26 (AP).—Bob David, Chicago, seeded No. 4 in the event, advanced to the quarter-final round of play in the boys' division of the Western Junior Boys tennis tournament today, defeating Gordon Naugle, Cincinnati, 2-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Three other Chicagoans were eliminated in second round play, James Kemper losing to Ed Ray, Sinton, Tex.; seeded No. 2, 6-0, 6-0. Grant Golden being beaten by Buddy Behrens, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., top seeded, 7-5, 6-2, and Dick Mouledous, New Orleans, putting out Keston Deimling, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6.

John Wenrich, Chicago, was eliminated in the third round by James Grossnickle, Columbus, Miss., 6-4 6-4.

KIPKE CAPTURES GROSS HONORS IN EXMOOR EVENT

Comdr. Harry G. Kipke won low gross honors, with 39-41-80. R. G. Bohnen, Hinsdale, and F. C. Wright, Glen Oak, tied for second with 83 each.

T. Weldon of Exmoor, won the low net prize with 88-16-72 with three tying for second and A. Fenner of the home club winning the draw. Each shot 73.

Weldon teamed with E. C. Gritzbaugh, Westmoreland, 88-10-78, W. L. Lockridge, Sunset Ridge, 88-5-83, and A. Degen, unattached, 98-10-78, to win top honors in the foursome event with a total of 311.

lost his aim and the scoring of two runs was simple. Cavarretta led with his second single and Nicholson sent him scooting to third by singling to right. A pass to Ival Goodman filled the bases with none out and Novikoff hit a fly so deep Cavarretta scored and the two other runners advanced. Passes to Johnson and Dewey Williams then forced Nicholson across the plate.

Donald Pitches 7 Hitter for New York.

Cleveland, O., July 26 (AP).—Atley Donald exercised his old mastery over Cleveland tonight by yielding only seven hits as the New York Yankees defeated the Indians, 6 to 3, before 25,483 in a National War Fund, Inc., benefit game.

In boosting his lifetime record over the Indians to 12 victories as against only one loss, Donald retired the side in order in seven of the nine innings. Home runs by Oscar Grimes and George Stirnweiss featured the Yanks' attack on Jim Bagby, who was removed in the sixth.

Estimate Receipts at $35,000.

Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Whie Sox said last night's crowd was the largest to see any of the series of major league war fund games played in Chicago. Receipts were unavailable, but it was believed they would be close to $35,000. Games in 1942 and 1943 in Comiskey park raised $66,000 for war charities. Last night's receipts will go to the National War Fund and the Red Cross.

The teams will meet again tonight. Orval Grove will pitch for the Sox against Emil Leonard. Friends of Le Roy Schalk, the Chicagoan who plays second base for the Sox, will honor him before the game.

EVANSTON GOLF RODEO IS TAKEN BY LT. COOPER

THIS FISH COMES UPON SHORE AND STABS A GUARD

William Bargi, 17, of 2630 N. Marshfield av., a life guard at the North av. beach, was taken to Passavant hospital yesterday because, he told Lincoln Park police, a small boy caught a fish and in his excitement threw it toward Bargi. Its fins slashed the life guard's leg at the knee. Several stitches were taken to close the wound.

Vacationing at Lake Kenosha, Wis., Charles W. Baukin of 816 S. Liberty st., Elgin, toolmaker in an Elgin war plant, excited his friends with the enthusiastic reports he mailed home about his skill as an angler and his hauls of fish. On his return this week, his telephone and doorbell rang constantly and Baukin solved the mystery when he learned his friends had inserted this want ad: "Free fish—pike, bass, sturgeon. 616 S. Liberty st. Phone 5404."

1,500 IN PARK HONOR CZECH WRITER-HERO

Approximately 1,500 persons gathered in Douglas park last night and honored the memory of one of Bohemia's eminent sons, Karel Havlicek-Borovsky, statesman and journalist, who died July 29, 1856.

The ceremony, held around his monument at Ogden av. and Sacramento blvd., was sponsored by the American Czech National alliance. Principal speakers were Roderig Ginsberg and Rudolph Herman, the latter of Detroit, Mich. They recited Havlicek-Borovsky's fight for freedom of the press and equality of opportunity, for which he was exiled by the Austrian monarchy.

"He deserves a place in the minds and hearts of the truly democratic people of America," said Ginsberg. The Lyra Working Men's choir sang patriotic songs.

BURGLARS MISS RICH HAUL.

Burglars who apparently entered with a pass key took $80 from a piggy bank and $130 in jewelry and clothing, but overlooked several thousand dollars' worth of photographic equipment, Milton A. Goldstandt, 501 Surf st., reported to police yesterday.

CONTENDS OPA PLAYS POLITICS IN PRICE RULES

Tobacco Men Fight 'Fool Plan.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 28.—Representatives of 400,000 tobacco farmers in five southern states today rejected as "a fool plan" a decision by the office of price administration on flue cured tobacco ceilings and charged that the OPA has played politics in establishing prices in politically doubtful Kentucky and Maryland.

Tom Linder, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, charged that "as of now the national administration has repudiated its pledge to the farmers at the Chicago convention." He joined Harry Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau and chairman of the tobacco growers' committee, in a statement charging that OPA was swayed by political considerations when it set a ceiling price of 45½ cents a pound for burley tobacco last year. The growers' committee is in Washington protesting a lowering of tobacco ceilings.

Tops Flue Cured Average.

"The big burley producers are Kentucky and Maryland, doubtful political states," Linder and Wingate said. "Historically, burley has always cost less to produce than flue cured tobacco and has sold for less. But last year OPA set a ceiling that averaged 45½ cents a pound for burley, which was higher than the flue cured average. When we called their hand on it this week they told us that price was a mistake and intimated they intend to roll back burley prices to 41 cents. We don't think OPA will make that cut in an election year. In fact, we know they won't."

"We had urged them to announce the ceilings early and altho they had decided on the ceiling on June 3 they waited until July 20, four days before the markets were to open, to announce them," he said. "They waited until Roosevelt was nominated. But the farmers were suspicious of the delay, and they had authorized us to ask for a holiday on the market opening if the ceilings were less than 41 cents for loose and 45½ cents for tied tobacco."

Week Holiday Declared.

The ceilings announced were 39 and 43½ cents. Immediately the governors of Florida and Georgia, where tobacco is sold loose, declared a one week holiday on opening the markets, scheduled for last Monday. Today the governors of North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia, where tobacco is sold tied, issued proclamations calling for holidays. Sales in South Carolina normally start Aug. 1, and later in North Carolina and Virginia.

Tonight Wingate, Linder, and their committeemen called a meeting for Friday in Washington and said they were asking the governors of the five flue cured tobacco states and those of Kentucky and Maryland to attend.

"This is a fool plan," Wingate said. "It would leave us at the mercy of the buyers. They could treat us as they see fit. As far as we are concerned, we've tossed that plan out the window."

Mechanical Refrigerator Stockpile Down to 55,000

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The "frozen stockpile" of mechanical refrigerators has dwindled from 700,000 in February, 1942, to 55,000 and the WPB said today "it is impossible to determine when domestic mechanical refrigerators may again be made."

Rockefeller's Oil Stocks on Market Today

New York, July 26 (AP).—Reviving a plan originally announced last October, John D. Rockefeller Jr. will sell oil securities with a market value of more than 23 million dollars from his personal portfolio tomorrow.

J. D. Rockefeller Jr.

There was no comment from his office today in connection with the offering to be made after the stock exchange close thru the investment concern of Dillon, Read & Co.

The stock market, however, reacted immediately, and the blocks of stock involved declined $518,750 from their value at yesterday's closing prices.

Sale to Total 850,000 Shares.

The shares Rockefeller will sell are: 500,000 shares of Socony-Vacuum, which finished ⅝ lower at 13⅛; 200,000 shares of Standard Oil [New Jersey], which at 55⅞ was off 1⅛; 100,000 shares of Standard Oil of California, which lost ⅞ at 36⅝, and 50,000 shares of Standard Oil [Indiana], which at 32⅞ was off ⅝.

The stock concerned is identical with the amount Rockefeller had planned to sell last October in order to increase his investment in war bonds. Rockefeller Center, Inc., planned then to dispose of 150,000 shares of Sinclair Oil as part of the offering, but this stock since has been sold.

The October sale was put off, reportedly as a result of insistence by the securities and exchange commission that the shares be registered before "public offering" was made. It was learned today that the SEC had given at least tacit clearance for the "secondary offering" that is planned.

Largest "Secondary" Deal.

Sale of the securities will be one of the biggest distributions to the public of the Rockefeller holdings in the Standard Oil group of companies. These companies have no corporate ties now, but are parts of the former Standard Oil company, which was dissolved under a Supreme court decree in 1911.

The sale will be the largest ever to be effected on the stock exchange thru the "secondary offering" mechanism. This procedure permits the offering firm to set a fixed price on the stocks it wishes to distribute, to pay a special commission to dealers who present customers' orders to buy, and to support prices of the issues involved during the sale.

REFUNDING BOND ISSUE OF UTILITY TO BE OFFERED

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and 110 other underwriters today will offer $34,500,000 of New Orleans Public Service, Inc., first mortgage 3⅛ per cent bonds, due in 1974, at 103⅞ per cent and accrued interest. Proceeds will be used with other bonds to retire all the company's present funded debt, and to redeem the $7 preferred stock.

Dillon, Read & Co. and Dean Witter & Co. will offer 5 million dollars of 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds of the Hawaiian Electric company, due 1964, at 105 and accrued interest.

Electric Power Output Shows Upturn for Week

Electric power output thruout the county increased to 4,380,930,000 kilowatt hours in the week ended July 22 from 4,377,152,000 the preceding week and 4,196,357,000 a year ago, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. Output of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies, excluding sales to other electric utilities, totaled 185,662,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 187,279,000 a week earlier, and 178,991,000 a year ago.

MONEY PARLEY IGNORED MANY BOND DEFAULTS

Latin America Need Not Pay Old Debts.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

One subject passed over at the world monetary conference at Bretton Woods, N. H., was the record of defaults on foreign securities floated in the United States.

Some of the defaulters among the Latin American countries have larger gold and dollar resources today than at any time in their history. But these countries have made clear, and the United States government has acquiesced, that none of these resources will be used to clear up old defaulted obligations.

No Pressure for Debts.

A spokesman for the United States delegation to the parley explained at a press conference that the American government was not pressing the Latin American countries on past debts.

"You must remember that a great many of the foreign loans floated in this country during the 1920s were crooked loans," the spokesman said. "Bankers in this country enticed the foreign countries into taking loans at fabulous rates of interest.

"The loans were made on terms that made it impossible for the borrowers to meet amortization and interest charges. Interest rates in some instances were as high as 8 per cent and the loans were to have been repaid over periods of 12 to 15 years. Under such terms the loans were bad at the outset and it is not surprising that the borrowers defaulted."

Position of Countries Explained.

The spokesman explained the position of countries that have defaulted.

"The Latin American countries point out that their present gold and dollar balances exist because they have been unable to buy goods abroad in the quantities wanted since the beginning of the war," he said. "Thus they have been depriving themselves of goods they want. They do not feel that surplus funds built up under such conditions should be considered available to pay old debts."

Discussing operation of the proposed world bank, to which the United States would be the largest capital contributor, the conference spokesman predicted the bank would be able from its own resources to protect investors against losses thru default.

Defaults Average 25 Per Cent.

Defaults on international loans in the past have averaged about 25 per cent, he said. At this rate earnings of the bank would be sufficient to take up the bad loans, he said. Earnings of the bank will come chiefly from service charges collected by the bank on the credits it guarantees. However, the spokesman conceded that it will be many years before the earnings of the bank build up a sufficient surplus to meet defaults if they run as high as 25 per cent.

Under the plan finally approved the bank will be limited in loans and guarantees to its capital of approximately 9 billion dollars. Under earlier proposals it was to have been permitted to lend and guarantee loans up to two or three times its capital.

Vote Brill, American Car, Foundry Motors Merger

New York, July 26 (AP).—Merger of the American Car & Foundry Motors company into the Brill corporation was approved by Brill stockholders at a special meeting today after similar action had been taken earlier by stockholders of American Car & Foundry Motors. The merged corporation will become the A. C. F. Brill Motors company.

Fair's Capital Plan Voted by Stockholders

A recapitalization plan providing for the issuance of 22,200 shares of new 6 per cent preferred stock, a mortgage loan of $1,400,000, and other changes were approved by preferred and common stockholders of The Fair at a special meeting yesterday.

S. S. Kresge.

Altho objections were filed by two persons, the directors took several of the necessary steps to execute the decision of the stockholders. Other steps will be taken soon, it was said.

Fails to Get Injunction.

Objectors were Louis Goldman, attorney for two minority stockholders, and Bernard W. Flynn, who controls 250 shares of the current 7 per cent preferred stock. Goldman last Saturday sought but failed to obtain an injunction to prevent the holding of the meeting. Other requests placed before the court when the injunction was asked are pending, Goldman said.

Besides the new stock and the mortgage loan, the plan provides for the purchase of 12,600 shares of the outstanding 7 per cent preferred stock, and the exchange of the new stock, plus $31.50 a share, for the remaining shares of the 7 per cent preferred. The cash represents the arrearage in dividends on the 7 per cent issue.

S. S. Kresge, board chairman, said the change in the corporate structure will improve substantially the company's financial condition and enable its officers to deal more efficiently with business problems arising after the war.

Minority View Opposed.

A group of minority stockholders, however, holds a contradictory view. They have said in a letter mailed to other preferred holders that the plan is unlawful and benefits the common stockholders at the expense of the preferred.

The letter said the plan, by giving up the back dividends on the old preferred, clears the way for common stock dividends which would accrue principally to the benefit of Kresge, who owns or controls 303,867 of the 372,100 common shares.

Profits have increased substantially since 1941, with earned surplus of $1,695,434 as of Jan. 29, 1944, and the management has said it believes working capital should be kept intact to meet post-war conditions.

WRIGHT DISPUTE SETTLED; OTHER STRIKES ENDED

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

F. L. Innis, assistant regional director of the CIO United Automobile Workers, announced yesterday that a 36 hour dispute affecting between 2,400 and 7,000 employes of the Wright Aeronautical corporation plant near Cincinnati, O., had been settled.

Strikers voted to return to their tasks at the American Rolling Mills company in Ashland, Ky., where a walkout had kept 2,500 off duty.

Two work stoppages continued in Cleveland. Three thousand CIO-UAW workers were idle at the Ohio Crankshaft company, making vital parts for B-29 Super Fortress airplane engines, in a protest over discharge of two inspectors, and 1,100 AFL-UAW workers left their jobs at the National Malleable and Steel Castings company in a wage dispute.

Merritt-Chapman Orders Dividend on Senior Stock

Merritt-Chapman & Scott corporation, construction and salvage company, yesterday declared a dividend of $9.12½ on the 6 per cent preferred stock which is in arrears.

INLAND HOLDS STEEL OUTPUT AT HIGH LEVEL

Rise in Costs Cuts Half Year Profit.

The rate of operations of the Inland Steel company has been maintained at a high level notwithstanding the shortage of labor and other adverse conditions, Edward L. Ryerson, chairman, reported to stockholders yesterday. Ingot production during the first six months of 1944 was 1,856,235 net tons or 109.7 per cent of rated capacity, compared with 1,781,842 net tons, or 107.2 per cent of capacity a year earlier.

Altho this production indicates larger sales for the 1944 period, profits decreased because of increased production costs, Ryerson said. Net earnings were $5,171,418, or $3.17 a share, against $5,807,654, or $3.55 a share in the first half of 1943. Profit for the quarter ended June 30 was $2,659,022, or $1.63 a share, against $2,512,396, or $1.54 a share a year ago.

Retires Serial Note Issue.

Ryerson said the company had paid off the balance of its 1¾ per cent serial notes, outstanding, in the amount of $1,400,000. This reduction of the capital debt will be applied against excess profits taxes for 1944 to the extent allowed by the internal revenue act, he said.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company has completed renegotiation for 1943 with the navy price adjustment board, agreeing to refund $5,055,965 to the government in addition to major voluntary price reductions made on individual orders, A. W. Robertson, chairman, disclosed at a board meeting in New York.

The result after taxes is a reduction in net income of $953,732 from the amount estimated in the company's annual report, making actual 1943 profit $21,401,568, Robertson said.

Many Contracts Terminated.

Altho production in the first six months of 1944 exceeded that of any other six months in the history of the company, he reported, one of the most important items to receive attention has been the termination of war contracts. During June the number of open, unsettled terminations increased from 446 to 521, tho the booking value involved decreased from approximately 108 million dollars to 94 million. In the same month, 286 new terminations involving almost 9 million dollars in booking value were received.

Net income for the first six months of 1944, after adding the post-war refund of the excess profits tax, and deducting sums set aside for post-war contingencies, was $10,470,701, or $3.26 a common share, compared with $9,039,888, or $2.82 a share, a year ago.

NEW MEXICO CITY TRIP SCHEDULED BY AM. AIRLINES

American Airlines Monday will initiate a thru flight from Chicago to Mexico City, L. W. King, vice president, announced yesterday. The new flight is scheduled to leave Chicago at 6:10 p. m. daily and will arrive in Mexico City at 8:33 a. m. the following morning. The new operation was made possible by the return of some of American's equipment by the army, King said.

Slash Truck, Bus Tire Quota; Operators Appeal to Brooks

Cut More Than Half

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The August allocation of heavy truck and bus tires for civilian use will be 60,000 casings, smallest quota since rationing started, compared with the July quota of 135,000, the office of price administration announced tonight.

Despite an emergency situation reported by truck and bus operators, the war production board ordered the deep slash at a special session at which members agreed the army's requirements for heavy tires "must be met at all costs." The WPB said the decision was necessary even tho it "involves serious risks in the field of absolutely essential civilian transportation."

Predict Drop in Service.

Bus and truck operators had advised their services might have to be curtailed unless they received more tires.

WPB said the supply is not expected to improve substantially in September. It said army officials asserted that any diversion of heavy tires to the home front might require modification of military plans.

Allocations of the last four months have averaged about 130,000 tires, altho the office of defense transportation estimates 165,000 are needed each month to keep the present number of trucks and buses on the road.

Change Rationing System.

OPA authorized its district offices to form truck and bus tire rationing panels to pass on applications made to local boards and issue ration certificates. It said this was necessary because the "total quota is too small for effective division" among the country's 5,500 local boards.

Passenger car tire allocations for August remain at 1,950,000, the number provided this month. The quota for smaller truck tires is 280,000, compared with 375,000 for July.

'Extinction in Weeks'

Members of the Illinois Motor Truck Operators association, alarmed over dwindling tire supplies available to the trucking industry, yesterday petitioned Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] to demand a congressional investigation or introduce legislation which would end the truck tire scarcity.

Echoing sentiments expressed Monday by members of the Central Motor Freight association, the Illinois group put the tire situation up to Brooks after a meeting at which all agencies handling truck tires were sharply criticized.

"Without impairing the war need, good management could find means for a sane and sensible allocation of products necessary to the maintenance of transportation, which is as much a war effort as the manufacture of guns," the message to Sen. Brooks said. "The motor transportation crisis is national; extinction is not a matter of months, but of weeks for most operators."

Stock Market Upturn Loses Power Early

New York, July 26 (AP).—Stocks advanced moderately today, but the rise was stalled at the end of the first hour when Wall street heard that a large block of Rockefeller holdings of Standard Oil stocks would be distributed by secondary offering tomorrow.

The market made little response to war or domestic events. It was apparent that both speculative and investment groups were undecided whether to regard last week's sharp setback as a full technical readjustment or just a beginning.

CHICAGO LIST FIRMER.

Price gains outweighed declines in increased trade of 32,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume leaders included Commonwealth Edison, up ⅝; Standard Dredging, up ¼ at 3⅛, a new 1944 high, and Chicago corporation, unchanged. New high marks also were set by Liquid Carbonic, up 1, and Spiegel, up ¼.

ARGENTINE BONDS SAG.

New York, July 26 (AP).—Argentine bonds fell 1¼ to 3 points today in the wake of the state department's denunciation of that nation for "deserting the allied cause."

Rail issues made spotty progress. Early gains in the carrier list were in some cases replaced by losses but bidding for higher rated loans kept the market tilted upward.

Crude Oil Flow Climbs to Another New Record

New York, July 26 (AP).—Another new crude oil production record was set last week with daily average output of 4,615,450 barrels, the American Petroleum institute reported today.

STUDY SHOWS PROFIT OF WAR PRODUCERS HAS BEEN CURTAILED

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers issued a study today disclosing corporate profits, in relation to volume of business, dropped from 3.1 per cent in 1939 to 2.8 per cent in 1943.

"In the light of these figures, it seems ridiculous to say that the congress has failed to curb war profits," it said. "There are individual exceptions, without a doubt, and American business men dislike these exceptional cases just as earnestly as the government and the public. However, for nearly a half million active corporations, most of the excess profits have been effectively scooped up by taxes and poured into the federal treasury."

The N. A. M. study, which it said was based primarily on commerce department figures, gave corporation gross receipts in 1939 as 130 billion 972 million dollars, and net income as 4 billion 87 millions, compared with 298 billions and 8 billion 200 million, respectively, in 1943.

SUPPORTS SOLE INTERNATIONAL AVIATION LINE

Rivalry Is Wasteful, Says Patterson.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 26.—Postwar passenger traffic in the North Atlantic will not be sufficient to support more than one international air transport company, W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, testified today at the civil aeronautics board's hearing on the application of American Airlines to purchase control of American Export Airlines.

More than one operating company in the field would mean uneconomic competition and heavy governmental subsidies if the American flag lines are to survive in the struggle for patronage with the foreign companies expected to be in the trans-Atlantic race, Patterson said.

Aligned with Pan American.

United was thus definitely aligned with Pan American Airways in the issue which is not directly involved in the hearing, but is recognized by all air lines as the principal point at stake: whether domestic air lines are to fly internationally over the oceans, or be restricted to the United States and bordering nations while a single line carries the American flag thruout the world as a chosen instrument.

Export Airlines is flying Atlantic routes in competition with Pan American Airways which has no other American transocean competition. Export is a subsidiary of American Export Lines, a steamship company, which has been ordered to divest itself of the air line. American Airlines proposal is to buy 51.4 per cent stock control of Export for 3 million dollars. American in this way would beat the other transcontinental lines, United and T. W. A., into the Atlantic field.

Argument of Pan American.

Pan American, opposing American's entry into the Atlantic, holds that one company, with the domestic air lines having some financial participation in its ownership, is the best solution to the United States' post-war air expansion.

Patterson said his views are not defined in detail, but that intensive statistical studies of trans-Atlantic travel had convinced him that if all the domestic lines contribute their selling and traffic facilities to one carrier, the American line will be in the most favorable position to compete with foreign lines and will require less assistance from the government.

On cross examination by attorneys for Export and American Airlines, Patterson said he believed the domestic lines should not only have a financial stake in the trans-Atlantic operator, but also should participate in some manner flight operations to foster healthy competition and assure scientific and technical advances.

Patterson Tells Issue.

"The issue at hand is not the welfare of a particular air line," Patterson said. "The actual issue is the welfare of the United States in air transportation in the post-war world. The potential volume of business which will be available to the air operators in the trans-Atlantic does not justify three additional air lines on top of the one already established by Pan American without the unnecessary waste of government funds."

Among the 17 scheduled air transport companies in the country, United is the only one supporting Pan American's position. The others have formed a committee to make a common fight for a national policy of competition on international routes.

American and Export lines' attorneys contend the issue is not at stake in the present hearing which should be restricted to the question of Export's ownership. They objected to Patterson's appearance and the nature of his testimony, which brought the policy question to the front.

Declares Policy Fixed.

"When the CAB granted Export's certificate in the Atlantic, it held that there was need for the route, and that competition with Pan American was desirable," said Hamilton O. Hale, attorney for American. "Until the board or congress changes that policy, there should be no testimony concerning a chosen instrument."

Henry Friendly, attorney for Pan American, argued that American's purchase is a device to insure that the CAB will make permanent the temporary certificate under which Export now flies.

Robert G. Ferguson, assistant treasurer of Pan American, entered an exhibit designed to show that the price American would pay for Export is too high, and predicated not on the physical value of its properties but on the value of its trans-Atlantic operating certificate.

RYE FALLS, OATS WEAK AS RAINS AID CORN CROP

Another break in rye futures and weakness in the oats market resulted from fall of needed rains in the eastern corn belt yesterday, but the wheat market held about steady, supported by futures purchases for milling interests covering flour sales.

At one time rye was $1.06, the lowest since mid-June. Liquidation ran the market into stop loss orders and buyers backed away, discouraged by the decline and the unsettlement of the trade.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ¼ cent lower. Oats were off ⅛ to ⅜, rye, 1⅜ to 1½, and barley, ⅜ to 1.

BARLEY CEILINGS CUT.

Washington, D. C., July 26 (AP).—The office of price administration tonight cut barley ceiling prices an average of 3 cents a bushel in production areas, effective Aug. 1. It said the new schedule would return parity prices to farmers for the 1944 crop.

HOG PRICES END MOSTLY STEADY; SELL AT CEILING

Most hogs sold at ceiling prices yesterday in the Chicago stock yards, leaving the market for the majority steady. An advance of 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds in sows brought many of these also to the ceiling level.

Competition for the dwindling supplies of top grade cattle sent some to new 25 year peaks for July. Other classes declined as much as 25 cents. The $17.75 top was paid for seven carloads.

Lambs were strong to 15 cents higher on improved demand. The $14.65 top for natives was the highest since Monday of last week.
